30 Crewmen Jump Cruise Liner

They're Flying Home To U.K.

By DON COLLINS

They were very young—some of them only boys.

And minutes before they had been standing there on the dock at Ogden Point, hollering and giving victory signs and demonstrating a goodly amount of bravado.

● Cyclists won $1,600 race, which cost them $3,700. Page 16

But now most of them had grown momentarily quiet. Reality was setting in.

Their ship really was leaving without them.

And there they were, 30 young British crew members from the Alaska cruise ship, the P & O liner Arcadia, illegally on strike and illegally in Canada.

It was a moment for big decisions.

"Gee, I guess I'll phone my mum," a teenager among them said. "She'll be so worried when the news reaches England."

Today, if all goes according to plan, the 30 will reach England themselves.

The warning from their captain that they might be charged as deserters never materialized.

"We certainly would want to avoid that," a spokesman for the Canadian immigration department said as the liner disappeared from the harbor en route to San Francisco.

Fly Home Today

With the help of the immigration department, P & O assistant branch manager Ray Graves of Vancouver found accommodation for the strikers in the Vancouver Seamen's Mission overnight.

He also arranged to fly them home today.

There was a question about who would pay for the flight. But even the strikers seemed to think it would come out of their pay at some future date.

Where Victoria was concerned, that was pretty well the end to an event that no one could really mistake for Mutiny on the Bounty.

But it was colorful while it lasted — full of militant talk, fun-making, a little singing, a murmured threat or two and some honest doubts.

'Bad Conditions'

Some 40 men walked off the ship Thursday afternoon — most of them dining room waiters with a scattering of bell boys — saying they were striking because of bad conditions.

They gave one official reason for their strike — the refusal of their demand for two hours of blanket overtime each day.

They are members of the National Union of Seamen in Britain and while they make up such a small part of a 740-man crew, there was a possibility there absence would create problems for the big liner.

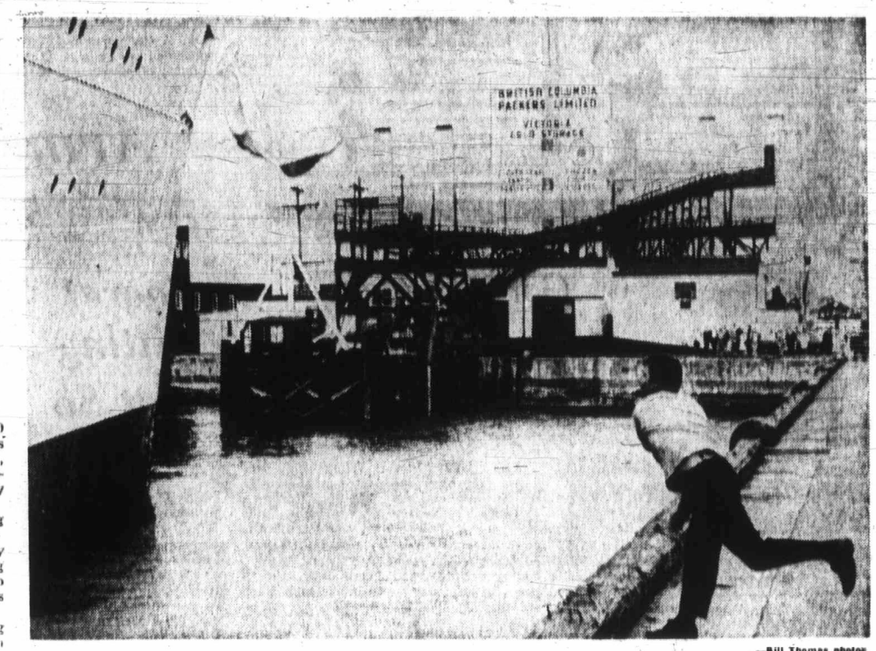

'They Won't'

Only six returned to the ship after the warning about possible desertion charges. They might have almost 900 passengers to serve in two dining rooms.

Much depended on whether another 50 waiters from what used to be Portuguese Goa — now part of India — would serve the passengers.

To Clarify Soviet Aims

NATO Mission To East Urged

LISBON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp called Thursday for the appointment of an individual envoy to Eastern Europe by the NATO alliance to seek clarification of recent Soviet proposals for talks on East-West troop reductions.

● NATO meets amid bomb blasts. Page 14

Sharp told a news conference following the first day of a two-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers that Canada has no particular views on who should serve as envoy but he added he would be happy with the choice of retiring NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio.

He said the Russians had refused to spell out details of their proposal to Prime Minister Trudeau who discussed troop reductions during a recent visit to the Soviet Union.

Canada would not oppose a recommendation by U.S. State Secretary William Rogers and West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel that a special NATO meeting of deputy foreign ministers be called in several months to discuss the troop reduction issue in greater detail.

Canada's permanent representative to NATO, Ross Campbell, told the news conference France is opposed to the idea of East-West talks on mutual troop reductions and would not participate in such discussions.

Sources said French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann told the meeting efforts should be concentrated on trying to remove basic causes of conflict in Europe before talks on troop reductions.

Sources indicate that the French have been extremely skeptical toward the Russian proposals. France has no part in NATO military planning but may fear that its nuclear forces could be affected by any East-West agreement on force reductions.

Police Find Suspect Really Marked Man

"You look peaked," Jimenez told the suspect. "Are you sick?"

"I am sick," replied Walther. "I've got the chickpox."

The policeman, who had never had the disease, now is waiting at home to see if he caught it — and other officers are trying to decide how to fumigate the two squad cars in which the suspect rode.

Marine Pilots Compulsory?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons transport committee voted Thursday to compel ships to carry marine pilots in all the main shipping regions in Canada. Under current legislation, the only compulsory pilotage district is in the Great Lakes.

Wage Dispute Reaction

Victoria Police Work 'to Rules'

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Victoria police union members are expressing unhappiness over their wage dispute with the city by "working to the rules," a spokesman for the union confirmed Thursday.

Spokesman Kenneth Horsman told the Colonist: "The members of the union have decided to provide a service according to the rules, which you might call working according to the rules. The decision was made at their own discretion. The executive had no bearing in this whatsoever."

The statement confirmed a Colonist story of last Sunday which said police had changed the emphasis of their law enforcement away from arrests and on to warnings since about noon Wednesday, May 26.

It was at that time that it became known the city had offered police a 7½-per-cent pay increase over the next year and the union representatives who received the offer at a meeting that morning had rejected it.

Horsman said he was "not prepared at this time to interpret the meaning of the phrase 'according to the rules'."

However, he added: "I can possibly say one of the areas you might expect the members to act is they would not expose themselves to unnecessary dangers, as they often do, in order to exercise an arrest."

He also said the union "is seeing our solicitor this weekend to find out what our legal standing would be in some of the areas suggested by our members."

Horsman declined comment on how members might decline to expose themselves to danger, and on what other areas of working to the rules had been suggested.

Other sources indicated the

Suddenly, Mass Exodus

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — A venturesome cow Thursday strayed from a hill onto the roof of a small church and fell through to break up a mass being held at the time.

The crash and accompanying noise panicked churchgoers who fled into the street. The main altar of the church was destroyed but the animal escaped injury.

Foreign Money Taps Stay On—with 'Care'

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Energy Minister J. J. Greene apologized in advance Wednesday for giving a speech he had not seen until a short while earlier.

But, he told a petroleum association meeting, he would stick to the text.

"We have a new policy in Ottawa. All speeches must be delivered to the prime minister for clearance in case there is any anti-Russian or anti-American content.

"But I can say one thing anybody who thinks we do not need more foreign capital than we have had in the past doesn't understand the Canadian economy."

Greene

Formerly, Canada accepted United States capital on the basis "all we want is your money and we don't care how you develop our resources.

"Now we are saying we care."

The government is awaiting the results of studies before imposing strict rules on the acceptance of foreign capital, he told the petroleum society of the Canadian institute of mining and metallurgy.

"In a short time we'll start making decisions.

"We have good cards to play and we have to be good traders on our energy resources."

Defence Budget Jumps in Egypt

United Press International

Egypt unveiled a record-breaking $1.5 billion defence budget Thursday, 24 per cent of its total expenditures for the coming year, Israel, apparently fearful of the new Soviet-Egyptian "friendship" pact, sought U.S. assurances of continued arms supplies, Jerusalem sources said.

Egyptian Finance Minister Abdel Aziz Hijazi told a Cairo news conference the $1,500 billion allocation "to continue supporting demands of the battle and national security needs" for fiscal 1971-72 exceeded last year's figure by $175 million and was included in a total budget of $6,486 billion. The budget will go to parliament June 12.

By comparison, the Israeli defence budget is 39 per cent of its total spending; that of the United States is 32.1 per cent.

Political sources in Amman said Jordan's King Hussein gave the green light to a new crackdown on guerrillas when he said in a letter to Premier Wasfi Tel, "We wish our stand in the face of these people to be strict and decisive, without hesitation, forgiveness or bargaining."

Cruiser-Hit Girl Wins $70,362

VANCOUVER (CP) — Damages of $70,362 were awarded Thursday in B.C. Supreme Court to Patricia Vallery, 26, for injuries suffered as a pedestrian when she was struck by a police car after it was involved in a collision with another car.

Policemen 'Work to Rules'

"danger" aspect of the matter could include incidents involving gunfire or speedy chases.

Horseman was asked specifically about three points in the Colonist story and, in each case would not go into detail. They were:

● A report that fewer arrests are being made and fewer tickets issued, and police instead are taking such action as issuing a 24-hour roadside suspension instead of an impaired driving charge.

● A statement that some policemen are stepping up the practice of putting drunks in jail overnight to sleep it off instead of issuing charges of causing a disturbance by being drunk.

● A claim that the objective of these changes of emphasis may be to deprive the city of revenue received through fines.

The wage objective of police is parity with Vancouver, which would mean a pay boost of about 21 per cent.

Horsman said the working-to-rules situation "could progressively get worse" and added it was understandable that the morale of the union members was "at a very extreme low, and this is bound to affect their efficiency as police officers."

He said the last thing all union members want is to be put into the position of not doing their sworn duty — protecting the public — and stated such a situation "would be thoroughly despised by every member."

He made no comment about a possible strike in Victoria. The story last Sunday said all policemen were against such a move.

Asked if Victoria could expect the violence that struck Montreal when its police went on strike, he said it could and added a Victoria police commission argument that Victoria is not experiencing as much crime as Montreal "is ridiculous."

Said Horsman: "I believe Victoria has in the last 10 years had more police officers shot than has any other city in B.C."

The union spokesman also disclosed a letter was received Monday by the Victoria police commission saying the union is "ready to meet at any time" to discuss the dispute.

The other sources said the working-to-rules decision was made at a police union meeting Tuesday when members also decided to suggest arbitration of the dispute rather than have to go before the B.C. Mediation Commission.

Deputy Chief Ray Maitland declined comment on the union announcement. Chief John Gregory is out of town at a meeting of police chiefs.

Mayor Courtney Haddock said: "My sympathies are with the police, but the city cannot compete with other highly industrialized cities like Vancouver. If people are dissatisfied with the wages we pay, they should look for more lucrative fields of employment.

"I have great admiration for our police force. I hope they are reasonable men and they will act as such. No matter what their arguments, we can't consider parity with Vancouver.

"I don't think it will ever come to a strike but, if it does, then so be it."

As for arrest totals, a study of new Victoria arrests in Victoria Provincial Court showed 88 in the first 21 court days in May — up to the Wednesday the wage offer was made and rejected — or an average of slightly more than four a day. Since then, 12 new arrests in seven days.

Tickets issued by police normally average 50 a day or more. Since that Wednesday, they have averaged fewer than 20 a day.

Rogers challenged Sharp's statement that Trudeau had been given the impression that the Russians were extremely serious in their proposals on troop reductions. If this was the case, said Rogers, why had the Soviets not outlined their plans in detail to Trudeau?

Sharp, who leaves Lisbon for Paris this weekend, said the Russians may have been reluctant to outline their plans to Trudeau because they are awaiting the appointment of NATO representative to deal with the matter.

The minister will attend a meeting of ministers from countries in the Organization for Economic co-operation and Development in Paris. He said the meeting is extremely important and he would use it to warn against the dangers of any restrictive trade policies which might be adopted following British entry into the Common Market. Europe must be outward-looking and liberal in its trade policies, he said.

Everett Clubs To Play Here

Two teams from Everett, Wash., will play exhibition games against Victoria Cosmopolitan Babe Ruth opponents this weekend at Lambrick Park.

Metropolitan Savings will take on Paisley Cleaners beginning at 2 p.m. Saturday while Ballard Merchants play Webb and Trace at 6:00.

On Sunday, Metropolitan Savings meet Cosmos at 10:30 a.m. and Ballard takes on Cedar Hill Nurseries at 2 p.m.

Radio Taken

A portable AM-FM radio valued at about $100 was stolen early May 25 from a car owned by Ken Dolphin, of 504 Selkirk, while the car was parked in front of his home, Victoria police reported Thursday.

Highrise Blight

THE WEALTH migrated northeast to posh Uplands some years ago now. The status symbol of the Rockland area moved with it and while I refuse to mourn for lost status symbols, I do mourn for any deterioration of what has to be the most gracious few square miles of our town.

The quietly-mellowed old homes and mansions of architectural splendor, the magnificent formal and informal shrubbery, the tall firs, the leafy shade of the chestnuts, the little streets tucked away from the hustle of the world.

A civic assets that can't possibly be measured in terms of money. An asset that should be protected by uncompromising laws, an asset that should be restored wherever restoration is necessary.

THE HIGHRISE has made its first blightful invasion. Camosack Manor, a fine, modern building as fine modern buildings go, but totally out of step with the mood of Rockland. In effect, an ugly scar to sit there forever. Like sticking a skyscraper in the middle of Venice.

Many fine old homes have been turned into rest homes, apartment dwellings. Barclay Manor, Golden Manor, Braeside, Rockland Hospital — but they've retained their charm, the pride of upkeep.

But to tear them down for modern apartment buildings would be the unpardonable crime. No other area in this city exemplifies Victoria as much as Rockland.

THE PROBLEM, of course, is to get elected officials to shuck off their apathy towards such an asset. It might be money well spent to send the mayor, an alderman or two and the town planner on a junket to places that have preserved and indeed, improved the old charm.

Let them view the splendor of the Carmel business district — in fact, the entire city of Carmel. Surely one of the most delightful spots in all of California.

Let them move over to Monterey to the Cannery Row area — a place steeped in the nostalgia of John Steinbeck, a place out of the past that charms the eyeballs out of tourists.

LET THEM try Los Gatos, California, where a fine old Spanish-style high school was set for the wrecker's hammer before a concerned group manned the breach and saved the place. Today it's called Old Town and school rooms have become shops and boutiques fairly reeking with the elegance of long ago. It is now the biggest single asset of that city and other cities in the immediate area are planning like restorations.

Send them to the oppressive heat of New Orleans to view the wonders of the French Quarter. Old, some of it decaying, but all of it full of charm, full of excitement, full of life. No section of New Orleans is as renowned, no section draws the tourists as it does.

SEND THEM to old Quebec City to view the restoration, or to sections of Halifax that are undergoing restoration. If preserving the past isn't so all-fired important, why has the government of Canada set up a historical restoration department? Why would it spend the great sums of money facelifting Louisburg to its magnificent best?

Journey then to Deerfield, Main, a little town that has captured the imagination of hundreds of thousands of visitors with its antiquity, carefully preserved to the point you are in an entirely different world.

Vancouver's Gastown is in the humble stages of beginning. Many millions of dollars will be spent there eventually before it becomes an area that will drew people from every corner of Canada. Even now, they flock to see what has been accomplished.

THE POWERS that be in our town must be made to realize what important gold mines we have here. They must be bludgeoned with representation from concerned individuals and groups.

Once they do undertake a rebuilding of the Wharf area, they're stuck with it for all time. Once they allow highrises to blight a Rockland area, once they tear down fine old homes to allow such building, there's no turning back.

Easy as hell to tear down — impossible to put back. We have a glorious chance in this city — a chance few cities have. Let's not blow it forever.

Secret Sitting Not So Secret

BOSTON (UPI) — Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said a Seattle businessman accidentally got into a meeting of the National Security Council in 1961, received a top-secret briefing on the Berlin crisis and a greeting from President John F. Kennedy before he was discovered.

Both the names and the situation have been changed in Salinger's novel, On Instructions of My Government, which he discussed Wednesday at the convention of the American book sellers' association. But Salinger said the basis of the incident was true.

Salinger said the businessman was met by presidential aides and security officers and he got into the meeting just as the lights went out and they started to project top-secret slides and information on the Berlin crisis."

The man realized he was in the wrong meeting when he saw the president, the head of the CIA and the secretary of state, Salinger said. In fact, Kennedy walked by him at the end of the briefing, patted him on the knee and said, "Things are pretty tough today."

He was discovered shortly after the president left. Officials solved the security breach, Salinger said, by requiring the man, a retired air force colonel, to telephone Washington every 15 minutes and tell officials where he was.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

'Thinning' of Bones

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr Thosteson: Please tell me what osteoporosis is, and if there are any injections or vitamins that would help is there any cure for it? — Mrs. R.H.L.

We think of our bones as being fixed and permanent, but that isn't the way it is. Our flesh and our blood are constantly being replaced, a cell at a time. The same is true of our bones.

The shape of the bones is preserved by a matrix, or sort of pattern, with the strength and density of the bones provided by large amounts of calcium.

The same particles of calcium don't stay there indefinitely. The body is constantly taking some away and replacing them with others.

Unfortunately as the body ages, the balance of removal and replacement sometimes get out of kilter. Calcium is withdrawn more rapidly than it is replaced.

The result is a "thinning" of the bones, a gradual loss of density, and hence of strength. This loss of density is apparent in x-rays. In time, more apparent consequences can occur — weight-bearing bones (the legs, for instance) may become somewhat bowed. If the spine is affected, there can be pain and stooping. If the hip bones are thinned, there is more risk of a fracture.

Keep in mind, however, that in other individuals there may be osteoporosis, but not to a degree that causes any real trouble.

I can't in good conscience say that there is a "cure" for osteoporosis, but at the same time I won't say that nothing can be done for it, because usually something can.

It occurs in both sexes, but is more often noticeable in women who have passed menopause, suggesting that the change in hormone level in the body probably has a good deal to do with the situation.

Therefore treatment with hormones, plus attention to a good diet — plenty of protein, and plenty of calcium, especially from milk and milk products — is called for. Recently sodium fluoride has been found to increase density in osteoporosis.

Since bones (as well as other tissues) thrive best by being used, the patient with osteoporosis is urged to remain as active as possible. Naturally if there is any appreciable brittleness of the bones, as occurs with osteoporosis, the patient is warned not to be foolhardy about things. Stay active but guard against falling.

Meteor To Be Sold? No Decision–Agent

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Norwegian cruise ship Meteor, in which 32 members of the crew burned to death May 22, is about to be sold, a ship's officer said Wednesday.

John Clark, second engineer aboard the Meteor, said he and a handful of key crew members are remaining in Vancouver to show sailors hired by the new owners how various machinery aboard the vessel operates.

However, Odd Grunnerud of Star Bulk Shipping, agents for the vessel, said a final decision has not been made.

'Lady Blunt' and buyer

'Like New' Strad $201,600 Sale

LONDON (Reuter) — A Stradivarius violin which once lay forgotten in a Spanish attic for more than 100 years was sold today for $201,600, a world record price for any musical instrument.

It had been expected to fetch $120,000 at the auction at Sotheby's. In the same salesroom three years ago, a Stradivarius sold for a then record price of $52,800.

The buyer in today's sale was a well-known London firm of violin makers and dealers, William Hill and Sons.

Sotheby's said it was almost like new and credited this to the violin's spending more than a century unused in a Spanish attic. It was discovered by the French dealer J. B. Vuillaume in 1864.

Lady Anne Blunt paid £260 — now $624 — for the violin and kept it for 50 years. Subsequently it was sold in Germany and passed through a succession of collectors.

Trudeau Replies to Thatcher:

Constitutional Parley Delay Impossible

OTTAWA (UPI) — A request from Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher to postpone the June 14 to 16 constitutional conference in Victoria, was turned down Thursday by Prime Minister Trudeau.

Thatcher requested the delay after being briefed on the pre-conference meetings between provincial and federal ministers held in Ottawa Monday and Tuesday.

Trudeau replied that he checked with Premier Bennett about the possibility of setting back the conference, but was informed that because of B.C.'s centennial events, the conference could not be rescheduled until November.

"In this circumstance, since I believe the other premiers share my opinion that a long postponement of this important conference would be undesirable, I have concluded that we should go ahead with our plans to meet on the 14th, 15th and 16th of this month, and I am so informing the other premiers," the telegram read.

Death Squad Scored

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — The Roman Catholic Church Thursday condemned Brazil's so-called death squads and the "scandalous immunity" with which they apparently operate.

The death squads are made up of off-duty police who systematically kill criminals. They killed 16 men last month alone in the greatgr Rio de Janeiro area and are held responsible for the deaths of more than 1,000.

Eastern Forests Blaze

Body Found in Ashes

CHIBOUGAMAU, Que. (CP) — The burned body of a young man was found near the ruins of a sawmill Thursday while a force of 175 volunteer firefighters battled a blaze threatening this community in northwestern Quebec.

Provincial police said the unidentified victim, found wearing a hardhat near the Chibougamau lumber yards, was a man under 30 years of age.

Directors of the lumber mill, the only major property casualty so far, said none of their employees was missing.

The forest fire, which started Saturday and was considered under control until winds rekindled it Wednesday night, has been augmented by a blaze at nearby Chapais.

The hoped-for rain still had not materialized Thursday afternoon.

The main fire has destroyed six automobiles and ravaged 10,000 acres of jackpine and black spruce in a 30-square-mile area in this region 250 miles north of Montreal.

The efforts of the firefighters were being concentrated near Chibougamau itself where Wednesday night 40 men dug a fire trench around the town.

Meanwhile, firefighters were called in to combat blazes which broke out near four other northwestern Quebec communities Wednesday.

A fire covering 150 acres was threatening the village of St. Dominique near Amos Thursday while a water bomber was called to fight a blaze burning over 500 acres near Senneterre. Two fires at Lac des Commissaires near Roberval were under control.

About 120 firefighters struggling to subdue a 250-acre fire near the frontier-type James Bay community of Moosonee, Ont., moved closer to that goal Thursday.

A shift in wind Thursday afternoon blew the fire in the direction of the Moose River, south of the town.

Guards Deny Assaults

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — Ten of 11 Millhaven penitentiary guards appeared in provincial court Thursday to plead not guilty to 24 charges of assaulting prisoners.

The 11th man, Edgar Albert Sweet of Napanee, who faces a charge of common assault, was reported ill in hospital.

The men were remanded to July 19, fixed as the tentative trial date by Provincial Judge P. E. D. Baker of Kingston.

The guards were represented by Kingston lawyer Stuart Willoughby, hired by the federal solicitor-general's department. He said he hoped the trials would proceed on the set date.

Endorses Aide

Hoffa Leaves Union Race

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing his "present legal problems," James Hoffa agreed Thursday to step aside as president of the Teamsters Union and endorsed Frank Fitzsimmons, his stand-in for the past four years, to be his full-fledged successor.

Hoffa, 58, now serving the fifth year of his 13-year federal sentence for jury tampering and mail fraud, disclosed his decision not to seek re-election in a letter to the Teamsters' executive board. The board, in turn, endorsed Fitzsimmons, 63, for election to a five-year term as president of the two-million member union at its Miami Beach convention next month.

Fitzsimmons, a long-time friend of Hoffa's who has been running the union as general vice-president, announced Hoffa's decision to reporters after an executive board meeting here.

He read from a letter in which Hoffa said:

"I feel because of my present legal problems, I should not be a candidate for office at the July, 1971, convention since no one can say how my legal problem will finally be settled.

"... I know the man who holds the office of president must be willing and able to give all of his time to the duties of the everyday operations. I know many thousands of members of this union have expressed their desire that I run for office, and I am very grateful for that expression."

Politics and the LCB

STUDENTS OF MARKETING PRACTISES have been looking carefully at the new schedule of liquor charges which the British Columbia Liquor Control Board brought into effect June 1.

Apart from those liquor consumers who regard the latest boost as nothing more than a further imposition on a heavily-taxed product, it is not easy to understand why selective increases, rather than increases across the board were not made.

The superficial inference is that the beer drinker, normally regarded as the more moderate type of liquor consumer, has been most heavily hit with a surcharge of 20 cents on his dozen bottles of local brew.

This comes at a time when the Canadian brewing industry is seeking higher producer prices to meet costs which have increased at a much higher rate than the market price for its product.

The industry which does not deem it political to tangle with its only customer, (the LCB in British Columbia) is probably entitled to feel that if the retail price is going up, the industry should have had its share along with the government in the extra revenue.

The LCB changes in tariff so far as hard liquors are concerned also indicate that the attack is being made chiefly on those who buy the less expensive brands of spirits.

For a number of years Canadian-made rye whisky has been the lowest priced item of the spirits group on the LCB shelves. The LCB's own blend was in the bargain basement with a cost of $4.60 a bottle. The new tariff raises it by 60 cents to $5.20, at which price it is level with most of the lower priced brand ryes, which went up 40 cents a bottle to the $5.20 level.

This means that for the first time, a five-dollar bill will not be sufficient to purchase a bottle of spirits in British Columbia.

As the prices of the more expensive spirits, chiefly Scotch and other imported liquors, have either remained unchanged, or risen by only a nickel or dime, the new tariff would appear aimed to encourage consumers to move from the home-made ryes to the more exotic imported brands of Scotch, rum, gin and vodka.

It could thus be suggested Premier Bennett may have had British Columbia's own highly important export trade in mind by encouraging imported foreign liquors, at the expense of the Canadian liquor interests who operate mainly in Eastern Canada.

On the other hand, it could be another manifestation of the government's declared policy of attacking abuse of liquor and drugs for which the last session of the house voted a sum of $25,000,000 for the rehabilitation of the victims.

But it is by no means certain that raising the price will keep people off the bottle any more than the government's other weapon, the banning of all liquor advertising will cure those who over-indulge.

Premier Bennett is however perhaps the only man who knows the answer to the selective treatment of the liquor consumer, and on these matters he does not talk.

International Responsibility

TWENTY-SEVEN NATIONS' representatives working on a prospective United Nations Declaration on the Human Environment have failed to reach agreement in their discussions in New York on provisions concerning international responsibility for causing pollution. Their failure does not mean that the subject is dead, the project being only a first draft of a declaration intended to be adopted at the end of the 136-nation UN Conference on the Human Environment a year from now in Stockholm — a draft which will be taken up again before that time. It may be seen, however, as a disappointing omen.

The delegates agreed that "everyone has a fundamental right to a safe, healthy and wholesome environment for the full enjoyment of his basic human rights." But they parted ways on three proposed clauses:

"Each state has the duty to undertake international consultations before proceeding with activities which may cause damage to the environment of another state or to the environment of areas beyond the limits of national jurisdiction.

"A state having reason to believe that the activities of another state may cause damage to its environment or to the environment of areas beyond the limits of national jurisdiction may request international consultations concerning the envisaged activities.

"Each state has the responsibility to compensate for damage to the environment caused by activities carried on within its territory."

It is interesting to note that Britain and the Soviet Union were among the nations objecting to the inclusion of these clauses in the declaration. But it is of rather special interest in Canada that the U.S. delegate, Robert B. Rosensstock, expressed another view — that some restrictions on national sovereignty were becoming necessary to human survival.

For Canadians who believe their country has a natural right effectively to challenge American activities in U.S. territory or on the high seas which it believes to be harmful or potentially dangerous to its environment — a reciprocal right, of course — Mr. Rosensstock's statement should be reassuring.

Boating Menaces

START of the sultry summer season brings out the boaters — and the terror of the stupid Sunday sailor! Ask any commercial ship or boat owner-operator his opinion of these weekend weak-minded navigational hazards — and your reply won't be fit to print. Deep-sea ships, hard working tugs and fishing vessels all know only too well how these nautical nuts endanger the lives of others and their own life as well.

Isn't it time that the federal government created an age of responsibility to the boat operator? Isn't it time that all boat operators, both sail and power, were required to pass mandatory tests to prove their capability to handle a boat?

No motorist is allowed to just hop in a high-powered vehicle and wander all over major traffic arteries. Why shouldn't boating rate the same attention?

The federal government should bring in legislation calling for compulsory training, testing, and provide courses in navigation and rules of the road for all boats. A boat operator should be licensed in much the same way as a motorist — and take exams before being allowed in open waters or ship channels.

An age restriction should be included, preferably not less than 16, or even older depending on the government attitude.

Such concentrated effort of building a better education in boating, combined with rigid regulations, would assist the coast guard and air-sea rescue and in this way avoid many wasted hours in costly searches.

The only logical approach to the growing problem of many marinas and rapidly increasing numbers of boaters must be education and regulation.

In any case, the start of such a project is entirely up to the federal government. Sure, they give you a little booklet on boating safety, but how many even glance at it? Compulsory courses and licensing are the only answer.

In the same sector, severe government cutbacks in economy have our coastal air-sea rescue services down to the very minimum. B.C. residents are just fortunate that we haven't been faced with a major marine tragedy. Protests to Parliament over lack of adequate protection have been strongly voiced from both Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

It makes you wonder, does the government want a budget to look good in print and neglect the necessity of saving lives at sea? Which comes first? Dollars or disaster?

A survey and study is needed on both boating and air-sea rescue services. Maybe a short study by a committee in Ottawa, but please not another royal commission! Or nothing will be done.

How long must we wait for the government to awaken from their senile stupor and realize the seriousness of boating problems?

The Crystal

Having recently returned to Victoria I am again impressed by the beauty of the Crystal Garden.

It seems, from the occasional reference to it, that it is presently scheduled to be soon wantonly destroyed. Yet the building is known to be sound, glass roof and all; it is world famous; has given pleasure to hundreds of thousands of persons; and it was skilfully designed and carefully built only half a life time ago, by intelligent and concerned men whose public spirits would be scandalously abused by its shattering now.

I contend that if a plebiscite of Victorian taxpayers were taken on the issue at this time — as one should be — 80 or 90 per cent of voters would be for the protecton of this unique Crystal Garden.

The city can easily utilize two "downtown" swimming pools — and the Garden is much more than just a pool.

There is no justification for any claim that the site is needed for a convention centre. There is a huge car park across the road that could be improved by being artistically straddled with a one or two-storey building, which would be far more sensible than knocking out the lovely building to the east . . . it is more needed now than ever before. Even conventioners like to swim there. All that is needed is a little polishing by the Chamber of Commerce and city hall incumbents instead of a polishing off. Is there no esthetic, historic, civilized concern in those commercial and public offices at this hour?

It is not too late . . . so long as the Crystal Garden still stands and mankind claims to be adaptable.

BNA Act

Your editorial in the May 29 edition on the BNA Act and the Official Languages Act was a very good one, but it does not go far enough.

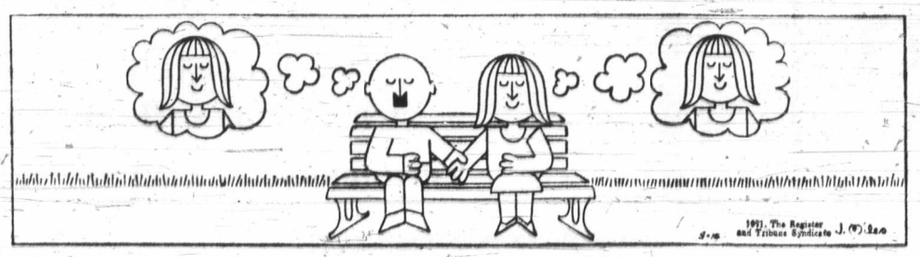

I am not a lawyer, and do not profess to have a legal mind, but it seems to me that it is a case of which act takes precedence — the BNA Act or the Official Languages Act. If it is the BNA Act, then I am surprised that the provincial governments concerned have not challenged the validity of the Official Languages Act, especially B.C. in the light of Mr. Peterson's recent statements on the language used on packaging.

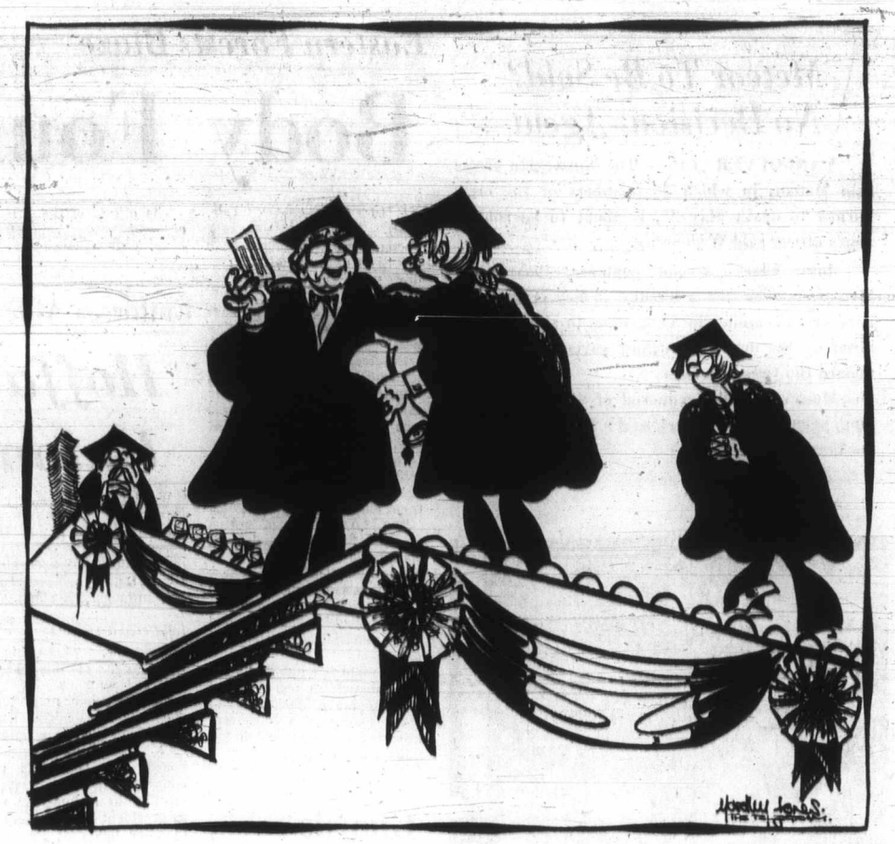

If however the Official Languages Act takes precedence, then I am surprised and confused at all the fuss being kicked up right now at the constitutional conferences. If the government of Canada can make laws at will, which supersede and ignore the BNA Act, then why bother to have a new constitution or to repriate the present one? All we have to do is to make what ever laws we see fit, and to hell with the constitution.

After all this is what is really being done now. All I am concerned with is the legality of it, and even more why someone in the legal profession has not made the necessary challenges in the courts to prove validity or otherwise of the Official Languages Act in relation to the BNA Act.

Compelling Force to Join

Britain and Continental Europe

By ARNOLD TOYNBEE

FOR more than five centuries one of the fundamental principles of British foreign policy has been to avoid acquiring the political possession of any continental European territory. Joan of Arc taught the English, once for all, that King John's loss of the English Crown's Norman and Angevin heritages could never be retrieved.

When Calais, England's last remaining continental beachhead, was retaken by the French in 1558, the English Queen Mary is said to have declared that the word "Calais" would be found graven on her heart. It was not graven on the hearts of any of Queen Mary's subjects. By Mary's time, English hearts were set on trespassing not on continental Europe, but on the Spanish Main.

* * *

When, in the 18th century, the Elector of Hanover became king of the United Kingdom of England and Scotland, his British subjects felt that the consequent political association between Britain and Hanover was an undesirable liability for Britain. They were pleased when, in 1837, the Salic law debarred Queen Victoria from becoming queen of Hanover.

In 1866, the British congratulated themselves again on having been relieved, just in time, of all responsibility for Hanover's political fate when Bismarck annexed it to Prussia.

In 1890, Britain ceded to Germany the strategically vulnerable European island of Heligoland in exchange for Germany's recognition of a British protectorate over the East African island of Zanzibar. The British felt that they were making a good bargain. Compared with Zanzibar, Heligoland seemed to them to be a bagatelle.

* * *

All the same, in spite of chastening British memories of Joan of Arc, Britain in the modern age has invariably intervened politically, and in the last resort militarily, whenever one of the continental European powers has seemed to be threatening to unite the whole continent by conquest. Britain helped to frustrate the English Queen Mary's husband, King Philip II of Spain; Britain has intervened on the continent repeatedly, though often reluctantly. Her latest intervention was in 1939-1945. Since Britain renounced the ambition of acquiring a continental European empire for herself her nightmare has been the possibility that the continent might be united against Britain by some dominant continental power. Germany and France have each, more than once, come within an ace of achieving this. Britain found herself standing alone in 1940. She had had the same experience for a longer time during the Revolutionary and Napoleonic wars.

All European nations, continental and insular alike, have always resisted being conquered by fellow Europeans. Consequently, when attempts were made to unite Europe by conquest, Britain could usually find continental allies to co-operate with her in resisting the dominant continental power of the day. These alliances helped Britain morally as well as militarily. Britain intervened as the liberator of continental peoples who were genuinely eager to be helped to liberate themselves. For instance, Britain, Germany and Russia together defeated Napoleon in the Befreiungskrieg. But today, for the first time since the break-up of the Carolingian Empire 1,000 years ago, the peoples of continental Europe are uniting with each other voluntarily. This voluntary unification confronts Britain with her old nightmare of finding herself isolated; face to face with a united continent, but it is no longer open to Britain to save herself from this situation in the traditional way.

Today there are no conquered European peoples to be liberated in any part of Europe to the west of the line that was once the eastern frontier of the Carolingian Empire. Even if present-day Britain were as strong as present-day Russia, it would be morally unthinkable that Britain should try to break up a voluntary European union by force. Russia herself is not dreaming of trying to break up the European Economic Community. In any case, Britain today is not the power that she once was. So what can Britain do when western continental Europe unites voluntarily?

All that Britain can do is to knock at the door of EEC and to ask to be admitted. This is what Britain has to do in the unprecedented new situation. Voluntary union, as contrasted with union by conquest, is just as acceptable to Britain as it is to her continental neighbors.

But can Britain integrate herself with continental Europe economically? Unquestionably she can. Britain has never been isolationist on the economic plane. After the Industrial Revolution, Britain entered into business transactions with Continental Europe on the grand scale. On the eve of the First World War Britain and Germany were each other's best customers. In August, 1914, the Berlin gas works were owned and operated by a British company that had installed them in the 19th century. In France, the Chemin de Fer de l'Ouest had been built with British co-operation.

In the Middle Ages, Britain tried and failed to acquire a continental European empire by conquest. Since then Spain, and France and Germany in turn have each had the same experience. Today Europe is surrounded by a ring of superpowers. The voluntary union of the Six has been Europe's reasonable and legitimate answer to the change in the balance of power. The answer will be still more effective if the Six now become the Ten.

Washington Calling

Results of Sudden Peace

By MARQUIS CHILDS

BUT what if peace should break out? This is an appalling thought for the weapons manufacturers, the cold war warriors and even, it could be, for U.S. Democratic presidential aspirants who see a principal issue gone with the wind.

When President Nixon dramatized the recent breakthrough in the S.A.L.T. talks with a personal televison appearance, the effect on political opinion in the United States must have occurred to someone in the White House. Here was a chief executive making good on the pledge in his inaugural address to initiate an era of negotiation as against the old era of confrontation.

* * *

It goes with the new China policy, which is a strong plus. Far from being an accidental happening, the ping-pong encounter was merely the visible sign of many months of effort. Overtures were made through at least a half-dozen private channels to Peking.

Small signs that got relatively little attention indicated early on the way the administration was moving. When President Nicolae Ceausescu paid a state visit to Washington in October of last year Mr. Nixon, in addressing him, spoke of the People's Republic of China. American officials had hitherto designated the government of Chiang Kai-shek on Taiwan as the Republic of China while referring to Peking as mainland China or Red China. Again in his State of the World message in February the president gave Peking the official designation.

Chou En-lai, Peking's premier, took due note of this. At the time of the Laos invasion Henry A. Kissinger, the president's adviser on national security affairs, stated without qualification his conviction that China would not send troops to support the North Vietnamese. He based this, prior to the invitation to the American ping-pong team, on progress made through channels in establishing a new relationship with the China of 750,000,000 as against the 14,000,000 on Taiwan.

* * *

If the administration could by the end of 1971 or early the following year get an agreement on nuclear arms, however limited in scope, and if progress continues on the China front, the president will have gained a big advantage. He can bill himself, facing November, as the peace candidate.

Even though this could come about, the anti-war Democrats will still have plenty of openings for attack. Sen. Mike Mansfield's resolution to cut the American troop commitment in Europe failed by a wide margin. But, as was aptly pointed out, he may have lost a battle while certain to win the war.

The great flurry of interest over Leonid Brezhnev's intimation of the possibility of mutual troop cuts on both sides of the European divide has subsided. Played up by the White House, it served to head off the Mansfield amendment. Current reports are of prolonged delays in arriving at a negotiating position, first within the state department-Pentagon bureaucracy and then within NATO. Little hope is held out for an agreement until the December NATO meeting, with the current session at Lisbon merely taking note of the desire for a mutual cutback.

Huge expenditures for new arms development and for such old-line spending as the $850 million for a third nuclear-powered aircraft carrier are another opening for opponents of the military-industrial-political war machine. Sen. William Proxmire has persistently and effectively kept this on the front burner. His hard digging to get out facts and figures embedded in the vast defence budget has paid off.

The Democratic candidates have concentrated most of their fire on the Vietnam war. They have hammered away on the demand for a fixed date for withdrawal of all American troops, differing only on the timing of the final pullout. While the polls reflect the deep concern of the public over Vietnam and the lack of belief in the Nixon program of Vietnamization, there is a risk in putting so much on this one card.

Within the administration the conviction is that the Vietnam card will not count for much by the spring of 1972. On Nov. 1 the president will announce another large troop withdrawal. Still another announcement will come in March. Then, such is the rosy view in the White House, the political opposition will be confounded and the public convinced that the Nixon policy is working. The Nixon promise of a generaton of peace finds few believers. But it could be a fine political slogan for 1972.

24th Body Found In Orchard

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies recovered the 24th body in the Yuba City mass murders Thursday from a crude grave in the same peach orchard where most of the other victims were found.

Sutter County Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said the latest body — the first turned up in five days — was found about 300 feet from the Feather River. He said the man had been killed about a month ago.

Whiteaker said the grave had been under irrigation water the past several days and could not be excavated earlier. He also said that a digging party would go to an area 500 yards north of the latest find Friday to check out a suspicious earth indentation.

Peace

re of prolonged delays in rriving at a negotiating osition, first within the state epartment-Pentagon bureauracy and then within NATO. Little hope is held out for an greement until the Decemer NATO meeting, with the urrent session at Lisbon merely taking note of the esire for a mutual cutback.

Huge expenditures for new rms development and for uch old-line spending as the 850 million for a third nuclear-powered aircraft carier are another opening for pponents of the military-industrial-political war machine. Sen. William Proxmire has persistently and effectively kept this on the front burner. His hard digging o get out facts and figures mbedded in the vast defence budget has paid off.
The Democratic candidates have concentrated most of heir fire on the Vietnam war. They have hammered away on the demand for a fixed date for withdrawal of all American troops, differing only on the timing of the final pullout. While the polls reflect the deep concern of the public over Vietnam and the lack of belief in the Nixon program of Vietnamization, there is a risk in putting so much on this one card.
Within the administration the conviction is that the Vietnam card will not count for much by the spring of 1972. On Nov. 1 the president will announce another large troop withdrawal. Still another announcement will come in March. Then, such is the rosy view in the White House, the political opposition will be confounded and the public convinced that the Nixon policy is working. The Nixon promise of a generaton of peace finds few believers. But it could be a fine political slogan for 1972.

Quebec Seizes Imports

Egg War Stepped Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec government inspectors went on an egg hunt Thursday searching at least eight Montreal produce distributors for "imported" Ontario and Manitoba eggs sold without the approval of FEDCO, Quebec's egg marketing agency.

Two major distributors, the Perth Egg Co. and Konigsberg Produce and Dairy Products lost a total of 2,165 dozen eggs valued at $1,330 as FEDCO, which pegs provincial prices weekly, stepped up what has become known as the chicken-and-egg-war.

"I'm through, finished, and I don't know what to do," Keitner said later.

He said everyone is the loser as "we won't be able to guarantee fresh eggs any more and neither will we be able to give our customers a decent price."

Max Konigsberg, owner of the Konigsberg firm, said the seizure of 1,655 dozen eggs at his premises was "plain robbery."

He said he was able to buy Ontario and Manitoba eggs at 12 to 15 cents a dozen cheaper than Quebec eggs.

While major food chains reported no egg shortages Thursday as a result of the seizures, some said shortages could occur in a few weeks if they sell only Quebec eggs.

A spokesman for FEDCO said the seized eggs will be stored and likely sold.

The profit will be remitted if the owner complies with FEDCO regulations to sell only Quebec eggs. If not, the money stays with FEDCO.

Under regulations approved by the Quebec agricultural marketing board, all eggs sold in the province must be marketed through FEDCO.

The regulations stipulate that eggs be graded, packaged in specially-marked cartons and distributed by the agency.

Cholera Death Toll More Than 2,000

KRISHNAGAR, India (Reuter) — More than 2,000 refugees from East Pakistan have died in a cholera epidemic raging among them in Nadia district of India's West Bengal state, the district magistrate said Thursday night.

Reports of cholera deaths in other areas southeast of Calcutta were also received.

24th Body Found In Orchard

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI) Sheriff's deputies recovered the 24th body in the Yuba City mass murders Thursday from a crude grave in the same peach orchard where most of the other victims were found.

Sutter County Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said the latest body the first turned up in five days was found about 300 feet from the Feather River. He said the man had been killed about a month ago.

Whiteaker said the grave had been under irrigation water the past several days and could not be excavated earlier. He also said that a digging party would go to an area 500 yards north of the latest find Friday to check out a suspicious earth indentation.

New Post Office Uniform Fit for Cabinet Minister

VANCOUVER (CP) Jean-Pierre Cote introduced new post office supervisor uniforms Thursday "that actually could even be worn by a cabinet minister."

"To be honest, I would like to wear one myself since it is as attractive as it is distinguished," the minister responsible for the post office said as the new style was exhibited before an Association of Postal Officials of Canada meeting here.

Navy blue is the predominant color for the new uniforms, redesigned from top to toe.

The basic uniform is similar to a business suit, to be issued in both summer and winter weights. There is a light blue, dress-style shirt with no pocket flaps or shoulder flashes. A navy blue tie of "fashionable width" is included.

There also is a navy coat with zip-in lining for spring, summer and fall and a new winter over-coat as an option to the parkatype four-weather jacket, still being retained.

"Clothing plays an important part in our perceptin of people," Cote said.

"It creates, as in this case, a socio-economic status. This is why you now will be dressed as highly distinctive businessmen."

The new outfit was agreed on after consultations between association representatives and department officials.

Ontario Prefers Subway

Artery to Nowhere

TORONTO (UPI) — The Ontario government, in what appeared to be a landmark decision, decided Thursday in favor of public transit and refused to allow the completion of a major expressway linking northwest Toronto and the city's downtown core.

Instead of completing the $237 million Spadina Expressway, Premier William Davis said a subway would be built along the expressway route.

His announcement was greeted with cheers and desk-thumping by all three parties in the provincial legislature.

The Spadina, which would have been 6½ miles long when finished, is completed less than a third of the way down its proposed route.

Some 700 houses which were to have been expropriated for construction of the expressway were saved by the decision.

Its backers, mainly suburbanites, said it was needed to relieve artiers to the northwestern section of the city.

Its opponents said it would have baleful effects on the downtown area, especially the residential parts.

Hanoi Shuts Door on Lone 13

Exchange Backfires

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Colonist Los Angeles Times Service

SAIGON — The White House-inspired move to return 570 sick and wounded prisoners to North Vietnam reached its anticlimactic end Friday with a mere 13 captives agreeing to go and Hanoi screaming "Sham."

The whole deal fell through when the North Vietnamese announced at the Paris peace talks Thursday that they had cancelled the repatriation of the 13 prisoners who were willing to go home.

The announcement came even as the 13 were sailing aboard an American transport in the South China Sea to a rendezvous point on a river in the demilitarized zone.

The North Vietnamese, in cancelling the arrangements for the transfer, called the whole affair an "odious act" and a "dishonest manoeuvre" by Washington and Saigon.

Officials in Saigon — who do not wish to be quoted by name — say the White House had ample warning that the plan would likely backfire.

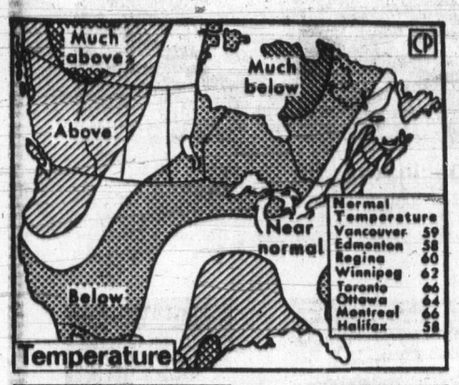

The White House pressed ahead, however, ignoring the warning signals until too late. The result has been a bureaucratic mixup rich even by Saigon's standards.

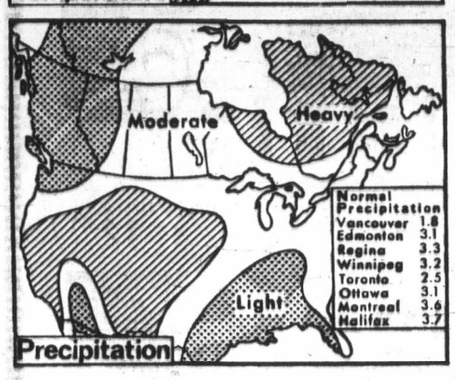

Of 660 sick and wounded prisoners interviewed individually by Swiss representatives of the International Committee for the Red Cross, these were the only men who agreed to repatriation.

Only the future will disclose if prospects for obtaining the return of Americans held by North Vietnam have been damaged. It is difficult to see how they could have been helped. A spokesman for the communist negotiating team in Paris, Nguyen Thanh Le, has already used the issue to accuse Washington and Saigon of insincerity and worse.

Officials in Saigon lay the blame on the White House think-tank operation of Dr. Henry Kissinger.

Under orders from President Nixon to maintain pressure on the prisoner issue, Kissinger's office proposed in April that the Saigon government make a dramatic offer to release all the sick and wounded captives it held.

Scooting Tupamaros Wound Top Policeman

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — Two young Tupamaro terrorists riding double on a motor scooter blasted a police car with machine-gun fire Thursday, killing the driver and seriously wounding a top Uruguyan police official.

Police sources said "there is no doubt" the attackers were Tupamaros, apparently reacting to alleged police brutality against students.

Aires Perez, a policeman-chauffeur for Major Isabel Ponciano Saravia, died in hospital shortly after the shootings.

Witnesses said the attackers fired from point-blank range, blasting the windshield and windows of the car and apparently hitting the two policemen "several times."

Boat Sinks, Man Lost

AGASSIZ (CP) — Authorities Thursday recovered the body of David Allan Freeman, 28, of Agassiz, who drowned Wednesday when a small lake freighter sank in Harrison Lake.

The Rodonda was loading freight at Spring Creek, on the northern portion of the lake, when it suddenly rolled over and sank.

Officials of Rivtow Marine, owners of the Rodonda, said an attempt will be made Tuesday to raise the boat and determine the cause of the sinking.

Bell Seeking Issue Delay

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Bell Canada wants to know what Finance Minister Benson has got up his sleeve before going to the public with its new issue of convertible preferred shares.

The big telephone company says it will ask the Board of Transport Commission on June 8 for permission to postpone the announcement of the new issue until after the June 18 budget and tax reform speech.

Bell had originally intended to launch the issue next week. The amount of the issue is expected to be about $60 million.

□

Three Share Fund

Three Canadian oil companies are among those with a shared interest in a new gas condensate discovery made in the British section of the North Sea by Hamilton Bros. Denver, Colo.

They are Canadian Industrial Oil and Gas (15 per cent); Home Oil (6.375 per cent) and Murphy Petroleum (3.5 per cent).

The well, No. 30 2-1, will not be evaluated until further drilling in the area is completed. Hamilton said the flow was "substantial."

Money Low

The cost of short term money in Canda continued to be low this week when the 91 day Government of Canda treasury bills auctioned to give an average yield of 3.05 per cent — modestly above last week's average of 3.03 per cent.

The low-short-term rates are said to be one of the reasons for the continued drop in the foreign exchange rate of the Canadian dollar. Low short term interest rates are causing foreign funds to be moved to other countries where the interest rates are higher.

The Canadian dollar dropped further Thursday at New York where it was rated at 98 19/64 cents (US), down 3/16 on the day.

At Montreal the decline was even steeper with the U.S. dollar worth $1.01 25/32, up 7/32. The pound sterling also advanced ¾ to $2.46¼ in terms of the Candian dollar.

□

Massive Issue

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. has set an 8-per-cent dividend rate on its massive new convertible preferred share issue.

The sum to be raised is $1.37 billion, and it will be in the form of $50 par shares paying $4 a year.

The shares will be offered to existing common shareholders who will be given special rights to buy the new preferred.

Each preferred share will be convertible into 1.05 common shares, reflecting a conversion price of $47.50.

The record day is today and the rights will be mailed to shareholders June 18.

One Exception

Running counter to the trend of rising profits for the chartered banks is the Bank of Montreal, which reports a drop in net earnings on its operations for the six months ended April 30.

While assets increased by 10.6 per cent to $9 billions the net profit was $21 million (62 cents a share), down from $25 million (73 cents) in the corresponding half of 1970.

Lower interest rates were blamed by the bank for a decline in total revenue from $353.2 million to $338 million.

□

Arctic Project

Four wells in Canadian arctic islands and 570 miles of seismic coverage comprise a major 1971 exploration program in which Imperial Oil will co-operate with Panarctic Oils Ltd.

The agreement calls for the drilling by Imperial of a well on Devon Island; two wells on Alex Heiberg Island, and one well on Ellef Ringes Island. The seismic survey will be made on Axel Heiberg, Cornwall and Ellef Ringes Islands.

The work will be on Panarctic acreage, except for the well on Ellef Ringes Island, held jointly by Panarctic and Dome Petroleums.

On completion of these undertakings, Imperial Oil will have options to drill five more wells.

Panarctic is the large Canadian consortium in which the federal government is the largest shareholder. Imperial has so far been the most successful Canadian company in Arctic drilling for oil, with two successful penetrations in the Mackenzie River delta.

□

Another Buy

Shareholders of Thomson Newspapers Ltd. were told at the annual meeting in Toronto Wednesday the acquisition of another newspaper was imminent.

K. R. Thomson, chairman and president, did not elaborate because negotiations were still in progress.

Sell Harder, Japanese Tells Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian businessmen must sell harder if they want a larger share of the vast Japanese market, the head of the Japanese Economic Mission to Canada said Thursday.

Chujiro Fujino, president of the giant Mitsubishi Corp. who is leading the 14-member, cross-Canada mission, said more Canadian businessmen should visit Japan to study their market first-hand.

"Japan has to do more selling," he said, "but the Canadians will have to do very much more."

Japan depends upon trade for 10 to 15 per cent of its gross national product but Canada's trade runs between 20 and 25 per cent of Canada's GNP, he said.

Fujino said the mission will discuss its problems with provincial and federal government officials as well as businessmen during the tour.

Stop, Go, Stop, Stop

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The federal government's economic policies made long-term planning for stable growth virtually impossible and created alternating periods of inflation and unemployment, former cabinet minister Eric Kierans said Thursday.

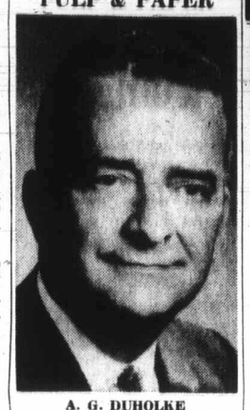

Kierans, who April 29 resigned as communications minister in disagreement with the fiscal policy of the rest of the Trudeau cabinet, said the emphasis on tax incentives for promoting private investment was "essentially an effort to cover up past and present errors" by dipping into future capital.

In a speech to the Canadian Economics Association, meeting here as part of a learned societies conference, Kierans said the next period of high unemployment would likely occur in 1973-74.

"To ensure an immediate upsurge we mortgage the possibility of more stable growth in the future and create a series of stop-and-go cycles that become shorter and more intense."

By KEVAN HULL

Central successfully defended its title Thursday at Centennial Stadium in what was generally considered the best Victoria inter-junior high school track and field meet in history.

Spurred on by an enthusiastic crowd, the young athletes continued the fantastic assault on the records which began in the Tuesday and Wednesday qualifying trials.

When the day was over, only five track and eight field marks had not been matched or bettered in the 40 holdover events. In addition, there were seven new events this year.

The girls broke nine records during the final day and the boys snapped eight and tied three others. Seven other records were set in qualifying trials.

Central, which hadn't won since 1956 when it claimed the championship by 19¾ points over Lansdowne last year, held a 16-point margin, 238-222, over runner-up Oak Bay in what was a close four-school battle until the last portion of the meet.

Lansdowne was third at 192 points followed by Colquitz, with the meet's most-productive girls' team accounting for 128 points, at 187.

SPRINT RECORDS

The junior girls were busiest in the record department Thursday with six, including two by Cheryl Blevins of Colquitz in the sprints.

Miss Blevins, whose 1970 midget mark of 12.4 survived the record-breaking, brought the junior mark down to 12.6 and the 200-metre record down, for the second time in the meet, to 25.7.

Central runners earned two outstanding records in the division, Bev Cox covering 400 metres in 56.1 and Cathy Sapsford going 800 metres in 2:21.3.

MIDGET BOYS

David Cox of Central picked up two records as the midget boys broke four marks and tied two others. Cox won the 800 metres in 2:15.4 and the 1500 in 4:32.6.

The other record-breaking performances were a 49.0 relay effort by High Rock and a 37'8" triple jump by Kevin Scott of Central.

Mark Warren of Arbutus tied the high jump standard of 5' 2" and along with runner-up Dave Daiziel of St. Michael's tied the 200-metres mark of 25.6.

TRACK MARKS

Junior boys' records were set by Jim Walker of Colquitz in the 100 metres (11.8), Garth Hallam of Reynolds in the 200 metres (23.7), Grant Boland of Oak Bay, who also tied Hallam's mark, in the 400 metres (51.6) and Barry Scroggs of Reynolds in the 1500 metres (4:16.5).

JUNIOR GIRLS

Debbie Competes Here Tonight

Tonight's opening events in the B.C. high school track and field championships features North American record-holder Debbie Brill of Langley in the high jump.

Miss Brill, the gold medal winner in the 1970 Commonwealth Games, recently cleared six feet and could possibly break her North American record of 6'¼" tonight.

Action starts at 5:30 p.m. and there will be 11 finals.

Also scheduled to be in action are Miss Brill's Commonwealth Games teammates Patty Loverock, (100 metres) a former Courtenay resident, Joan Pavelich (discus). Vancouver area.

CFL Owners Boost Grey Cup Awards

MONTREAL (CP) — Individual cash awards paid to players taking part in the annual Grey Cup game were raised Thursday by owners of the Canadian Football League at their semi-annual meeting here.

CFL commissioner Jake Gaudaur said the league has raised total Grey Cup salaries to $112,000 from the previous $80,000, thus giving each year player on the winning club $2,000 for the game and each member of the losing squad $1,500.

Previously players on the winning team had received $1,500 each and the losers $1,000. The CFL Players' Association had asked that the prize money be raised to $3,000 and $2,000.

The players also asked that game pay be raised for the playoff games in each of the Eastern and Western conferences — games that determine the champion in each conference which meet in the Grey Cup game.

Gaudaur said he had nothing to report on other requests, but would convey the results of the player representations directly to the Players' Association.

The commissioner said that while the 1972 CFL schedule is ready it still "technically has to be ratified" before it can be announced.

However, he said there will be no full interlocking schedule between the East and West next season. Like expansion, a fully interlocking schedule must wait until at least 1973.

Gaudaur said that starting next year "from Labor Day on" there will be a Saturday and Sunday game until the end of the season and that the 1972 schedule eliminates midweek games in the Western Conference after Thanksgiving Day.

Bate Construction used the long ball Thursday night to dump Seaboard Construction, 8-1 at Central Park and open a game-and-a-half lead in the Victoria Major Men's Softball League.

Bates' sluggers belted three home runs in the 11-hit attack and Bob Swanson and reliever Ed Litchfield combined for a three-hitter.

Don Lancaster slammed a two-run homer in the fourth inning after Seaboard went ahead, 1-0, in the second inning. Bates erupted for their final five runs in the seventh inning. Ken Bate and Joe Patterson smacked home runs in the uprising.

Swanson, who pitched a perfect game against Seaboard last week, struck out seven before being lifted in the sixth inning. Litchfield had two strikeouts and gave up one hit.

Gilmour Construction took advantage of bases on balls to score both runs in a 2-1, nine-inning decision over Labatts in a Stuffy McGinnis Softball League game Thursday night at Heywood Avenue Park.

The teams played to a scoreless tie after the regulation seven innings but Gilmour scored in the top of the eighth when leadoff batter Jim Sharpe drew a base on balls, Bob Walton was hit by a pitched ball, John Hughes loaded the bases with a one-out base on balls and Sharpe scampered home on a wild pitch.

Labatts tied it in their half of the inning when Ron MacDonald hit a two-out double and came in on Barry Granger's single.

The winning run was scored when Dobish led off with a base on balls, was sacrificed to second by Phil Bottrell and came in on Sharpe's second single of the game.

Dobish allowed only three hits, two of them to Granger.

Fergy Says . . .

He Really Means It

And this time the 32-year-old left winger says it's for good.

Ferguson said he is leaving the NHL team because of extensive business interest here — the same reason he cited when he originally left the club last Oct. 7, four days before the Canadiens' season opener in Philadelphia against the Flyers.

On that occasion the Vancouver-born Ferguson changed his mind. He was back in the linup Nov. 17 and remained with the club until its recent Stanley Cup victory against Chicago Black Hawks.

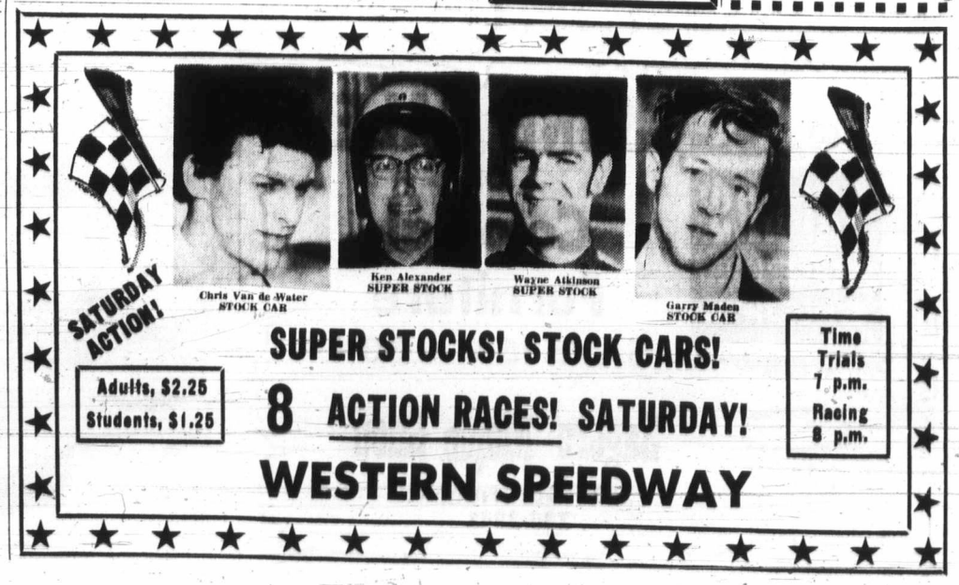

Ferguson told a news conference, that his voluntary retirement papers were already signed and in the mail to Sam Pollock.

However, the Montreal general manager said he will leave Ferguson's name on his list of 18 protected players he must submit before next Tuesday's intra-league draft.

"Fergy's retirement papers are signed but we'll still protect him," Pollock said. "We need a formula where players of the stature of Jean Beliveau and John Ferguson can retire without standing the danger of them being drafted by another club even though they have declared their intention to quit for good."

A player who signs his voluntarily retirement papers cannot return to the NHL for one year without the express consent of all 14 clubs.

Asked why he returned after his withdrawal from the game last autumn, Ferguson said it was mainly because he did not relish the idea of going out a loser. The Canadiens missed the playoffs after a disappointing 1969-70 season.

Holtzman Fights Way To Second No-Hitter

Holtzman, who pitched a no-hitter two years ago against Atlanta Braves, overcame periods of wildness for his classic and stifled the Reds, mostly on ground balls.

Holtzman struck out six, walked four and kept Cincinnati's fearsome Big Red Machine pounding the ball to Cubs' infielders as he weaved his way out of jams caused by control problems.

In order to nail down his no-hitter in the ninth inning, Holtzman had to face the top of the Reds' powerful batting order.

That brought up slugger Lee May who ran the count to two balls and two strikes before striking out to end the game.

Holtzman scored the game's only run in the third inning when he led off and reached base on Tony Perez' throwing error.

Holtzman got into his toughest jam in the bottom of the third inning when he walked Buddy Bradford leading off. Bradford moved up on a wild pitch and then went to third base as Dave Concepcion grounded out.

OUT OF TROUBLE

That brought up pitcher Gary Nolan, who bounced in front of the plate. Catcher Danny Bredan pounced on the ball and tagged Nolan for the out, Bradford remaining at third.

Holtzman then got McRae to fly to centre field stranding the runner.

May walked in the fourth inning, but was erased on Johnny Bench's double-play bouncer. Bradford drew a two-out walk in the fifth but Concepcion struck out to end that inning.

TOOK CONTROL

In the sixth inning, McRae walked with one out and stole second base. But Helms lined out and May bounced out. Then Holtzman took control, retiring the Reds in order over the last three innings.

Holtzman, a 25-year-old native of Creve Coeur, Mo., had been struggling this season, dropping six of his first eight decisions.

CARLTON WINS

St. Louis Cardinals extended their lead in the National League East to 1½ games as Steve Carlton pitched a seven-hitter and slammed a two-run double in a 7-1 win over Pittsburgh Pirates.

The loss dropped Pirates in a tie with New York Mets.

Carlton got into early trouble as Pirates collected four of their hits in the first three innings but he settled down to gain his 10th win in 12 decisions.

BACK IN FRONT

In the only American League game, pitcher Ray Culp's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning carried Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 win over New York Yankees. That win moved Red Sox one-half game ahead of the idle Baltimore Orioles in the East Division.

Americans Earn Half . . . . . . Of Quarter-Final Berths

British Amateur Champion Ousted

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — American Walker Cup players, past and present, captured half the quarter-final berths of the British amateur golf championship Thursday while England's Mike Bonallack was upset in his bid for a fourth straight title.

Tom Kite Jr., Steve Melnyk and Jim Simons, current Walker Cup team-mates, and Dr. Edgar Updegraff, a team member eight years ago, entered today's round of eight with two Scotsmen, an Irishman and a Briton.

Updegraff, 49, who won in overtime Thursday morning, took a 20-minute lunch break then scored a convincing 4 and 3 victory over Ireland's Joe Carr. Carr, whose 20-year-old son, Roddy, made the final eight, also is 49 years old and twice a British champion.

Bonallack, who had won the title five times including an unprecedented three straight times in 1968-69-70, was upset in the morning round when Mike Schwitz of South Africa took the match, 4 and 3. But Schwitz, a 28-year-old lawyer, was a 4 and 2 victim of Scottish Walker Cup player Hugh Stuart in the afternoon.

Thus, England's only hope for victory is Peter Moody, who advanced with a 4 and 3 verdict over J. K. McIvor of Scotland.

Kite, a 21-year-old University of Texas student, entered the quarter-finals with 2 and 1 victories over Scotsmen Walter Black in the morning and Ian Ritchie after lunch.

On the 6828-yard, par-72 Carnoustie layout, Kite was seven under par over-all, which he termed "pretty fair golf."

Melnyk, the former U.S. Amateur champion, defeated John Glover of Ireland, 2 and 1, then scored a 3 and 1 victory over David Marsh of Scotland.

In today's morning matches, Stuart, who ousted John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex., 3 and 2, in the fourth round, will meet Simons.

Young Carr will face Kite; Hugh Campbell of Scotland who advanced with a 3 and 2 victory over Warren Humphreys of England, will face Moody while an all-American match will pit Melnyk against Updegraff.

The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Racing Leaders Set for Action

Stock cars and super-stocks are expected to put up a lively battle Saturday night at Western Speedway.

Chris Van De Water, leading driver in the stock-car division, has taken two of the four stock-car main events this season but has not been able to open up a big margin on the father-and-son combination of Earl and Larry Pollard. Larry is second with 332 points, 61 behind Van De Water, while his father is third with 307 points.

Ross Surgenor, who won six main events in his super-stock last season for a runaway in the drivers' points championships, is behind his pace of last season with only one win so far but still leads in points with 315. Close behind are Rick O'Dell with 299 and Larry Walker with 267.

British Columbians are small car experts.
Firenza
GM's newest and lowest-priced little car.

You know what you want in your next small car.
Our new Firenza has it all!

Front disc brakes!
Power brakes all 'round with discs in front. Standard equipment! Cars costing twice as much as Firenza can't offer that. So drivers of many big cars gladly pay extra for the extra advantages of power disc brakes. If they're good for big cars, think how confident you'll feel in our little car with the improved brake life and fade resistance of disc brakes up front. And the reassurance of having self-adjusting front brakes and corrosion-resistant brake lines and a dual master cylinder brake system with warning light. All at no extra cost!

Lots of power.
How many cars in Firenza's class give you 94 gross horsepower? Or a 1975 c.c. overhead-cam engine that goes beautifully on regular, no-lead or low-lead fuels—and with lower exhaust emissions? Firenza puts all that in your grasp with a sporty four-on-the-floor standard transmission. And has a new three-speed automatic developed for Firenza available as an option.

We proved it!
The new Firenza is one of the most thoroughly tested and proved cars on the market. It earned its Mark of Excellence the hard way at a GM proving ground so tough, so demanding you wouldn't believe. It checked out as a very strong, ready, willing and very able car. A quality car!

Safety & Anti-Theft
It has a comprehensive safety and anti-theft package as standard equipment. Including a GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column with anti-theft column lock and an ignition key warning buzzer.

Standard luxuries.
It has an upper-level ventilation system for quiet, comfortable, windows-up driving. It gives you surprisingly-generous room—most notably, extra legroom in front and extra hip and shoulder room in back. And it's one of the easiest-to-get-into cars for its size, anywhere.

Choice choices.
You can choose from four Firenza models. A couple of two-door sedans, a four-door and a sweet little wagon so stylish people who never considered a wagon before love it as a "car with a 62.3 cubic foot trunk." All models have front disc brakes, 94 horsepower, full-coil suspension, front bucket seats, such rarities in its field as a full-size trunk, the convenience of an automatic choke and the sureness of rack-and-pinion steering. And it's proudly serviced by over 500 Firenza-Pontiac dealers all across Canada.

The Marked car.
Firenza! A new economy import with all the quality and value of the Mark of Excellence—at GM's lowest price!

$2549*
*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Firenza SE Estate Wagon including federal sales tax. Provincial tax, municipal tax, license and destination charges not included.

Seat belts work only when they're fastened.

Firenza
New at your Pontiac dealer's.
There's a great deal more to the Firenza story.
So keep your eyes on this space.

"I have lost the complete sight of my left eye," a Victoria man said Thursday in Victoria Provincial Court, "and there's a possibility of my losing the sight of the other eye — there's an outside chance."

The statement was made by Earle Woods as he testified during the trial of John Leroy Patterson, 29, of 340 Sooke, on a charge of assault causing bodily harm early last Jan. in the drinking premises of a club on Wharf Street.

The crown completed its part of the trial Tursday, with Woods saying he was helping to separate two men after the second of two incidents in a short period of time when he turned and saw Patterson swing a bottle at him — "and that's the last I saw."

Defence counsel Tom Hara asked for an adjournment late in the day so he could present the defence story at one time. Judge William Ostler agreed and the case was set over to Aug. 17 for defence and judgment.

John Claire Scheckleton, 43, no fixed address, received a suspended sentence and one-year probationary term after pleading guilty earlier to two Victoria charges containing five counts of making false fire alarms.

One charge contained the dates of March 23 and 28 and April 9 and mentioned false alarms regarding 900-Block Balmoral. The other was dated May 19 and cited an alarm at Quadra and North Park.

The judge called such phoney alarms "wicked and mischievous conduct" that could cause injuries and tie up the fire department when it could be needed elsewhere.

Paul Michael Frank, 18, of 740 Audley, was fined $200 following his plea of guilty to a Victoria charge of driving while his licence was suspended. Court was told Frank was given a 24-hour roadside suspension at 4:20 a.m. Thursday by Victoria police but was seen an hour later driving his car elsewhere in the city by other officers. Frank said he was "just trying to get the car home."

"I have lost the complete sight of my left eye," a Victoria man siad Thursday in Victoria Provincial Court, "and there's a possibility of my losing the sight of the other eye — there's an outside chance."

The statement was made by Earle Woods as he testified during the trial of John Leroy Patterson, 29, of 340 Sooke, on a charge of assault causing bodily harm early last Jan. in the drinking premises of a club on Wharf Street.

The crown completed its part of the trial Tursday, with Woods saying he was helping to separate two men after the second of two incidents in a short period of time when he turned and saw Patterson swing a bottle at him — "and that's the last I saw."

Defence counsel Tom Hara asked for an adjournment late in the day so he could present the defence story at one time. Judge William Ostler agreed and the case was set over to Aug. 17 for defence and judgment.

John Claire Scheckleton, 43, no fixed address, received a suspended sentence and one-year probationary term after pleading guilty earlier to two Victoria charges containing five counts of making false fire alarms.

One charge contained the dates of March 23 and 28 and April 9 and mentioned false alarms regarding 900-Block Balmoral. The other was dated May 19 and cited an alarm at Quadra and North Park.

The judge called such phoney alarms "wicked and mischievous conduct" that could cause injuries and tie up the fire department when it could be needed elsewhere.

□

Paul Michael Frank, 18, of 740 Audley, was fined $200 following his plea of guilty to a Victoria charge of driving while his licence was suspended. Court was told Frank was given a 24-hour roadside suspension at 4:20 a.m. Thursday by Victoria police but was seen an hour later driving his car elsewhere in the city by other officers. Frank said he was "just trying to get the car home."

□

John Nelson Fleming, 25, of 1120 May, was committed by Ostler for trial in a higher court following a preliminary hearing Monday on a charge of possession of heroin March 30 in Victoria. Bail was set at $750 pending the higher-court trial.

In traffic court, Judge E. F. N. Robinson set a $350 fine and three-month driving ban as the sentence for John Hitchcock, 19, Royal Roads, who pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving May 22 in Esquimalt.

Taximen Seek Fare Hike

A number of Victoria taxi companies are seeking a 25 per cent fare increase, but the city's finance committee tabled the matter Thursday until the next meeting in two weeks.

Aldermen said a decision on the matter shouldn't be made until other taxi firms opposed to an increase in fares have had an opportunity to state their case before committee.

The proposed increase which needs city council's approval is being sought by 22 taxi companies most of which operate only one or two cabs. The sole major firm backing the hike is C and C Taxi, operating 20 cabs.

There are seven major taxi companies in Victoria operating 86 cabs with approximately 175 drivers.

The proposal calls for a reduction in mileage units for which the customer is charged. Thus the charge would be 80 cents for the first one-fifth mile instead of the present one-quarter mile.

Similarly, the charge of 10 cents is to apply to each additional one-fifth of a mile instead of the present one-quarter of a mile.

This would amount to an actual increase in taxi fares of 25 per cent.

Last year, council turned down a similar request.

Why belts?

Why are more and more motorists paying the extra money for belted tires?
Because belted tires give longer mileage. There are two special belts designed to hold the tread firmly and prevent side-to-side "squirm". By preventing this scrubbing action, those belts prolong the life of the tread. And they also give you more protection from potholes and other road hazards.
Just one more thing about belted tires. It's the construction that makes the belted difference... not the cord material that goes into the belts.

Why Firestone?

Our belted tires have something special; Triple-Strength Construction. So we can give you a really exceptional GUARANTEE FOR THE LIFE OF THE TREAD. No gimmicks. No mileage limit. No time limit.
Allowances are based on the percentage of tread left on the tire. 100% of tread life occurs when the tread is worn down to the "wear bars". (The Federal Government says all tires must have wear bars to show when the tread is no longer safe.)
Your tire will be replaced FREE within the first 20% of tread life if a defect in workmanship or materials means that the tire must be taken off your car.
At 25% of wear, you pay one quarter of the replacement price. And so on.
And remember this, 60,000 Firestone Stores and Dealers all over North America stand behind your guarantee. No matter where you buy your Firestone tires.
This outstanding guarantee is a good reason to choose Firestone.
The fact that you'll probably never need it is an even better reason.

Why now?

Because right now you'll really start piling on the miles.
On hot highways. Busy highways. Deserted sideroads. If a tire fails it can be mighty inconvenient. Or you may not be that lucky. So bring your car in today to Firestone for a free tire safety inspection.
Here's another reason why right now is the right time to put your car on safe new tires. The deals are really SunSational at Firestone. Especially on our Double Belted Strato-Streak. But we've got all kinds of deals on all kinds of tires for all kinds of cars. Right now.

NATO Meeting A Real Blast

LISBON (UPI) — A well organized bomb plot isolated Lisbon Thursday, leaving it without international communications for hours, and marred the opening day of a NATO foreign ministers conference.

At least four bombs exploded in downtown Lisbon and the nearby town of Sacavem, blowing up a telephone switching centre for international communications in Lisbon and a telephone substation in Sacavem.

Police said the blasts which disrupted all communications into and out of Portugal, were apparently the work of an anti-government guerrilla group seeking to embarrass the Portuguese regime as it played host to the NATO meeting.

The pre-dawn explosions came just hours before the 15 foreign ministers officially opened their two-day spring conference to forge a common reply to the recent Soviet offer to discuss mutual East-West troop cuts in Europe.

A government spokesman said there were no casualties in the blasts. He refused to confirm or deny a report that another bomb was discovered before it could explode at the parliament building where the NATO ministers held their formal opening session.

Reinforced army and police units doubled the security guard around the Ajuda Palace, on the Lisbon outskirts, where the NATO ministers moved for their working session.

Political sources said the attacks apparently were master-minded by the Armed Revolutionary Action group, an urban guerrilla faction which has claimed responsibility for a wave of bombings throughout Portugal during the past six months.

However, the attacks failed to disrupt the opening session of the NATO conference or the first working meetings at Ajuda Palace.

Supreme Court D

Surrey To Pay Patien

OTTAWA (CP)—The Thursday ordered the Brit of Surrey to pay $100,000 King George Highway priv of welfare patients.

In a decision from the bench, the judges upheld a claim by the hospitals that Surrey must pay a daily rate of $11 rather than $8.05 for welfare patients, the same rate paid by private patients.

Three private hospitals in Victoria, including Glengarry and Glenwarren private hospitals, have similar court actions pending against the city of Victoria, city solicitor T. P. O'Grady said Thursday.

But O'Grady declined comment on the significance of the Surrey judgement to the cases in Victoria. "I'll have to study the judgement in detail," he said.

Victoria currently pays a daily rate of $9.25 to private hospitals for welfare patients. This is the maximum rate on which the provincial government will share costs. The province now pays 85 per cent, with the municipality carrying the remaining 15 per cent.

Other hospitals also have suits pending against Surrey and other B.C. Municipalities to have the $11 rate in force. If these also are upheld, welfare costs for indigent patients in B.C. hospitals could cost the province many additional millions of dollars.

Surrey Mayor William Vander Zalm reacted angrily to Thursday's decision by the high court, saying the ruling will cost Surrey "a bundle."

Vander Zalm said he doesn't know how much yet but the cost could go as high as $250,000. In the meantime, he said, Surrey is going to continue not placing welfare patients in private hospitals.

He said he is going to see Health Minister Ralph Loffmark in Victoria with a view to the province "taking this wholly inequitable load off the municipalities."

The mayor suggested that "if the province doesn't pick up the tab we may perhaps have to start a drive to take the mainland away from Victoria and leave them sitting on an island."

R. J. Shepherd, president of the B.C. Association of Private Hospitals, said from Vancouver Thursday there would be a special general meeting of all members later this month to discuss the implications of the court decision.

"Needless to say we're very pleased our situation has been upheld and we hope this may lead to more amicable relations with the provincial government which has been shafting us all down the line."

Asked if the association would now insist upon receiving the $11 daily rate for welfare patients which was the basis of the successful court action, Shepherd said: "No . . . we regard this as being more of a negotiable item."

He added: "We hope now to be able to sit down with them (the provincial government) and get a payment that is closer to our costs (of caring for welfare patients)."

Since most private hospitals charge different rates, however, this would likely vary, Shepherd said.

The association on a number of occasions in the past has requested meetings with both Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi and Health Minister Ralph Loffmark. Shepherd said in each case there was "no response" to the request.

Centennial Showcase of Plays

Second Evening Hard To Digest

By BERT BINNY

The second program in the current B.C. Centennial Showcase of Plays went on at the McPherson Playhouse Thursday evening and was chiefly remarkable for the extent to which it differed from the opening show.

While there were three plays on Wednesday evening there was just one Thursday. The audience was smaller and the theatrical fare offered was infinitely harder to digest. Indeed, some members of that audience left before the end — albeit for reasons that can only be surmised.

The play was Next Time I'll Sing To You by James Saunders.

It provided lengthy speeches replete with polysyllabic words for everyone in the cast of five. It touched upon an unbelievable variety of topics. If it had a message or a theme, it was well-night impossible to recognize it.

The cast from the New Caledonia Players of Prince George was called upon to dissertate on such dissimilar topics as dung beetles, sorrow, reality, bones, mosquitoes, landscape gardening, larks, owls, premarital intercourse and philosophies of every kind and kidney.

Entertainment flitted out the window while one grappled with the esoteric significances of what was being said and done.

David Wilson as Meff had the lion's share of understandable jokes but there was good characterization particularly by Carol McKenzie as Lizzie and Doug Edgar as The Hermit.

The adjudicator, Prof. Gordon Peacock, noted that the play was "a most difficult production for an experienced and inventive professional company" and congratulated the Prince George players for "attempting this most challenging piece of work."

"The playwright," said Peacock, "seems to have been influenced by Beckett's Waiting for Godot as well as Pirandello's Six Characters in Search of an Author.

"I always feel that productions that move into impressionism or abstraction in writing or concept require a suspension of disbelief for us in the audience — we should not be hampered by the question: What is it all about?

"I felt that many of us were not allowed to reach that state of being."

The adjudicator placed the blame for this partly on the script and partly on the performers.

"The company has a major problem which is not only to hold our interest but, as the evening progresses, to reveal the intent of the playwright."

While the adjudicator noted "a static and too often an immobile quality to the action which was visually and verbally boring," he also pointed out that "there were good acting moments," particularly in the performance of David Wilson as Meff and, to a lesser extent, by Carol McKenzie as Lizzie."

The showcase continues this evening with four more plays: Objective Case by the Powell River Players, The Jewish Wife by Duncan Drama Group, The Moon Shines on Kylenamoe by the North Pacific Players of Prince Rupert and We're Due in Eastbourne in Ten Minutes by the United Players of Vancouver.

Supreme Court Decision

Surrey Told To Pay Patient Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada Thursday ordered the British Columbia municipality of Surrey to pay $100,000 in back payments to the King George Highway private hospital to cover costs of welfare patients.

In a decision from the bench, the judges upheld a claim by the hospitals that Surrey must pay a daily rate of $11 rather than $8.05 for welfare patients, the same rate paid by private patients.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Quarterback Joe Kapp and halfback Willie Fleming will return to British Columbia Lions June 27, but only as part of ceremonies marking the unveiling by coach Eagle Keys of the 1971 edition of the Canadian Football League club.

Kapp and Fleming will attend the intra-squad exhibition game along with other members of the 1964 club, which brought Lions its only Grey Cup victory since joining the league in 1954.

Others taking part in a parade of stars of former Grey Cup championship clubs will include Johnny Bright, Normie Kwong and Rollie Miles of Edmonton Eskimos, Bernie Faloney of Hamilton Tiger cats and Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Proceeds from the game will go to the B.C hall of fame.

Trade Benefits Foreseen In U.K. Market Move

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Trade Minister Michael Noble said Thrusday Britian's entry into the European Economic Community would offer Canada new opportunities to sell in a rich and expanding market.

"If Britain joins the EEC, both we and Canada must inevitably adjust our trading relations, but Canada will in any circumstance remain a market of the first importance to us," he told a "Salute to Britian" luncheon at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

Noble's visit to Vancouver coincides with ImpoExpo 71, the fifth British Columbia trade fair, which opened Wednesday. Britain and Japan are the two biggest exhibitors.

"We shall benefit from becoming a member of the vast new market of 350 million people," Noble said. "We shall be a stronger and better trading partner for you.

"To Canada, it is my firm belief that the enlargement of the community offers new opportunities to sell in a rich and expanding market."

He said that if Britain joins the EEC, there will be no change in the tariffs applying to one-third of Canada's present exports to Britain.

"Although other Canadian exports, which have previously had free entry, will become suject to duty, the common external tariff of the EEC is, as tariffs go, on the low side," Noble said.

"In the negotiations, we have been able to reach agreement on special tariff treatment for a number of products of interest to Canada."

Esquimalt, Victoria Building Up

Oak Bay was the only municipality where the number and value of building permits dropped off sharply.

In Victoria, 425 permits worth $2.1 million were issued in May compared with 387 permits valued at $1.5 million in May 1970. Durng the first five months of this year, Victoria issued 2,100 permits worth $15.1 million compared with last year's 2,195 permits valued at $10.5 million.

Saanich issued 86 building permits during May for a total of $1.1 million compared with 74 permits worth $1 million in May, 1970.

The five-month total in Saanich during May was 454 permits valued at $5.5 million compared with last year's 395 permits worth $6.7 million.

Esquimalt issued 13 permits during May worth $467,000; issued for a total value of $72,000. During the first five months of this year, Esquimalt issued 53 permits worth $1.6 million, compared with 66 permits valued at $898,000 during the same period last year.

Oak Bay didn't issue any permits last month and none in May, 1970.

The five-month total in Oak Bay stands at 55 permits worth $634,000, compared with 168 permits issued until the end of May last year for a total value of $1.4 million.

Berry Harvest Jobs Available

The Saanich peninsula strawberry crop — expected to total some 300 tons this year — will provide about 1,000 jobs for berry pickers this month, according to Canada Manpower officials.

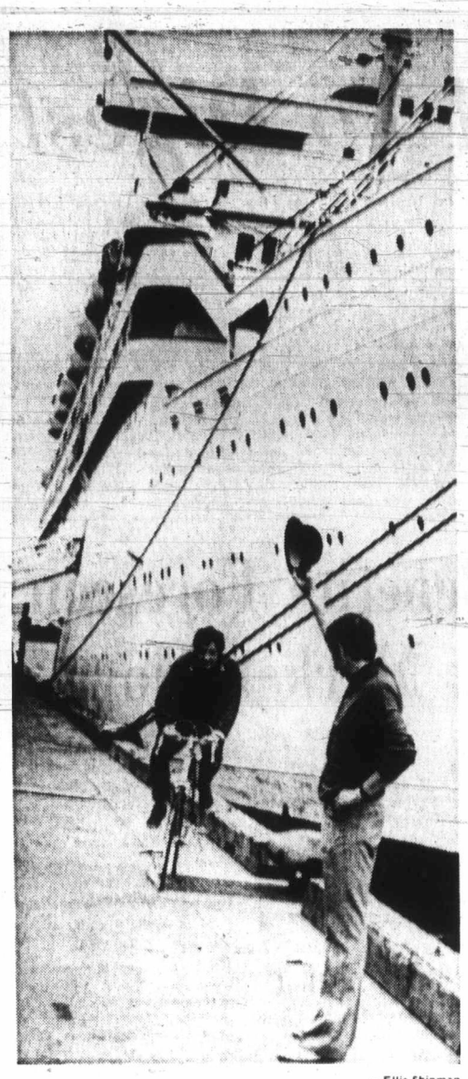

Registration for the harvest jobs is now in progress at the Farm Labor office, 614 Humboldt, with picking expected to be in full swing by mid-June.

Minimum wage for the work has been set at 90 cents a crate for strawberries and 65 cents a crate for jam strawberries. A good picker can earn about $10 a day.

The next picking cycle — loganberries — will not start until mid-July, according to Tom Michell, vice-president of the Saanich Fruit Growers Association.

Michell said this year's strawberry crop is expected to be about 50 tons short of the usual yearly average of 350 tons, due to the cool spring and winter. Most berries will be shipped to Vancouver for frozen food processing and the wine industry, although Saanich strawberries should begin to appear in local stores this week.

Michell said strawberry growing — and berry growing generally — has dropped dramatically on the Saanich peninsula from a high during the 1920s of some 2,000 tons annually. He attributed this to the growth of subdivisions throughout Saanich and foreign competition.

They Won $1,600 Bet

By JIM BRAHAN

"They said it couldn't be done and we did it." Professional adventurer Kenneth Crutchlow of London, England, told the Colonist Thursday how he and another cyclist raced the P and O cruise ship Arcadia 2,000 miles from San Francisco to Ketchikan, Alaska, and won.

The 30,000-ton liner docked at Ogden Point early Friday with the cylists and more than 900 passengers, most of whom were returning to the U.S. after a pleasure cruise in Alaskan waters.

'It was a team effort'

Crutchlow and fellow cyclist Paxton Beale, a San Francisco businessman, said the race was for $1,600 in bets and return passage to San Francisco made between themselves and the P and O line.

"There was a bet of $1,500 to go to the winners, and a side bet of $100 that we wouldn't make it," Beale said.

"However, to win the $1,600 it cost us $3,700 in equipment," he added.

The pair, cycling in relays behind a specially-equipped van carrying their three helpers and spare bicycle equipment, safety gear and other supplies, cycled 24 hours a day and made the run in five days, five hours and 27 minutes.

"It was a team effort all the way," Crutchlow said, and explained the bike was ridden about 18 inches behind the van which acted as a windbreak.

He said the rider, who could only see the rear of the van, was given steering directions from one member of the team inside the vehicle.

"It was the most dangerous thing I have ever done in my life," said Crutchlow, who has walked across Death Valley, rode a camel across the Sahara, and has hitchiked around the world in 96 days with only $24 in his pocket.

He said that if the van had braked suddenly or had taken an unscheduled sharp turn, it would have been certain injury, if not death, to the cyclist following so close in its wake.

Beale related how all the cycling experts they had talked to in San Francisco had said the trip couldn't be done.

The cyclists said they had figured the trip out very scientifically.

"We ate almost constantly, and it was a very high-protein diet," Beale said, and added that vast quantities of high-caloried drinks were consumed.

"This wasn't just a bike race," Beale said. "We had to take into consideration the route, safety precautions, our best pace, diets, spare parts for our $400 Italian bicycles, and other details not encountered by the normal bike racer."

Both ship and cyclists left San Francisco's Pier 35 at the same time on May 22, and the bike riders arrived in the Alaskan port almost 12 hours ahead of the Arcadia.

Crutchlow said the toughest part of the ride was between Prince George and Prince Rupert.

"Aside from it being cold, there were potholes in the road that you could have buried a bike in," he said.

Because the road ends at Prince Rupert, the cyclists were given the option of taking any type of transportation they wished from there to Ketchikan.

"We took a seaplane," Beale said.

The two racers and their helpers had to leave the Arcadian Victoria and travel to San Francisco by plane because of the Jones Act, Beale said.

He explained the American act prohibits Americans going from one American port to another in a foreign ship. The Arcadia is British.

Sea Movements Disperse Slick

An oil slick resulting from accidental spillage Wednesday of about 40 barrels of diesel oil by a U.S. Navy vessel in Juan de Fuca Strait about 2½ miles south of Race Rocks off Vancouver Island has almost completely dissipated due to natural wave action, Port Angeles Coast Guard officials reported Thursday night.

"The oil slick never reached shore in either Canada or the United States," coast guard officials said in a telephone interview with the Colonist.

The spill, caused by the destroyer Reasoner while undergoing sea trials, was "right smack in the middle" of the strait and some of the oil undoubedly spread into Canadian waters, spokesmen said earlier.

Built for the U.S. Navy by the Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. of Seattle, the destroyer Reasoner has not yet been delivered to the navy and was under the command of civilian skipper R. B. Hadaway.

A Lockheed spokesman said the spill was apparently caused by a valve malfunction during a transfer of oil between tanks on board the ship.

"They may have thought they won when they sailed away without us," one said. "But look at this."

He produced what he and the others said was the only key to the linen closet for the first class dining rooms.

"This is an even more important key," said another, holding up what was described as the only key to the officers' bar.

"You can bet they will break down that door," he said.

Cox and Michael (Mick) Blake, 25, showed reporters cabins about 20 feet by 10 feet — some even smaller — where anywhere from eight to 12 crewmen sleep in iron bunks.

Several seamen said the living conditions on the Arcadia were the worst they had ever encountered.

'Disgraceful'

Said Anthony Wright, 24, who has been sailing seven years:

"This is the worst ship I've been on in my life. The accommodations are disgraceful and the food is not worth eating."

The British waiters said they are paid 66 pounds a month while their counterparts from Goa get only 15 pounds.

Deputy purser Richard Harries said conditions were much better than the men pictured them and that accommodations were much the same on all liners.

He would not say what the seamen from Goa were paid, but did say this was not the responsibility of the P and O Line.

"Their wages are set by the government of India," he said.

Not long before the 6 p.m. sailing the skipper, Capt. Anthony Dallas, went to the dock to talk to the strikers.

He read them a telegram from the company's headquarters in England in which it was claimed a union official wanted the crewmen to take no action until the complaints were checked.

The men would not accept this because it was not a telegram sent directly to them by a union official.

Dallas said if the men weren't on the ship by 6 p.m. "regrettably we shall have to class you as deserters and you will be answerable to Canadian immigration."

When he returned to the ship he was followed by six waiters. Another four bell boys also returned, leaving 26 waiters and four bell boys ashore.

Minutes before the ship departed crewmen on board threw coats, money and other personal items to the holdouts.

"You know," said Cox, "those passengers are pretty wealthy people but they're with us all the way."

Moments later his point appeared to have been proved as the passengers showered the strikers with coins and packages of cigarettes.

Sea Race New To Sidney Fete

Sidney Kinsmen took the wraps off their Dominion Day celebration plans Wednesday with a warning that entries should be made now for two of the bigger events — a boat race and the parade.

The big day in Sidney normally is called All-Sidney Day but this year it will be known as Sidney Centennial '71 Day. It will also include a seafood fiesta, the Lions' pancake breakfast, Indian dances and other events.

A complete program will be announced later — Kinsmen officials say the important thing now is entries for the race and parade.

Information about the parade can be obtained from Sidney Taxi at 656-2242 officials said that's about all they needed to announce, since parades don't vary much from year to year.

But the boat race is a new departure. It will start at 1 p.m. July 1 at White Rock, where the mainland community's centennial committee will be in charge, and will end a Tulisha Park in Sidney.

The winner will be the first boat to arrive and the route the boat can get here," said the officials.

All competitors will be required to have an escort boat and the maximum size for competitors will be 14 feet and 10 horsepower motor. First prize will be a $700 boat and motor, second prize a rubber dinghy and third and fourth prizes fishing equipment.

Information and entry forms can be obtained from Al Storey at 656-2271 or by writing to the Kinsmen Club, Box 37, Sidney.

Rainbow Command Changes on Sunday

A change of command ceremony will take place at 2 p.m. Sunday when Lt.-Cmdr. D. E. Casey retires as commanding office of Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow and Lieut. F. W. Conconi, executive officer, assumes command on the parade ground at Rainbow Barracks, foot of Robert Street, on the occasion of the annual inspection.

Rear Admiral R. H. Leir, commander maritime forces Pacific, will officate at the change of command. He will also inspect the cadets.

Casey has been with Rainbow corps for 14 years, seven of them as commanding officer.

Under his command the cadets have won many honors. In 1966, the corps won all national awards including those for proficiency, attendance and sailing as well as the officers' trophies.

The corps was awarded the Montgomery Trophy for best cadet in the Pacific region for the years 1964 to 1968 inclusive. The most oustanding cadet in Canada came from Rainbow in 1964, 1965 and 1966.

Conconi, who takes over command, was a cadet from 1954 to 1959. He earned his commission with the Navy League cadet corps and then was commissioned a reserve officer in November, 1965. He joined Rainbow at that time and was appointed executive officer in September, 1969.

Home Care Grows

The provincial government is taking steps to expand its boarding home program for mental patients who no longer require intensive institutional care.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark announced Wednesday approval has been given for the appointment of 14 psychiatric social workers, holding masters degrees, to act as developers and co-ordinators of the boarding home program on a regional basis.

"An important aspect of the co-ordinators' function," Loffmark said, "will be to assist regions in extending the utilization of their community care facilities."

There are currently approximately 3,000 beds in supervised boarding homes and private institutions throughout the province.

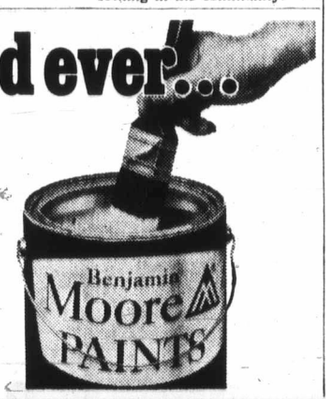

They provide care for patients whose condition doesn't warrant admission to a mental hospital and for the long-term patient who requires minimal care after discharge and has no other place to go.

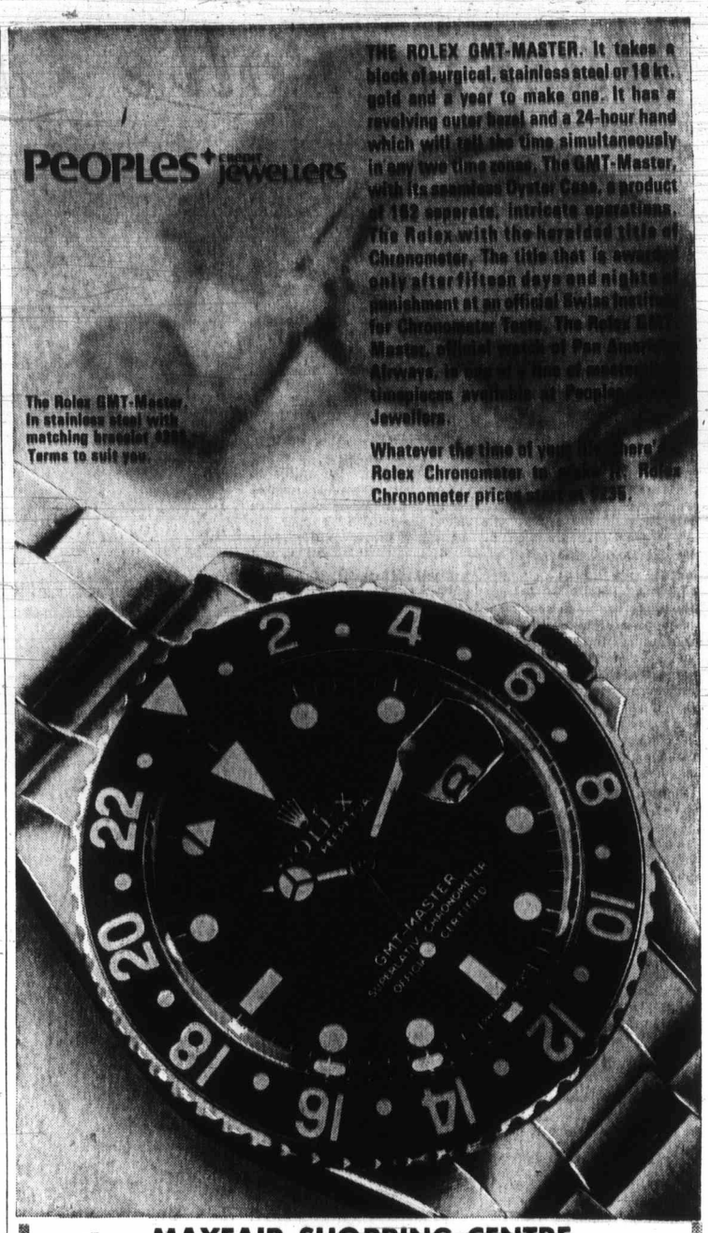

Loffmark said the program is available to discharged patients who need a place to live while taking rehabilitation training prior to resettling in the community.

Deficit Budget Hinted By Lang

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Otto Lang hinted Thursday that Finance Minister Edgar Benson will not opt for any dramatic expansionary fiscal policy when he makes his June 18 budget statement.

Lang responded to a Commons call from Ed Broadbent (NDP—Oshawa-Whitby) for a policy of "serious deficit financing" by saying the government must engage instead in "a responsible policy of deficit financing."

The House debated a Progressive Conservative motion critical of the government's response to the current unemployment situation.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics and labor department figures showed 659,000 Canadians out of work — 7.8 per cent of the labor force in absolute terms and 6.7 per cent seasonally adjusted.

Benson's December budget predicted a deficit of $320 million on approximately $13 billion spending in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1971, compared with an earlier estimate of a $250 million surplus.

Broadbent said the government should commit itself to spending billions of dollars on a program to provide adequate housing for all Canadians by the end of the decade.

Such a program would solve the social problem of inadequate housing and would also provide jobs.

Housing, he said, has a "marvellous economic spin-off"—that would get the economy rolling.

Lang criticized the opposition and said the government had taken the position that "unmindful spending" could not go on endlessly.

A responsible and stable climate had to be created to encourage the determination of "the great private sector."

Lang's reference to a responsible policy of deficit financing fits with comments repeated by Benson over recent months.

The finance minister said Wednesday that he was "satisfied" that the economy had expanded during the last quarter of 1970.

Any further stimulus created by a sharply increased deficit or reduced taxes would risk overheating the economy and the return of excessive inflation, he said.

The motion, which under House rules does not come to a vote, was introduced by Louis Comeau (PC—South Western Nova). It asks that the House express its deep concern that the government had continued to repudiate its duty to establish full employment programs.

Jet Fails Brass Display

PARIS (UPI) American government and airline officials flew aboard the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic jet Thursday and were invited back for a rerun after the huge plane failed to hit its maximum of twice the speed of sound.

Only Senator Barry Goldwater (R—Ariz.) "told me he may take up the invitation," said Henri Ziegler, president of French Aerospatial which built the prototype of the plane. The second flight was scheduled for today.

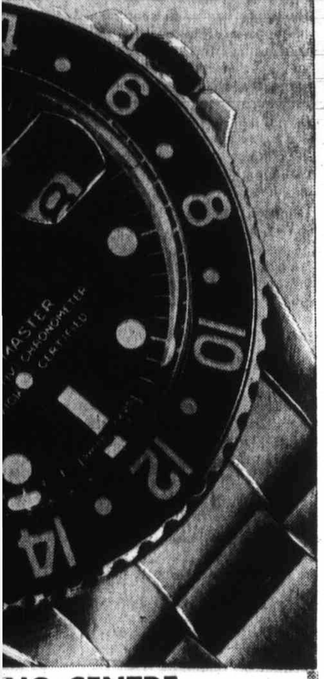

The delta-winged aircraft achieved a maximum of Mach 1.35 but then "it was impossible to ignite the reheating system on the Rolls-Royce engines, and Concorde couldn't go any faster," said Luis Giusta, Aerospatial general manager.

Aboard the sleek plane with Goldwater were U.S. Transportation Secretary John Volpe; Najeeb Halaby, president of Pan American World Airways; and representatives of British Overseas Airways Corp., Air France, Lufthansa and Eastern Airlines.

Such a program would solve the social problem of inadequate housing and would also provide jobs.

Housing, he said, has a "marvellous economic spin-off" that would get the economy rolling.

Lang criticized the opposition and said the government had taken the position that "unmindful spending" could not go on endlessly.

A responsible and stable climate had to be created to encourage the determination of "the great private sector."

Lang's reference to a responsible policy of deficit financing fits with comments repeated by Benson over recent months.

The finance minister said Wednesday that he was "satisfied" that the economy had expanded during the last quarter of 1970.

Any further stimulus created by a sharply increased deficit or reduced taxes would risk overheating the economy and the return of excessive inflation, he said.

The motion, which under House rules does not come to a vote, was introduced by Louis Comeau (PC—South Western Nova). It asks that the House express its deep concern that the government had continued to repudiate its duty to establish full employment programs.

Jet Fails Brass Display

PARIS (UPI) — American government and airline officials flew aboard the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic jet Thursday and were invited back for a rerun after the huge plane failed to hit its maximum of twice the speed of sound.

Only Senator Barry Goldwater (R—Ariz.) "told me he may take up the invitation," said Henri Ziegler, president of French Aerospatial which built the prototype of the plane. The second flight was secheduled for today.

The delta-winged aircraft achieved a maximum of Mach 1.35 but then "it was impossible to ignite the reheating system on the Rolls-Royce engines, and Concorde couldn't go any faster," said Luis Giusta, Aerospatial general manager.

The speed of sound is 750 miles per hour.

Aboard the sleek plane with Goldwater were U.S. Transportation Secretary John Volpe; Najeeb Halaby, president of Pan American World Airways; and representatives of British Overseas Airways Corp., Air France, Lufthansa and Eastern Airlines.

King Fisherman

All Big Springs Taken at Sooke

The fishing is still lively in Sooke waters, from Becher Bay, Beechey Head around to Whiffen Spit, Secretary Island and Otter Point. All the big spring (chinook) entered in the Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest have been taken from these waters.

Gordon and Gerie Field, 760 Lampson, Esquimalt, had an exciting morning, fishing off Beechey Head. Gordon caught a 36-pounder, then they landed others ranging from 7.14 pounds to 19 pounds. The fish were caught at different levels on a minnow teaser.

First prize went to Pete Lunness for a 2.12-pound cutthroat. Other winners included Chris Carnes, 2.9 pounds; Shirley Olivier, 1.12; Lyle Miskiman, 1.7; and Al Whittaker, 1.

Chamber Grant Supported

Victoria's finance committee recommended Thursday that city council make a $1,000 grant to the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The grant would represent the city's share of the chamber's request for $2,500 which was turned down in March by the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee.

Mayor Courtney Haddock said the grant would actually not be a grant, but "a fee for service."

The chamber intends to use the funds to pay for handling the numerous inquiries it gets from people across Canada.

'We Should Do Something...'

"I think we should do something about these guys," said Victoria mayor Courtney Haddock at a meeting Thursday of the city's Group A committee.

"Skinheads is what I call them," he added referring to a handful of young people who can be seen frequently on the streets and squares of Victoria chanting in Sanskrit.

The mayor related to the committee his feelings about "these skinheads who keep jingling and singing all day."

He said he had been in touch with Charles Barber of Victoria Cool-Aid "to see if he can do something about the situation."

The chanters, he said, disturbed Victoria citizens and should be stopped from chanting, at least in public.

"Charles Barber (of Victoria Cool-Aid) deals with all kinds of people; maybe he can convince these guys not to bother the public," he said.

But the mayor's way of handling the matter didn't meet with the approval of Ald. Robert Baird.

"With respect, Mr. Mayor, you are off on the wrong start altogether. I can't for the life of me find any connection between Cool-Aid and these people," he said.

"How would you handle it?" Haddock asked.

"I would invite them to my office and have a chat with them," Baird replied.

The mayor, however, said he would first try his approach.

"If it doesn't work, we'll try yours," he said.

Later, in an interview with the Colonist, when asked why the East Indian originated sect has its members chanting in the streets of Victoria, a sect spokesman said, "We are chanting the names of God in Sanskrit because we want people to become God-conscious and peaceful."

He said there are 10 members of the sect in Victoria and their teacher, A. C. Bhaktivedanta has asked them to go out onto the streets to chant.

He said members shave their heads as a sign of submission to their teacher and to God, but leave one lock so God can grab onto the lock.

When told of Mayor Haddock's views, the spokesman said," I have never met the gentleman but our purpose is to create a peaceful atmosphere when we are chanting.

"We hope we are not offending anyone, and if so, I openly apologize for all of us."

He said, "Even if we create anxiety, we must continue because it is a matter of life and death with us if we do not chant and glorify God."

Hydro Dispute

Strike May Hurt At Jordan River

Jordan River could become one of the major targets in the hit-and-run strike program launched two days ago by B.C. Hydro electricians.

The strike, which began in Burnaby, moved to Jordan River and Williams Lake Thursday. The 15 men who stayed off the job at Williams Lake were expected to return today, but there were hints that this wouldn't be the case at Jordan River.

Twenty men working at the dam site and on line construction were reportedly going to stay off the job. There was also an unconfirmed report they might start picketing the nearby generating station project — a move that would halt work by other tradesmen.

During the first two days of the strike the electricians, members of Local 258, International brotherhood of Electrical Workers, simply withdrew their labor. They did not resort to picketing and other tradesmen were not affected.

The union believes that a total strike by the 2,000 men involved would quickly bring a return-to-work order under terms of the B.C. Mediation Act and compulsory arbitration from the controversial B.C. Mediation Commission.

Yet, IBEW business agent Doug Cronk said Thursday a total strike "is always possible."

Cronk said from his Vancouver office there was also a chance the rotating strike system would increase in momentum.

"A total strike would no doubt bring a back-to-work order from the government and I'm being asked these days whether our people would go back to work. I don't know. We will make that decision at the time.

"Our people are in no mood to make such a decision right now."

Cronk finds fault with the fact that all the attention is being focused on possible government action and none on the possibility of independent mediation — something that has been proposed by the union.

"Nobody — including the labor minister — seems to be concerned about halting the strike, but only when Bill 33 (the mediation act) is going to be used. I find that a very sick attitude," he said.

He points out that in 60 years of dealing with power authorities in B.C., the IBEW has waged only one other strike. That was in 1957 when electric power was operated by B.C. Electric.

"We have had one of the best labor-management relationships over the years," Cronk said. "Our problem has only come about since that legislation (Bill 33) was introduced."

Hydro says the union has asked for too much — 29½ per cent over two years — and that this is the only reason settlement hasn't been reached.

However, the union stys it lowered its demands to an 18½ per cent wage hike over two years before final talks ended last week. The current rate for a lineman is $5.39 an hour.

Organized labor in B.C. opposes Bill 33 because of its compulsory features.

Hydro offered more than this — 21.75 per cent. But it would be over three years instead of two.

Hydro says it is not depending on government action as the union charges.

Complete power failures aren't likely because of the strike, according to Cronk. He said B.C. Hydro's operation is more automated then even that in Ontario and that in many cases a supervisor sitting in an office could keep the power flowing at some distant point.

Nevertheless, power knocked out by storms, traffic accidents and other means would create much more of a difficulty for supervisory personnel, he said.

The union had offered to return to the job in the case of an emergency — something involving danger to human life — but Cronk said Hydro had not yet accepted that offer.

Incinerators, Collection Available

Paper Disposal Still Possible

By NANCY BROWN

Victoria area residents don't have to be stuck with piles of old newspapers in their basements or attics.

While outlets for large quantities of waste paper, such as the Boy Scouts, Salvation Army and Goodwill stores, are no longer taking the paper because of marketing difficulties, municipal garbage collection services and backyard incinerator burning are immediate alternatives.

In Victoria, itself, a ban on backyard incinerators is expected to come into force at the end of this month.

Meanwhile the answer to what to do with newspapers and other paper garbage is simple — place it in the garbage can and it will be transported to the sanitary land fill dump on Hartland Road, used by all municipalities.

City engineer James Garnett told the Colonist Thursday there is no limit to the number of garbage cans that will be picked up from Victoria residences, provided they are standard size containers, and that each is properly filled, not partially full.

He said, too, that there is no ban on putting paper garbage in with other garbage.

Garnett also pointed out that once a bylaw under consideration becomes effective, there will be an end to all burning of paper in city incinerators.

The bylaw puts a total ban on incinerator burning through June, July and August, and allows only leaves and foliage to be burnt in incinerators at other times.

Garnett said the bylaw has not yet been passed and he doesn't expect it to become effective until the end of Jun.

Burning of paper is allowed in the other three core municipalities, and in all three papers can be mixed with other garbage for collection.

In Esquimalt, according to Mayor Art Young, incinerator burning is allowed early in the morning between sunrise and 10 a.m., provided that neither smoke pollution nor offensive odors result.

At the same time the municipality is studying the problems of newspaper disposal.

"If the newspapers are in the garbage can, we have no choice but to accept them," he said.

"What we are wondering is if we should pick them up if they are left bundled beside the can, or if we should open the municipal yard once a week so that householders can bring in their papers."

In Saanich the subject is completely open.

According to Ald. Edith Gunning the garbage collectors will pick up a maximum of two standard-size garbage cans from each household regardless of contents.

There is no bylaw covering incinerator operation, she said, although burning is sometimes banned by the fire department during dry summer months.

In Oak Bay the householder also has a choice of disposal methods for his newspapers.

He can turn them provided he doesn't do it on Sundays — or he can put them in the garbage can for pickup.

The problem of disposal of paper hasn't arisen in the past when Scout paper drives and such places as the Salvation Army were glad to accept stacks of paper.

The papers used to be sold to two recycling plants — one in Port Angeles which closed in January, and one in Burnaby which has enough paper from Mainland sources.

Hong Kong Charter

Victorians Among Stranded

At least two Victoria area residents were among a large group of Canadians stranded in Hong Kong Thursday because a charter flight which was to have taken them home did not arrive.

The Canadian government has intervened in the case of the 190 Canadian tourists, Mike Lemmon, Canadian Pacific's Airline's Hong Kong manager said.

Lemmon said the government has directed CP Air to offer lower fares from Hong Kong to Vancouver for those stranded passengers waiting to return home.

In Vancouver, it was learned that the flight was arranged by a recently-formed company known as International Charters but the manager of the company could not be reached for comment.

"They solicited every Oriental household on Vancouver Island, but nobody seems to know anything about this outfit," Mar said. He said he knows of at least two persons from the Victoria area who went on the charter flight to Hong Kong from Seattle.

However, he said he could not identify them.

CP Air is offering to fly the passengers, about 80 per cent of whom are Chinese living in Canada, back to Vancouver for the authorized amount of $500 instead of the normal tourist class fare of $477, Lemmon said.

The spokesman for International Charters in Hong Kong refused to give details of refunds offered some of the passengers or to say if a charter flight is expected in Hong Kong soon to fly the remaining people back to Canada.

It is believed that most or all of those obtaining refunds are planning to return to Canada on scheduled flights.

The spokesman said most of the people are Chinese living in "all parts of Canada who have been visiting relatives in Hong Kong.

Another 180 people preparing to join a second charter flight to Hong Kong from Seattle were informed that the flight had been postponed.

No reason was given and Chinese community leaders in Vancouver said that people who tried to reach the manager of International Charters to retrieve their money had been unsuccessful.

A secretary at the charter office in Vancouver said her instructions were to tell all callers that the plane had been delayed.

Private Hospitals Air Census Beef

Long versions of the national census forms have been causing plenty of headaches but the problems are mostly unnecessary, according to Clare Thompson, regional census officer for British Columbia.

Some private hospital operators in the Victoria area have complained because patients in each hospital, rest home or hostel were given one of the long forms.

"We have some people here who don't even remember their own names," said Mrs. J. W. Rowbotton at Glenwarren private hospital.

"I don't know how we are expected to find out how many stillborn children they had and things like that."

She said there are 63 patients in the hospital and that she has asked for an interviewer to come to the hospital to get the forms filled in.

At West Bay hospital in Esquimalt where there are 45 patients the story was the same.

"I'm expecting someone from the census to come over here to fill in the forms," said Mrs. M. L. Johnson. "Many of the people here just don't remember the answers to any questions. Some are senile.

"I don't really know why we had to have this long version of the form — we're busy enough here as it is, and we don't have staff people to spare for this kind of thing."

Thompson, however, said it is not necessary for hospital staff to attempt the impossible.

"Every residence with more than 10 unrelated people in it received the long forms," he said.

"We understand the problems of private hospitals caring for senile people, and all the staff have to do is fill in the information they can, and then explain in the section for comments why the forms haven't been completed."

He said there have been other complaints about the census, but people who have phoned the census offices have had questions answered apparently to their own satisfaction.

"I've had some irate phone calls, but people have simmered down once their questions were answered," said Thompson.

He said that of returns arriving at the office, there appears to be little evidence that people are refusing to fill in the form.

He said all information is covered by the Statistics Act, which makes it an offence to reveal any of the information even to a court of law.

Race Made for Spectators

The sea off Beacon Hill Park will be a perfect setting Sunday for waterfront enthusiasts when an expected 100 sailing yachts compete in the Centennial 71 yacht races.

He explained the races would start off Clover Point distance of 21 miles from the at 10 a.m. and will run a starting line out to the Fairways buoy, which is about four miles off Beacon Hill Park, then to Brotchie Ledge and back to Clover Point. The vessels will sail twice around the course.

"The run from Brotchie Ledge to Clover Point should be a good spinnaker run," McVie said, and added the races should be an "excellent marine show right off Beacon Hill Park."

He said there is no entry fee for any of the races and the entry deadline is 5 p.m. Saturday at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

"You don't have to belong to any yacht club to take part in the races," he said.

Vandalism Topic

Vandalism and arson will be among the topics discussed at a conference of the School Plant Officials Association of B.C. being held at the University of Victoria Tuesday to next Friday.

Joseph Phillipson, B.C. deputy education minister, will give the keynote address during another session of the conference. Community use of schools will also be discussed by delegates.

IODE Charges Discrimination

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The federal government has cut down the amount of a grant given the IODE for a travel project, and project chairman Mrs. W. R. Morrison of Hamilton is calling it discrimination against the order.

For the second time, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is sponsoring a group of high school students chosen from each province on a trip to another part of the country.

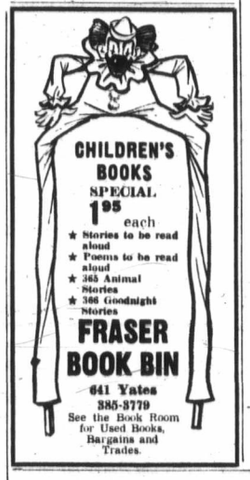

In 1969 they took 24 girls to Ottawa and received a federal grant of $3,500. This year they are sponsoring 24 boys on a 13 day trip to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. They have been given a grant of $1,350. Mrs. Morrison, travel and exchange chairman says that amounts to $56 per boy.

She announced the cutback at the 71st annual meeting of the IODE, which ended Thursday.

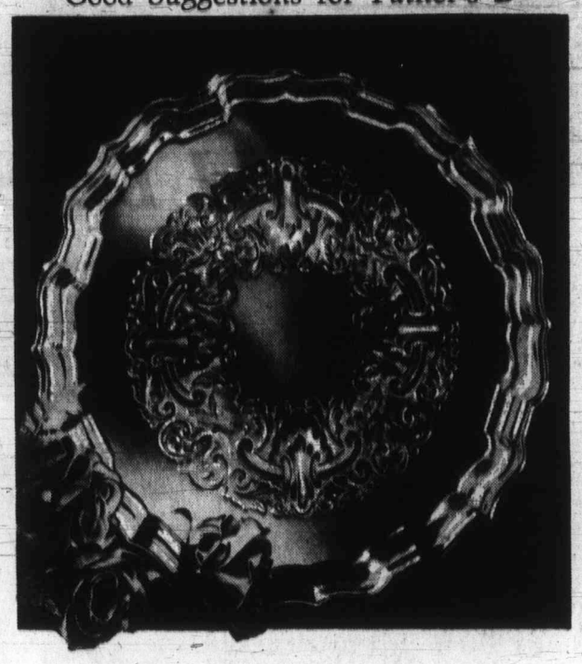

Mrs. Morrison said in an interview she bases her charge of discrimination on the fact that she was told the IODE is a wealthy organization and was asked if the boys included in the group are from low income families.

She said the comments were made in the course of several conversations by Gerard Gagne, chief of voluntary agencies, travel and exchange division of the citizenship branch of the department of the secretary of state.

She said the IODE is not a youth-oriented organization, that the youth travel project is only one of many places that its money is spent.

Liberal Censure

HALIFAX (CP) — A topic the royal commission one the status of women missed — the census — was verbally pummelled at a public hearing Wednesday of the Liberal party's three-woman study group assessing reaction to the commission's proposals.

On the day after the Dominion Bureau of Statistics invited people to "count yourself in," the mood of the meeting seemed to be that the 1971 census was unfair in several aspects.

One woman, who complained that census form made the man the family head although many people considered marriage a partnership, found a staunch ally in Jan Steele of London, Ont., the study-group chairman.

Mrs. Steele, executive vice-president of the Liberal party in Ontario, said she also finds this year's census discriminatory in its questions touching on nationality and economics.

Pope Paul To Allow Easier Annulment

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul(VI will allow local Roman Catholic church courts around the world greater freedom to nullify Catholic marriages which have broken down, Vatican sources said this week.

They said the Pope has approved an order simplifying the procedures necessary to obtain a declaration of annulment at all levels from diocesan courts throughout the world up to the sacred Roman Rota, the church's principal appeals court on marriage cases.

However, the exact nature and scope of the reports was not known. The sources said an announcement was expected within the next week or two.

While the Roman Catholic church does not allow divorce, it does grant nullity declarations in cases where a court decides a valid marriage never existed from the start.

The proposed reforms already have been put into effect on an experimental basis in most dioceses in the United States for the past two or three years, the sources said. They are designed to cut the time and paperwork necessary to get a nullity declaration.

Italian Roman Catholic sources had predicted for some time that reforms would be generally applied, in order to provide an effective alternative to divorce for Italians. A divorce bill was passed by the Italian parliament last December over the Pope's strenuous opposition.

At present, the grounds on which nullity can be declared are limited. They include lack of free consent, insufficient age, nonconsummation, the failure of one partner to bring children up as Catholics and even the event of one partner not being baptized.

Theologians are studying other possible causes for which a marriage might be declared null and void, such as mental incompatibility.

The Vatican sources said the proposed reforms are part of a general revision of the church's code of canon law being undertaken by a 200-member commission under Cardinal Pericle Felici.

Children's Shows: More Requested

CALGARY (CP) — The quality of children's televison programs came under fire at the annual meeting of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Association organizations this week.

Delegates seemed to have no problems on agreeing on what they want in the way of programs and on when they want to see them. The 60 delegates approved resolutions to improve program quality by asking the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to repeat existing good ones or increase the number to be available in the afternoons.

Four good programs specifically mentioned were the Friendly Giant, Mr. Dress Up, Sesame Street and Chez Helene. These now are shown in most centres during a two-hour period in the mornings.

"There are no programs of comparable quality for children's afternoon viewing when half the nursery school and kindergarten children are home," said a resolution prepared by the Manitoba delegation.

Delegates to the four-day meeting also criticized television commercials aimed at children and passed a resolution asking the Canadian Radio-Television Commission to regulate "this unethical type of advertising which is being accepted by the television stations they license to operate."

Other resolutions passed included:

- Recommendations that environmental education, human ecology and conservation be included in provincial curricula.
- Initiation of in-service or extension courses for teachers, administrators and parents on environmental topics and ecology.
- Request for a ban on the import and manufacture of highly inflammable materials, especially acrylic fur.
- Recommendation of a ban on television advertising of legal mood-modifying and sleep-inducing drugs

Liberal Women Censure Census

HALIFAX (CP) — A topic the royal commission one the status of women missed — the census — was verbally pummulled at a public hearing Wednesday of the Liberal party's three-woman study group assessing reaction to the commission's proposals.

On the day after the Dominion Bureau of Statistics invited people to "count yourself in," the mood of the meeting seemed to be that the 1971 census was unfair in several aspects.

One woman, who complained that census form made the man the family head although many people considered marriage a partnership, found a staunch ally in Jan Steele of London, Ont., the study-group chairman.

Mrs. Steele, executive vice-president of the Liberal party in Ontario, said she also finds this year's census discriminatory in its questions touching on nationality and economics.

"I find it an amazing document to be coming from DBS in 1971," she said. "I'm glad to be joined by outraged citizens.

A woman who said she was a census representative complained that adopted children were not included in the census form section asking about children's births. "I'm suggesting to all my people to put them in anyway," she said.

Prof. Esther Greenglass, a psychologist at York University and member of the study group, referred to criticism about excluding housework work. She said this implied room a question on unpaid work. She said this implied housework was just play.

The study group's third member was Mrs. Lambert Gibeault of Hull, Que.

Liberation An Attitude

TORONTO (CP) — Gisela Naunin, president of the National Council of Women in Germany, feels that women's liberation in her country is a matter of attitude rather than law. A former lawyer, Mrs. Naunin has been on a lecture tour across Canada and the United States and was in Toronto recently.

Clubs Probe Work

About 175 delegates will attend the 39th biennial conference of the National Association of Canadian Clubs Sunday to Tuesday in the Empress Hotel.

Local delegates will register Sunday night, and a coffee party will start at 8 p.m.

The Monday morning session will include workshops on big-city women's clubs, big-city men's clubs and other clubs. Business meetings will follow a luncheon.

The B.C. Government is giving a dinner for the delegates Monday night, and Stuart Keate, Vancouver Sun publisher, will speak on Can'a British Columbian Find True Love in Canada.

Reports will be given Tuesday morning, and at a luncheon Eric Morse, national director since 1949, will speak about his retirement. John Clarkson will replace him.

Women Raise Grange Funds

TORONTO (CP) — The Women's Committee of the Art Gallery of Ontario has raised more than $600,000 for the building fund and restoration of The Grange, a building behind the gallery.

The committee has raised more than $200,000 to restore The Grange since the campaign began in 1968. Members have also raised about $400,000 for future gallery expansion through two lotteries.

'Unapproachable' People Rated Poor Counsellors'

TORONTO (CP) — A test carried out on Grade 12 students in five British Columbia schools and Grade 11 students in five Nova Scotia schools has shown that 50 per cent of the students judged their teachers as being "unapproachable."

Dr. Justine Harris of St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S., told a workshop of the Canadian Guidance and Counselling Association Wednesday that such teachers should not be considered for counselling training.

The pupils judged 301 teachers who also were tested by the researcher.

"I would state flatly," said Dr. Harris, "that an adult perceived by students as being unapproachable would be a poor risk in a counsellor-training program and a contradiction in terms as a counsellor."

Dr. Harris said it is impossible to describe "what the thing is that makes a person approachable But I know that the teachers, who did the research with delight and joy (they didn't know the purposes of the tests) were the ones the kids ranked high as being approachable."

The study indicated that what a person teaches has an effect on the student's view of his approachability.

"A teacher has a better chance if the subject is in the humanities," she said. "Teachers of math, science, languages, and physical education scored low with the students."

Diet Pills Disaster for Woman

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: One reads a great deal these days about drug abuse among teen-agers. Why isn't more said about drug abuse among adults? It very nearly cost me my life.

I always had a tendency to obesity. My overeating was mainly compulsive. Last January I became disgusted with myself because I had gotten fat as a pig after my last baby. I went to the local "diet doctor" and he gave me benzedrine pills to curb my appetite. Perhaps under ordinary conditions it would have been all right, but that year was a hideous time for me. I had forced my husband into a separation he didn't want. Our baby was born with a defective heart. The two-year-old began to act up because she felt displaced by the new baby. I fought with our oldest daughter constantly. (I couldn't control my temper.) By May I had lost the weight I had set out to lose but I kept taking the diet pills anyway. (I can't understand why my doctor kept renewing the prescription.) Finally I realized the pills were responsible for the violent outbursts and frequent crying spells. I kept promising myself, "tomorrow I'll stop," but I'd wake up exhausted with too much to do. I'd always think of an excuse to take just a few more pills to get me through the day. When I realized I was hooked I vowed to finish the bottle and not buy more. That didn't work either.

One night I tried to kill myself. Thank God I didn't succeed. That was the turning point. I got some counselling and for the first time I began to understand myself and my relationship to others. To make a long story short my husband and I are back together. I am happier now than I have been at any time in the last 20 years. In evaluating my troubles and how they began, I realize the blame is more mine than the doctor's. But I still think something should be done about physicians like that. Maybe amphetamines wouldn't have wrecked most people, but for me they were disaster.

Housewives should be told that when they want to lose weight, bennies and dex are not the answers. The pounds are sure to come back after you quite the dope. I am not proud of myself for getting into that syndrome, but I am proud of myself for getting out of it. I am also thankful that luck was on my side. I came within inches of being dead. If you use this letter, sign me—Binghampton Lesson.

Dear Lesson: Here it is. And now a word to everyone who is taking amphetamines, for any reason. Please tear out this column and paste it in your medicine cabinet — as a reminder.

Dear Ann Landers: A recent writer who signed himself Oklahoma stated that gasoline, paint thinner and acetone should never be used indoors. He advised the use of kerosene or diesel fuel instead because they are better grease solvents and are non-explosie. This is wrong. Both are explosive.

While kerosene and diesel fuel are safer to use because of their higher flash points, both will burn and explode under the right conditions. If kerosene is applied to a hot engine (shade-tree mechanics often do this) it will give off inflammable vapors which can be ignited at a lower temperature than gasoline vapors.

I just wanted to correct a misleading statement. —Fire Chief in Houston.

Dear Chief: I am always happy to correct a misleading statement — especially if the statement could lead to an 11-alarm fire. (In Texas it could be 13 — everything is bigger down there!) Thank you for writing.

School's Role Reflects Haze

By SUSAN BECKER

HALIFAX (CP) — The uncertainty of today's society is mirrored in the increasing confusion about what schools should be doing, members of the national Council of Women of Canada were told Wednesday.

Gerald McCarthy, school superintendent for neighboring Dartmouth, said that in the past, schools rested on "a great public concensus" and were able to set themselves up as experts on morals, manners and grooming as well as academic subjects. This was no longer true.

He told women attending the council's annual meeting here that their organization is especially suited to help establish a new consensus about society's values which could provide a firmer foundation for modern education.

McCarthy also said school systems have become too vast and remote.

In their final session, conference delegates decided to send a telegram to State Secretary Gerard Pelletier expressing concern about the lack of Canadian content in school textbooks and asking for measures to foster the development of a Canadian identity.

They also agreed to send a message to the United Nations expressing support for the world organization's work.

The national council is a federation of local and provincial councils and other organizations representing a total of about 750,000 people.

Council members decided to ask the government not to ratify an agreement that would allow developing countries to reproduce literary, musical and artistic works without ragard for copyright or payment to an author.

Mrs. George Klinck of Toronto said the agreement, produced at a 1967 meeting of publishers in Stockholm, Sweden, would deprive authors of their rightful income.

Miss S. M. Steadman of Ottawa, a council vice-president, said it was important for the council to stimulate continued public interest in the report of the royal commission in the status of women.

The council is to have its 1972 annual meeting in Regina.

Sewing Uses Fusion

EDMONTON (CP) — Consumers may be noticing a new sewing technique in ready-to-wear garments these days, says Marilyn Hemsing, clothing and textile specialist branch, Alberta agriculture department.

"Ultrasonic sewing machines are being used by manufacturers for the sewing of synthetic fabrics," she reports. The ultrasonic machines use high-frequency vibrations to create heat. On the new synthetic fabrics, which are heat-sensitive, the two pieces of material then fuse together.

"The most common use so far that I know of is in the fused collars of men's shirts," she says. However, the method is becoming more widely used.

No needles, thread or bobbins are required, but several stitch patterns are available. Seam strength varies with choice of the stitch pattern and the fibre content of the material.

Lady in Bath

I think I mentioned some time ago about the trouble I had in identifying a plant which one of my readers called Lady in the Bath. I searched through ancient garden books every night for a week before I discovered that this is one of the names for the plant we call Bleeding Heart!

I had a similar incident last week; a lady wrote to me about a beloved flower she had known in childhood, and according to her rather hazy recollection, it had been called Honey Bill. It was only after racking my brains for two solid days that the answer came—her plant was Sweet William!

These old-fashioned flowers seem to be coming back into favor, and I have been pleasantly surprised this season to keep running across this old favorite of mine in so many garden centres and plant stalls around town.

These plants are almost always grown from seed, sown either by their proud owners or by the greenhouse operators from whom the plants were purchased. It must always be remembered, though, that these seed-grown plants must necessarily be something of a mixed bag, and any given batch, even from rigidly selected seed, is bound to contain a certain proportion of plants with wishy-washy colors or poorly formed blooms along with some superb specimens.

This is not the dealer's fault, for there is no way of separating the sheep from the goats until the plants actually bloom, which is in their second year.

With this in mind, it is a good idea to upgrade your Sweet William collection by scrapping the poor ones as soon as their faults become apparent, and by increasing your most attractive specimens by taking cuttings in late June or early July. Plants grown from slips taken and rooted this summer will bloom next year, bearing blooms identical in every way with those of the parent plants.

Select a few of the strongest and healthiest side shoots from the plants with the most attractive flowers. Remove some of the lower leaves, and trim the lower end of each slip with an old razor blade, making your cut close below a node or leaf joint. The cut should be clean, with no ragged edges or crushed or bruised tissues, hence the razorblade rather than shears, scissors or a dull knife.

Moisten the cut end of your slip—I stick mine in my mouth, a most unsanitary habit—and dip it in one of the hormone rooting powders. There are several of these on the market, sold under such manes as Rootone, Seradix, Auxan, Hormonex, Ree-Root and Stim-Root, and they really DO speed up the rooting of slips of all kinds. Shake off any excess powder, for too much is worse than not enough, and your slip is ready for planting.

If you have a coldframe or a small homemade propagating case such as I have described in earlier articles, these are ideal for rooting your slips. If only a few slips are involved, I like to use flower pots, preferably the squatty kinds, filling them loosely with dampened peat moss and inserting the Sweet William slips about an inch deep around the edge of the pot.

If you have no coldframe, greenhouse or propagating case, simply insert your treated slips in a shaded outdoor bed of rather sandy soil. Pour a little water around each cutting to bring the soil into firm contract with the stem base, and make a practice of spraying over the foliage with a fine mist of clear water at frequent intervals until the roots have formed and new growth is seen at the tips of the baby plants. A few drops of liquid seaweed plant food in the water will help things along, although not strictly necessary.

Your new plants should be ready for setting out in their flowering location by about the middle of September.

Pitcairn Miscellany

LOS ANGELES — It came in an envelope, but it might as well have come in a bottle, washed up by the sea.

It was the Pitcairn Miscellany for June 1963, a little monthly newspaper put out by mimeograph at the school on Pitcairn Island, in the South Pacific.

It came from an M. Scott, of Temple City. It had been sent to him by a friend who once worked on Pitcairn. "We were amazed," Scott wrote, "when we unearthed it yesterday, to discover it was so outdated. How time indeed does fly!"

Time flies in Temple City, but not on Pitcairn Island. Although the miscellany is eight years old, it seems to report life as it might have been eight years earlier, or 80, or 180, when Fletcher Christian put ashore from the Bounty with eight other mutineers and a dozen Tahitian women. The paper is sprinkled with the surname Christian, so tenacious was his seed.

The big news is of the coming and going of trading ships, with cargo for the island. "The Gothic arrived from New Zealand with a large cargo including the long-awaited household effects of Pastor Ferris . . ."

There is church, and school. The men fish and mend their boats. The women wash and garden. Birth and death are rare events.

"The whole community was shocked and grieved at the sudden death of Fanie Christian, aged 53 years . . . The following afternoon she was brought into the church for the last time by Pastor Ferris and Brother Bert Christian, who paid a tribute to her faithfulness . . . and her playing of the organ."

There are accidents. "Vula slipped from a guava tree in which she was climbing after fruit and fell a distance of 20 feet before she stopped . . ."

"Pastor Ferris, after the usual Tuesday evening prayer meeting, slipped and fractured his left leg . . ."

Fortunately, the Athenic soon put in from London. The ship's surgeon set the pastor's leg and the pastor was taken aboard for New Zealand, leaving his long-awaited effects behind.

There is good news. "Walter Bruce was cleaning out the bilge on the barge he discovered Albert's teeth. These had been lost when Albert was rescued in a semi-drowned state two years ago when the Ho Ho capsized. Albert looks a different man now his teeth are back in place . . ."

There is drama. Seven men are caught offshore in four canoes by a sudden storm. The alarm is sounded; the women gather on the shore. The motor launch puts out in a sea so heavy the cabin glass is shattered. Boats capsize, men are half drowned. The rain is so torrential is saves the day; it flattens the sea. The wind changes and . . . "the boat came in through the breakers and all danger was passed . . ."

But another kind of storm was on the horizon, one the men of Pitcairn couldn't deal with. The French, in 1963, were planning to build a nuclear testing station on nearby islands . . . nearby as nuclear explsions go.

And the Pitcairn Miscellany, mimeographed in a schoolroom for a colony of 90 . . . "85 Pitcairners and 5 strangers' . . . rises to this threat with an editorial in the finest tradition of the press.

"The French claim their possession of nuclear bombs and other weapons of mass destruction will greatly assist in maintaining liberty in the world, and that therefore it is essential for them to carry out the proposed tests . . .

"The people of Pitcairn are living in fear of what the future holds for their island . . . Why should we, a helpless handful of people, be swept aside like straws in the wind!

"At about the same time Pitcairn was being settled by Fletcher Christian and his party, in France, a woman, Madame Roland, was being led to be executed. As she approached the guillotine she cried out, 'O Liberty! What crimes are committed in thy name!' This could easily be the cry of Pitcairn today."

All this was eight years ago. I don't know how things have turned out. I can't keep up with French preparations for the spread of liberty. I can't even keep up with our own. I do hope Pastor Ferris is back with his household effects, though, and Albert still has his teeth.

Sydney Harris

Go Slow To Win

There might be a lesson for our economy, and our society, in the maxim of a racing driver. Stirling Moss once made a paradoxical comment on the way to win a race: "It consists in driving as slowly as you can."

What did he mean by this strange remark? He meant that the racing driver tries to win by the smallest possible margin; that he goes only as fast as is consistent with edging out the other drivers; if he tries to go the limit and beat other drivers by a large margin, he will almost surely crack up and lose.

Moss was making the distinction — so often forgotten by the rest of us in other fields — between the "maximum" and the "optimum." It is an important distinction in every kind of race, and understanding it may mark the difference between success and failure.

The "maximum" means simply the most, taken as an absolute in itself. The "optimum" means the greatest degree or best result obtainable under specific conditions. For instance, the maximum speed of a racing car may be 200 miles an hour; but the optimum speed — what is needed to win without cracking up — may be only 160 miles an hour. At anything above that, the risk is greater than the possible reward.

Our economy heretofore has always aimed at "maximization" — at maximizing profits, at maximizing production, at maximizing income, and all the other indices of "affluence." Our motto has been: "The more the better — and therefore, the most the best."

But suppose that "optimization" is what we should now aim for — not the "biggest" but the "best" result in terms of the specific conditions of life on Earth? This would imply changing our scale of values so that the long-term "social costs" of our economic efforts are taken into consideration, as they have not been in the past.

For it seems clear that we have to choose today between quantity and quality. It is the sheer quantity of our production — beyond a certain amount — that reduces the quality of our lives, the two, unfortunately, do not rise together into infinity, but at some point must be held in a sophisticated balance.

The task before us now is to learn how to "optimize" our society, so that we reach our goals without cracking up. This might mean lowering our standard of private living, so that our public needs can be met. It might mean decreasing the use of energy to maintain environmental health. Whatever measures we take, if we keep firmly in mind that the "maximum" may be the enemy of the "optimum," our track record might be as impressive as Stirling Moss'.

. . . in Hollywood

Talk about a wanderlust! Pete Duel reports he drove cross-country about 10 times, camping by the side of the road, just enjoying seeing how America lives. He was planning another such excursion, with his gal, Diane Ray, along for companionship, but career involvement has now cancelled that trip.

Pete's ABC series, Alias Smith and Jones, resumes shooting in mid-June. Right now he's involved in an NET two-hour production. "If I'm lucky, I'll have time to catch my breath between assignments," he said.

Career certainly hasn't stopped Pete from doing his own thing, appearance-wise. When he met me for lunch at a posh Hollywood restaurant, shirttails were out, blue jeans were flapping, and his features were framed in a full-blown beard and shoulder-length hair.

"It sure doesn't look like the same me on Rooftop, does it?" said Pete. And indeed it doesn't. On ABC's current Love on a Rooftop series, Pete is at least 20 pounds heavier, five years younger, and much less hairy.

"Wouldn't it be a gas," he said laughing, "If those repeats end up ratings hits. If would serve them right! The show never should have been cancelled in the first place. Of course, if they asked us real nice, Judy Carne and I might agree to co-star in a new version of that series. For about $25,000 apiece per episode."

Story, McGraw 'Year's Worst'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The Harvard Lampoon named Harvard-situated Love Story as the worst movie of the year Thursday with Ali McGraw, who played the tragic heroine, as worst actress.

The Lampoon, the oldest college humor magazine in the U.S. listed Elliott Gould as worst actor "for his limp performance in Getting Straight and for dumping Barbra Streisand."

In its annual "Worst Movies" edition, the Lampoon listed Love Story first "for goosing the tear ducts of the American public, for providing yet another vehicle for Ali McGraw's talent vacuum, and for subjecting countless talk-show audiences to the unutterable disgrace of Erich Segal," the author.

The other nine movies selected were Airport, Patton, Joe, Soldier Blue, Getting Straight, The Strawberry Statement, Little Fauss and Big Halsy, Julius Caesar, and The Statue.

Jon Voight, "whose performance as Milo Minderbender in Catch-22 was as tough to swallow as chocolate-covered cotton," was named worst supporting actor. Ruth Gordon, "who appropriately enough kissed George Segal's left buttock in Where's Poppa, was named worst supporting actress.

Among other awards were:

● "The Timothy Cratchit Memorial Crutch to that personality who offers the lamest justification for unsavory behavior; this unattractive simulated formica implement goes for the second year in a row to President Richard Nixon, who gave Patton a careful screening the night before he announced the Cambodian invasion."

● "The stronger argument of laxer divorce laws award to Bob Evans, president of Paramount Pictures, and Ali McGraw for obvious reasons."

● The Dance of the Seven Scott Tissues award to Mick Jagger "who trips the light psychedelic in Performance."

● The Hey Jack, Which Way To Mecca? award for worst direction to Michaelangelo Antonioni for Zabriskie Point.

● "The wilde Oscar conferred upon that performer who has been willing to flout convention and risk worldly damnation in order to pursue artistic fulfillment: to Liza Minnelli, for not sleeping with a paraplegic homosexual and a stuttering epileptic in Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon."

● "The Wrong-Way Corrigan Memorial Flight Jacket to the film which does more to distort the course of history than Nikita Khrushchev's Memoirs, presented without the slightest apology to Cromwell."

● The Martha Mitchell Mug "presented for the first time to the trench-mouth of the year" — Peter Boyle in Joe.

● The OK Doc, Break the Arm Again award for "the most flagrant example of miscasting . . . to Dean Martin, who soberly piloted a 707 to a Bellylanding in Airport."

● The Where is Erik Erikson Now That We're All Going Bananas? award — "a set of goldplated thumbscrews and a spicy meatball to Jack Nicholson who, in Five Easy Pieces, showed that it's never too late to have an identity crisis."

It Never Rains, It Pours—Artfully

By BERT BINNY

It never rains, they say, but it pours and there seems to be substance to the saying.

This week, Wednesday through Saturday seemed to be dedicated to the cause of live theatre with the B.C. Drama Festival Centennial Showcase of Plays rolling merrily along at the McPherson Playhouse. It still is — but even more so!

The senior students of the Bastion Theatre school, now ending its 1970-71 semester, offer The Italian Straw Hat by Eugene Labiche and Marc Michel.

A version, shortened from five to four acts, is being used and the entire production is being worked by the students both on and backstage. And there is no admission charge.

For those with a theatrical bent who are planning their summer activities, Bastion's Summer School of Theatre will run from July 26 to Aug. 14—three classes a week in the various age groups.

Further details on all these projects are available by calling Bastion Theatre at 382-4112 or by dropping in at 30 Bastion Square.

□

Pianist Kwok May Ling, the Victoria Conservatory of Music student who won the City of Victoria medallion at the music festival, has done it again.

But she was not alone. Victoria's Rose Bowl winner, soprano Nan Long, came out on top in vocal competition while 11-year-old violinist Gwendolen Hoebig and nine-year-old cellist Desmond Hoebig all won their classes. Except for Desmond, who appeared in the junior instrumental division, all these successes were scored in senior categories.

It appears at Courtenay on Saturday evening and in Victoria at the McPherson Playhouse on Sunday afternoon.

But there is also great musical activity at the Butchart Gardens this weekend.

Those popular regulars, the Butchart Buskers, entertain from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

But at 3 p.m. Sunday it is also the turn of the Yamhill County Little Singers — 70 in number — from McMinnville, Ore.

At risk of being repetitive one may say there's a lot going on, musically and theatrically, at the coming weekend.

Has anyone got a large rocking-horse?

One, perhaps, that has been put out to grass and needs exercise?

Such a steed is required for the upcoming Smile Show where it will be given the enviable task of packing you-know-who through the streets of Coventry.

New York City Next New State?

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — More than one-third of the state assembly has sponsored a bill to make New York City the 51st state.

Assemblyman Leonard Simon, a Brooklyn democrat, has been sponsoring a bill to have New York City secede for the past three legislative sessions. The measure introduced Wednesday was co-sponsored by all 44 New York Democrats and a contingent of upstate Republicans. The 51 sponsors are just over a third of the 150 assemblymen.

Quebec Joins CNE Displays

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — The Quebec government will participate for the first time this year in the annual Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, Claude Simard, minister without portfolio said Tuesday.

"We consider it significant that Quebec should be represented at the CNE at a time when growing co-operation between our two provinces is not only desirable but essential," he said.

In the days when sail was king, B.C.'s weekend mariners knew a thing or two about the water. And the beer. Sure, there have been some changes — but the yachtsmen of yesteryear would still say "Aye" to Old Style. It's still their style. Slow brewed and naturally aged to wet a man-sized whistle. That's why it's a British Columbia favorite beer. Down the hatch, me hearties!

Glum Crop

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 44 colleges and universities this summer will turn out a record crop of more than 50,000 graduates into the glummest job market since the worst days of the Depression in the 1930s.

'Joe Is a Better Boxer . . .'

SANTA MARGHERITA LIGURE, Italy (UPI) — Joe Frazier waited 30 minutes for the crowd that never came Thursday, then went out and sang seven songs for 300 people.

The world heavyweight champion made his debut Thursday night in this northern resort, but it was no success.

Organizers said they promised Frazier three times the amount spectators paid and critics gave him ho-hum reviews.

"It is not his fault," said one, "that Joe is a better boxer than singer."

It was the same story for Frazier as the ones dogging him across western Europe on a singing, dancing and clowning act he put together for a much publicized tour which has turned into a fiscal nightmare for organizers.

Promoters said they promised Frazier $14,000. They said receipts for the show were one-third that amount.

Frazier stayed in his dressing room for 30 minutes while organizers waited for more spectators. When no more turned up, the champion went out and started the performance.

Bruce Lowther

This column has a longstanding rule: when there's no TV news to pass on, come up with a new word game.

Thanks to my daughter Cathy, I present for your amusement a game in which you take old sayings and change one letter, thereby changing the entire meaning of the saying and giving yourself a smile. Examples:

- You can't tell a book by its lover.
- A bird in the hand is worth two in the mush.
- Odd soldiers never die, and rear 'em and weep, and the lust society.
- A stitch in time saves none.
- As Goldilocks said, Fourscore and seven bears ago . . .

There you go. Think up your own and enjoy.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Thursday's answer — Sugarfoot, Cowboy G-Men, Tombstone Territory and Fury all were real TV series but Son of Fury was a movie and not a bad one at that. If you think I'm kidding about Cowboy G-Men, look it up.

Today's question is more of the same silly stuff. You are required to pick the phoney from among these titles of TV series: Circle Theatre, Studio One, Climax, Alcan Theatre and Playhouse 90. Having chosen it, can you think of what real series I am referring to? Answers Saturday.

"That's not a SARDINE! It's Moby Dick."

Friday Highlights

● C-8:00 p.m.—The last time you'll see the hilarious Sammy Davis-Wilt Chamberlain visit to Laugh-In. Love that judge—2, 6.

4:30—Tropical Fury (1939). Not worth seeing at all—13.

1:30—Trooper Hook (1957 anti-bias western), Joel McCrea, Barbara Stanwyck. Much better than you would expect; worth both seeing and thinking about—12.

Friday Radio

8:05 p.m.—Gala Performance, the only item in sight all day, is a pops special with the Beethoven violin concerto, De Falla's El Amor Brujo, Ravel's Alborada and Debussy's Faun—CFMS (98.5).

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

In your early days around the bridge table, various principles became thrust upon you. Most of these counsels undoubtedly stand the test of time, yet sometimes it is necessary to rebel against one of them, as in this deal.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

2 ◇	Pass	2 NT	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣	All Pass

Opening lead: Three of hearts.

Suppose you were defending with the East hand and your partner leads a heart. At first sight it seems child's play to play the king, and normally you wouldn't dream of playing any other card, such as the jack.

Moreover, there is an adage which says, "Never finesse against your partner," and if you don't obey it you run the risk of displeasing your partner mightily.

However, let's suppose you put up the king, lose it to the ace, and shortly afterwards find yourself on play after winning a trick, with the ace of trump. What are you going to lead next?

Obviously, you have to try to take two more tricks straight off, otherwise declarer's losers will be deposited on the diamonds. Unfortunately, you have no way of knowing what suit to return. If West has the queen of hearts, you must play a heart, but if South has it you must shift to a spade, hoping your partner has the A-Q.

This dilemma can be avoided very neatly by simply playing the jack of hearts on opening lead, even though this virtually amounts to taking a finesse against your partner.

If the jack loses to the queen, you will know that your only chance is to shift to spades when you come in with the ace of trumps. On the other hand, if your partner has the queen of hearts your jack will force the ace and again you will know where you stand.

Joint Council Talks

Swim Pool Surfaces At Duncan

DUNCAN—The dormant swimming pool issue was brought back to life at a joint Duncan-North Cowichan councils' meeting Thursday night at Duncan city hall.

Both councils re-affirmed "the principle of a swimming pool" and they will instruct their respective recreation commissions to go ahead with the formation of a swimming pool study committee.

Moore pointed out that his society holds $68,000 in trust and he expressed concern about lack of direction and action following the defeat of a $400,000 swimming pool money bylaw in April, 1970.

The society began a fund-raising drive in September 1969.

Moore suggested that the swimming pool study committee should have three members from North Cowichan recreation commission, three members from the Duncan commission, two members of Cowichan Op-Rec Society and possibly representatives from the public.

The two councils also decided to inform D. R. McRae, executive secretary of Cowichan Regional Safety Council, that the local governments were not in favor of the safety council's suggestion to introduce licensing of cycles.

McRae also will be advised to direct his request to Cowichan Valley Regional Board. He had stated in a letter that cycle licensing would be a theft deterrent and would also enhance cycle safety because parents would be made aware of "their responsibility to ensure their child knows traffic regulations respecting cycles and complies when in traffic."

North Cowichan Mayor Gerry Smith pointed out that Duncan and North Cowichan areas border on unorganized areas over which the local governments have no jurisdiction.

Duncan Mayor Jim Quaife thought because "bicycles are piling up in every police station across the country" bicycle licensing might be the first step to overcome that problem.

Councils also discussed a feasibility study on services which was completed in November.

Cost of the study was $9,600 of which North Cowichan paid two-thirds and Duncan the balance. One of several items aired was a proposed public safety building and Duncan representatives stated they were not in a position now to contribute to a new public safety building.

Smith stated he had heard that renovation of the present police station at Duncan would cost between $100,000 and $120,000 and that North Cowichan was not interested in spending money on a facility which would be outdated in about 15 years.

He also thought Duncan police station did not conform to the National Building Code. Quaife said if North Cowichan wanted to go ahead with a new public safety building in the municipality the city would retain its own RCMP department.

It was suggested that in perhaps five years, policing would become a regional responsibility.

Hoover Blackballs High-Level Police

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI director J. Edgar Hoover blackballed two prominent police authorities as guests at a White House conference with President Nixon Thursday on what the American government can do about the recent rash of of police assassinations. —51 this year.

The two are Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and a former assistant FBI director who has feuded with Hoover for years, and Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy of New York City.

Murphy said the reported White House explanation that he was not invited because he was not a police chief was "simply incredible."

"It was with disappointment and dismay that I learned that the appearance of police of the greatest city in the world — confronted by a major problem of violence by guns — was not wanted at the Washington conference," he said at police headquarters in New York.

"We cannot allow political considerations to hinder cooperative efforts to improve the safety of our police officers and the public," Murphy said.

Tamm was quoted by Scripp-Howard newspapers as saying the two were not invited by Hoover, who drew up the guest list at Nixon's request, because of the FBI director's personal animosity. Hoover, said Tamm, was "playing politics with policemen's lives."

Nixon, Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell met for nearly two hours in the White House cabinet room with 19 officials of the IACP, the National Sheriff's Association, police chiefs from Washington, D.C., Chicago, Kansas City, Mo., Boston, Los Angeles City and County, the states of Texas and New York, and ranking members of the house and senate judiciary committees.

Mitchell told newsmen afterwards that Nixon announced he would ask congress to authorize payment of $50,000 to each slain policeman's family, and that Hoover outlined federal resources available to local police departments in coping with the problem.

Spokesmen for the law enforcement officers expressed appreciation for Nixon's concern but agreed that police slayings were a local matter which federal agencies should enter only on request. Mitchell noted that local authorities "would prefer to handle such cases as local crimes."

'Revive Hanging'

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Western Canada's police chiefs called Thursday for a return to hanging for all murders.

Delegates to the 16th annual conference of the Western Canada Chiefs of Police Association passed a formal resolution favoring capital punishment for all cases of premediated murder.

A five-year trial period under which only the killers of policemen or prison guards are liable to capital punishment expires at the end of 1972.

On Gagnon

Security Report Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minster Trudeau Thursday denied a suggestion by Robert Thompson (PC—Red Deer) that a comprehensive security report on Jean-Louis Gagnon, director-general of Information Canada, was recently prepared for the cabinet.

But Thompson then read in the Commons what he said was a March 12 letter signed by Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford saying such a report had been drawn up for use of the cabinet.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux cut off the exchange, saying Trudeau could give the explanation demanded by Thompson today.

Thompson said Trudeau had given the Commons "misinformation." He quoted Basford, who was not in the House, as saying the report for cabinet could not be made public.

After opposition questioning in the Commons more than a year ago, Trudeau said he would ask the RCMP to make a new security check on Gagnon.

He told the Commons later that the check had cleared Gagnon.

He said Thursday that he received the security report himself and that "There wts nothing in this case to look at with alarm."

Trudeau said there was no such report. The matter had not been discussed in cabinet for more than a year.

Gagnon after his appointment to Information Canada told a Commons committee that he had supported the Loyalist cause in Spain the the late 1930s and a Soviet-Canada friendship committee in the 1940s.

New Soviet Warship Enters North Sea

COPENHAGEN (AP) — A new type of Svoiet warship described as the Soviet Union's "secret Baltic Sea weapon" passed through Danish waters today into the North Sea and was photographed by the Copenhagen tabloid B.T.

The newspaper said the picture was taken by one of its photographers from a small plane over the 34,000-ton vessel as it headed north from the Baltic Sea into the Great Belt.

Official sources said Western intelligence has suspected for some time that the new warship, which combines missiles with conventional weapon has been operating in the eastern parts of the Baltic. This is the first time one of them has been reported venturing onto the high seas.

30 Crewmen Jump Cruise Liner

They're Flying Home To U.K.

By DON COLLINS

They were very young—some of them only boys.

And minutes before they had been standing there on the dock at Ogden Point, hollering and giving victory signs and demonstrating a goodly amount of bravado.

● Cyclists won $1,600 race, which cost them $8,700. Page 16

But now most of them had grown momentarily quiet. Reality was setting in.

Their ship really was leaving without them.

And there they were, 30 young British crew members from the Alaska cruise ship, the P & O liner Arcadia, illegally on strike and illegally in Canada.

It was a moment for big decisions.

"Gee, I guess I'll phone my mum," a teenager among them said. "She'll be so worried when the news reaches England."

Today, if all goes according to plan, the 30 will reach England themselves.

The warning from their captain that they might be charged as deserters never materialized.

"We certainly would want to avoid that," a spokesman for the Canadian immigration department said as the liner disappeared from the harbor en route to San Francisco.

Fly Home Today

With the help of the immigration department, P and O assistant branch manager Ray Graves of Vancouver found accommodation for the strikers in the Vancouver Seamen's Mission overnight.

He also arranged to fly them home today.

There was a question about who would pay for the flight. But even the strikers seemed to think it would come out of their pay at some future date.

Where Victoria was concerned, that was pretty well the end to an event that no one could really mistake for Mutiny on the Bounty.

But it was colorful while it lasted — full of militant talk, fun-making, a little singing, a murmured threat or two and some honest doubts.

'Bad Conditions'

Some 40 men walked off the ship Thursday afternoon — most of them dining room waiters with a scattering of bell boys — saying they were striking because of bad conditions.

They gave one official reason for their strike — the refusal of their demand for two hours of blanket overtime each day.

They are members of the National Union of Seamen in Britain and while they make up such a part of a 740-man crew, there was a possibility their absence would create problems for the big liner.

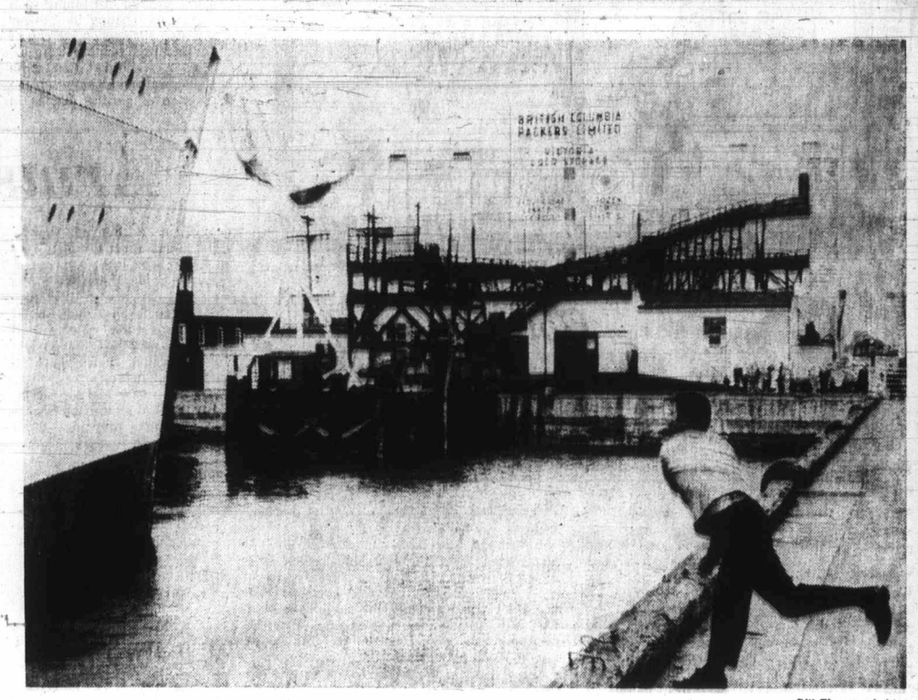

'They Won't'

Only six returned to the ship after the warning about possible desertion charges. They might have almost 900 passengers to serve in two dining rooms.

Much depended on whether another 50 waiters from what used to be Portuguese Goa now part of India — would serve the passengers.

To Clarify Soviet Aims

NATO Mission To East Urged

LISBON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp called Thursday for the appointment of an individual envoy to Eastern Europe by the NATO alliance to seek clarification of recent Soviet proposals for talks on East-West troop reductions.

● NATO meets amid bomb blasts. Page 14

Sharp told a news conference following the first day of a two-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers that Canada has no particular views on who should serve as envoy but he added he would be happy with the choice of retiring NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio.

He said the Russians had refused to spell out details of their proposal to Prime Minister Trudeau who discussed troop reductions during a recent visit to the Soviet Union.

Canada would not oppose a recommendation by U.S. State Secretary William Rogers and West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel that a special NATO meeting of deputy foreign ministers be called in several months to discuss the troop reduction issue in greater detail.

Canada's permanent representative to NATO, Ross Campbell, told the news conference France is opposed to the idea of East-West talks on mutual troop reductions and would not participate in such discussions.

Sources said French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann told the meeting efforts should be concentrated on trying to remove basic causes of conflict in Europe before talks on troop reductions.

Sources indicate that the French have been extremely skeptical toward the Russian proposals. France has no part in NATO military planning but may fear that its nuclear forces could be affected by any East-West agreement on force reductions.

Police Find Suspect Really Marked Man

"You look peaked," Jimenez told the suspect. "Are you sick?"

"I am sick," replied Walther, "I've got the chickpox."

The policeman, who had never had the disease, now is waiting at home to see if he caught it — and other officers are trying to decide how to fumigate the two squad cars in which the suspect rode.

Wage Dispute Reaction

Victoria Police Work 'To Rules'

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Victoria police union members are expressing unhappiness over their wage dispute with the city by "Working to the rules," a spokesman for the union confirmed Thursday.

Spokesman Kenneth Horsman told the Colonist: "The members of the union have decided to provide a service according to the rules, which you might call working according to the rules. The decision was made at their own discretion. The executive had no bearing in this whatsoever."

The statement confirmed a Colonist story of last Sunday which said police had changed the emphasis of their law enforcement away from arrests and on to warnings since about noon Wednesday, May 26.

It was at that time that it became known the city had offered police a 7½-per-cent pay increase over the next year and the union representatives who received the offer at a meeting that morning had rejected it.

Horsman said he was "not prepared at this time to interpret the meaning of the phrase 'according to the rules'."

However, he added: "I can possibly say one of the areas you might expect the members to act is they would not expose themselves to unnecessary dangers, as they often do, in order to exercise an arrest."

He also said the union "is seeing our solicitor this weekend to find out what our legal standing would be in some of the areas suggested by our members."

Horsman declined comment on how members might decline to expose themselves to danger, and on what other areas of working to the rules had been suggested.

Other sources indicated the

Suddenly, Mass Exodus

CARACUS, Venezuela (UPI) — A venturesome cow Thursday strayed from a hill onto the roof of a small church and fell through to break up a mass being held at the time.

The crash and accompanying noise panicked churchgoers who fled into the street. The main altar of the church was destroyed but the animal escaped injury.

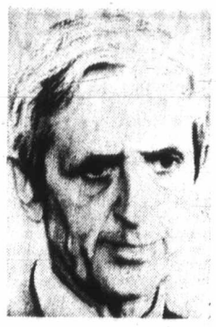

Foreign Money Taps Stay On—with 'Care'

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Energy Minister J. J. Greene apologized in advance Wednesday for giving a speech he had not seen until a short while earlier.

But, he told a petroleum association meeting, he would stick to the text.

"We have a new policy in Ottawa. All speeches must be delivered to the prime minister for clearance in case there is any anti-Russian or anti-American content.

"But I can say one thing anybody who thinks we do not need more foreign capital than we have had in the past doesn't understand the Canadian economy."

Greene

Formerly, Canada accepted United States capital on the basis "all wen want is your money and we don't care how you develop our resources."

"Now we are saying we care."

The government is awaiting the results of studies before imposing strict rules on the acceptance of foreign capital, he told the petroleum society of the Canadian institute of mining and metallurgy.

"In a short time we'll start making decisions.

"We have good cards to play and we have to be good traders on our energy resources."

Marine Pilots Compulsory?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons transport committee voted Thursday to compel ships to carry marine pilots in all the main shipping regions in Canada. Under current legislation, the only compulsory pilotage district is in the Great Lakes.

Defence Budget Jumps in Egypt

United Press International

Egypt unveiled a record-breaking $1.5 billion defence budget Thursday, 24 per cent of its total expenditures for more andneither will we be the coming year. Israel, apparently fearful of the new Soviet-Egyptian "friendship" pact, sought U.S. assurances of continued arms supplies, Jerusalem sources said.

Egyptian Finance Minister Abdel Aziz Hijazi told a Cairo news conference the $1.560 billion allocation "to continue supporting demands of the battle and national security needs" for fiscal 1971-72 exceeded last year's figure by $175 million and was included in a total budget of $6.486 billion. The budget will go to parliament June 12.

By comparison, the Israeli defence budget is 39 per cent of its total spending; that of the United States is 32.1 per cent.

Political sources in Amman said Jordan's King Hussein gave the green light to a new crackdown on guerrillas when he said in a letter to Premier Wasfi Tel, "We wish our stand in the face of these people to be strict and decisive, without hesitation, forgiveness or bargaining."

Holtzman Fights Way To Second No-Hitter

Holtzman, who pitched a no-hitter two years ago against Atlanta Braves, overcame periods of wildness for his classic and stifled the Reds, mostly on ground balls.

Holtzman struck out six, walked four and kept Cincinnati's fearsome Big Red Machine pounding the ball to Cubs' infielders as he weaved his way out of jams caused by control problems.

In order to nail down his no-hitter in the ninth inning, Holtzman had to face the top of the Reds' powerful batting order.

That brought up slugger Lee May who ran the count to two balls and two strikes before striking out to end the game.

Holtzman scored the game's only run in the third inning when he led off and reached base on Tony Perez' throwing error.

Holtzman got into his toughest jam in the bottom of the third inning when he walked Buddy Bradford leading off. Bradford moved up on a wild pitch and then went to third base as Dave Concepcion grounded out.

OUT OF TROUBLE

That brought up pitcher Gary Nolan, who bounced in front of the plate. Catcher Danny Bredan pounced on the ball and tagged Nolan for the out, Bradford remaining at third.

May walked in the fourth inning but was erased on Johnny Bench's double-play bouncer. Bradford drew a two-out walk in the fifth but Concepcion struck out to end that inning.

TOOK CONTROL

In the sixth inning, McRae walked with one out and stole second base. But Helms lined out and May bounced out. Then Holtzman took control, retiring the Reds in order over the last three innings.

Holtzman, a 25-year-old native of Creve Coeur, Mo., had been struggling this season, dropping six of his first eight decisions.

CARLTON WINS

St. Louis Cardinals extended their lead in the National League East to 1½ games as Steve Carlton pitched a seven-hitter and slammed a two-run double in a 7-1 win over Pittsburgh Pirates.

Carlton got into early trouble as Pirates collected four of their hits in the first three innings but he settled down to gain his 10th win in 12 decisions.

BACK IN FRONT

In the only American League game, pitcher Ray Culp's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning carried Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 win over New York Yankees. That win moved Red Sox one-half game ahead of the idle Baltimore Orioles in the East Division.

New Patrick Generation Arrives on NHL Scene

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lester Patrick, 31, whose father and grandfather have made notable contributions to hockey, was named business manager Thursday of Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League.

Patrick, who attended the University of Colorado and Hartford University is the son of Lynn Patrick, St. Louis Blues vice-president and general manager, and the grandson of the late Lester Patrick, long-time coach and general manager of New York Rangers.

Miller Earns Tourney Lead

ATLANTA (AP) — Young John Miller snapped out of a two-month slump with a brilliant seven-under-par 65 and stormed into the first round lead in the $125,000 Atlanta golf classic Thursday.

Miller, 24, held a two-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus heading a group of four at 67. He was tied at 67 with Ray Floyd, former U.S. Open champion Orville Moody and Dave Eichelberge.

Defencing champion Tom Aaron was well back at 71. And Dave Hill had his troubles over the hilly, 6883-yard, par-72 Atlanta County Club course as he fired an 81.

Among the Canadians entered, Ken Fulton, Montreal, had a 70, Wilf Homenuik, Winnipeg, 71, Ben Kern, Toronto, 74 and George Knudson, Toronto, 75.

British Amateur Champion Ousted

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — American Walker Cup players, past and present, captured half the quarter-final berths of the British amateur golf championship Thursday while England's Mike Bonallack was upset in his bid for a fourth straight title.

Updegraff, 49, who won in overtime Thursday morning, took a 30-minute lunch break then scored a convincing 4 and 3 victory over Ireland's Joe Carr. Carr, whose 20-year-old son, Roddy, made the final eight, also is 49 years old and twice a British champion.

Bonallack, who had won the title five times including an unprecedented three straight times in 1968-69-70, was upset in the morning round when Mike Schwitz of South Africa took the match, 4 and 3. But Schwitz, a 28-year-old lawyer, was a 4 and 2 victim of Scottish Walker Cup player Hugh Stuart in the afternoon.

Thus, England's only hope for victory is Peter Moody, who advanced with a 4 and 3 verdict over J. K. McIvor of Scotland.

Kite, a 21-year-old University of Texas student, entered the quarter-finals with 2 and 1 victories over Scotsmen Walter Black in the morning and Ian Ritchie after lunch.

On the 6828-yard, par-72 Carnoustie layout, Kite was seven under par over-all, which he termed "pretty fair golf."

Melnyk, the former U.S. Amateur champion, defeated John Glover of Ireland, 2 and 1, then scored a 3 and 1 victory over David Marsh of Scotland.

In today's morning matches, Stuart, who ousted John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex., 3 and 2, in the fourth round, will meet Simons.

Young Carr will face Kite; Hugh Campbell of Scotland who advanced with a 3 and 2 victory over Warren Humphreys of England, will face Moody while an all-American match will pit Melnyk against Updegraff.

The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Racing Leaders Set for Action

Stock cars and super-stocks are expected to put up a lively battle Saturday night at Western Speedway.

Chris Van De Water, leading driver in the stock-car division, has taken two of the four stock-car main events this season but has not been able to open up a big margin on the father-and-son combination of Earl and Larry Pollard. Larry is second with 332 points, 61 behind Van De Water, while his father is third with 307 points.

Ross Surgenor, who won six main events in his super-stock last season for a runaway in the drivers' points championships, is behind his pace of last season with only one win so far but still leads in points with 315. Close behind are Rick O'Dell with 299 and Larry Walker with 267.

Highrise Blight

THE WEALTH migrated northeast to posh Uplands some years ago now. The status symbol of the Rockland area moved with it and while I refuse to mourn for lost status symbols, I do mourn for any deterioration of what has to be the most gracious few square miles of our town.

The quietly-mellowed old homes and mansions of architectural splendor, the magnificent formal and informal shrubbery, the tall firs, the leafy shade of the chestnuts, the little streets tucked away from the hustle of the world.

A civic assets that can't possibly be measured in terms of money. An asset that should be protected by uncompromising laws, an asset that should be restored wherever restoration is necessary.

THE HIGHRISE has made its first blightful invasion. Camosack Manor, a fine, modern building as fine modern buildings go, but totally out of step with the mood of Rockland. In effect, an ugly scar to sit there forever. Like sticking a skyscraper in the middle of Venice.

Many fine old homes have been turned into rest homes, apartment dwellings. Barclay Manor, Golden Manor, Braeside, Rockland Hospital — but they've retained their charm, the pride of upkeep.

But to tear them down for modern apartment buildings would be the unpardonable crime. No other area in this city exemplifies Victoria as much as Rockland.

THE PROBLEM, of course, is to get elected officials to shuck off their apathy towards such an asset. It might be money well spent to send the mayor, an alderman or two and the town planner on a junket to places that have preserved and indeed, improved the old charm.

Let them view the splendor of the Carmel business district — in fact, the entire city of Carmel. Surely one of the most delightful spots in all of California.

Let them move over to Monterey to the Cannery Row area — a place steeped in the nostalgia of John Steinbeck, a place out of the past that charms the eyeballs out of tourists.

LET THEM try Los Gatos, California, where a fine old Spanish-style high school was set for the wrecker's hammer before a concerned group manned the breach and saved the place. Today it's called Old Town and school rooms have become shops and boutiques fairly reeking with the elegance of long ago. It is now the biggest single asset of that city and other cities in the immediate area are planning like restorations.

Send them to the oppressive heat of New Orleans to view the wonders of the French Quarter. Old, some of it decaying, but all of it full of charm, full of excitement, full of life. No section of New Orleans is as renowned, no section draws the tourists as it does.

SEND THEM to old Quebec City to view the restoration, or to sections of Halifax that are undergoing restoration. If preserving the past isn't so all-fired important, why has the government of Canada set up a historical restoration department? Why would it spend the great sums of money facelifting Louisburg to its magnificent best?

Journey then to Deerfield, Main, a little town that has captured the imagination of hundreds of thousands of visitors with its antiquity, carefully preserved to the point you are in an entirely different world.

Vancouver's Gastown is in the humble stages of beginning. Many millions of dollars will be spent there eventually before it becomes an area that will draw people from every corner of Canada. Even now, they flock to see what has been accomplished.

THE POWERS that be in our town must be made to realize what important gold mines we have here. They must be bludgeoned with representation from concerned individuals and groups.

Once they do undertake a rebuilding of the Wharf area, they're stuck with it for all time. Once they allow highrises to blight a Rockland area, once they tear down fine old homes to allow such building, there's no turning back.

Easy as hell to tear down — impossible to put back. We have a glorious chance in this city — a chance few cities have. Let's not blow it forever.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

'Thinning' of Bones

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr Thosteson: Please tell me what osteoporosis is, and if there are any injections or vitamins that would help is there any cure for it?— Mrs. R.H.I.

We think of our bones as being fixed and permanent, but that isn't the way it is. Our flesh and our blood are constantly being replaced, a cell at a time. The same is true of our bones.

The shape of the bones is preserved by a matrix, or sort of pattern, with the strength and density of the bones provided by large amounts of calcium.

The same particles of calcium don't stay there indefinitely. The body is constantly taking some away and replacing them with others.

Unfortunately as the body ages, the balance of removal and replacement sometimes get out of kilter. Calcium is withdrawn more rapidly than it is replaced.

The result is a "thinning" of the bones, a gradual loss of density, and hence of strength. This loss of density is apparent in x-rays. In time, more apparent consequences can occur — weight-bearing bones (the legs, for instance) may become somewhat bowed. If the spine is affected, there can be pain and stooping. If the hip bones are thinned, there is more risk of a fracture.

Keep in mind, however, that in other individuals there may be osteoporosis, but not to a degree that causes any real trouble.

I can't in good conscience say that there is a "cure" for osteoporosis, but at the same time I won't say that nothing can be done for it, because usually something can.

It occurs in both sexes, but is more often noticeable in women who have passed menopause, suggesting that the change in hormone level in the body probably has a good deal to do with the situation.

Therefore treatment with hormones, plus attention to a good diet — plenty of protein, and plenty of calcium, especially from milk and milk products — is called for. Recently sodium fluoride has been found to increase density in osteoporosis.

Since bones (as well as other tissues) thrive best by being used, the patient with osteoporosis is urged to remain as active as possible. Naturally if there is any appreciable brittleness of the bones, as occurs with osteoporosis, the patient is warned not to be foolhardy about things. Stay active—but guard against falling.

"danger" aspect of the matter could include incidents involving gunfire or speedy chases.

Horseman was asked specifically about three points in the Colonist story and, in each case would not go into detail. They were:

- A report that fewer arrests are being made and fewer tickets issued, and police instead are taking such action as issuing a 24-hour roadside suspension instead of an impaired driving charge.
- A statement that some policemen are stepping up the practice of putting drunks in jail overnight to sleep it off instead of issuing charges of causing a disturbance by being drunk.
- A claim that the objective of these changes of emphasis may be to deprive the city of revenue received through fines.

The wage objective of police is parity with Vancouver, which would mean a pay boost of about 21 per cent.

Horsman said the working-to-rules situation "could progressively get worse" and added it was understandable that the morale of the union members was "at a very extreme low, and this is bound to affect their efficiency as police officers."

He said the last thing all union members want is to be put into the position of not doing their sworn duty — protecting the public — and stated such a situation "would be thoroughly despised by every member."

He made no comment about a possible strike in Victoria. The story last Sunday said all policemen were against such a move.

Asked if Victoria could expect the violence that struck Montreal when its police went on strike, he said it could and added a Victoria police commission argument that Victoria is not experiencing as much crime as Montreal "is ridiculous."

Said Horsman: "I believe Victoria has in the last 10 years had more police officers shot than has any other city in B.C."

The union spokesman also disclosed a letter was received Monday by the Victoria police commission saying the union is "ready to meet at any time" to discuss the dispute.

The other sources said the working-to-rules decision was made at a police union meeting Tuesday when members also decided to suggest arbitration of the dispute rather than have to go before the B.C. Mediation Commission.

Mayor Courtney Haddock said: "My sympathies are with the police, but the city cannot compete with other highly industrialized cities like Vancouver. If people are dissatisfied with the wages we pay, they should look for more lucrative fields of employment.

"I have great admiration for our police force. I hope they are reasonable men and they will act as such. No matter what their arguments, we can't consider parity with Vancouver.

"I don't think it will ever come to a strike but, if it does, then so be it."

As for arrest totals, a study of new Victoria arrests in Victoria Provincial Court showed 88 in the first 21 court days in May — up to the Wednesday the wage offer was made and rejected — or an average of slightly more than four a day. Since then, 12 new arrests in seven days.

Tickets issued by police normally average 50 a day or more. Since that Wednesday, they have averaged fewer than 20 a day.

Arms-Cut Mission

Rogers challenged Sharp's statement that Trudeau had been given the impression that the Russians were extremely serious in their proposals on troop reductions. If this was the case, said Rogers, why had the Soviets not outlined their plans in detail to Trudeau?

Sharp, who leaves Lisbon for Paris this weekend, said the Russians may have been reluctant to outline their plans to Trudeau because they are awaiting the appointment of NATO representative to deal with the matter.

The minister will attend a meeting of ministers from countries in the Organization for Economic co-operation and Development in Paris. He said the meeting is extremely important and he would use it to warn against the dangers of any restrictive trade policies which might be adopted following British entry into the Common Market. Europe must be outward-looking and liberal in its trade policies, he said.

Walk-In Part

Secret Sitting Not So Secret

BOSTON (UPI) — Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said a Seattle businessman accidentally got into a meeting of the National Security Council in 1961, received a top-secret briefing on the Berlin crisis and a greeting from President John F. Kennedy before he was discovered.

Both the names and the situation have been changed in Salinger's novel, On Instructions of My Government, which he discussed Wednesday at the convention of the American book sellers' association. But Salinger said the basis of the incident was true.

Salinger said the businessman was met by presidential aides and security officers and he got into the meeting" just as the lights went out and they started to project top-secret slides and information on the Berlin crisis."

The man realized he was in the wrong meeting when he saw the president, the head of the CIA and the secretary of state, Salinger said. In fact, Kennedy walked by him at the end of the briefing, patted him on the knee and said, "Things are pretty tough today."

He was discovered shortly after the president left. Officials solved the security breach, Salinger said, by requiring the man, a retired air force colonel, to telephone Washington every 15 minutes and tell officials where he was.

Everett Clubs To Play Here

Amchitka Test

Optimism Comes After Hearing

DUNCAN — "I went there very pessimistic but I returned with far more optimism," said Kurt Horn in an interview at Duncan Thursday when he discussed the recent Anchorage public hearing into a proposed nuclear test at Amchitka.

Horn, president of the Cowichan-Malahat branch of the Scientific Pollution and Environmental Control Society, presented a brief at the hearing which was conducted by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The test explosion in the Aleutian Islands is scheduled for the autumn. It has been estimated that it would have a force equivalent to 5,000,000 tons of TNT compared to the first Amchitka explosion in 1969 which was equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Horn was accompanied by Seiicha Tanaka, a University of Victoria graduate student.

He said that it turned out that they not only represented the people of British Columbia but the entire Canadian nation.

There were no representatives from the federal or provincial governments so. "I read the official Canadian protest along with my brief to make people at the hearing aware that Canadians are very unhappy with the proposed blast."

The visit to the hearing by Horn and Tanaka was sponsored by Amchitka 2, a Victoria-based organization formed to oppose the atomic test in Alaska.

Horn said about 24 briefs were presented at the two-day hearing. He felt the most compelling protest was voiced by a native of the Aleutian Islands who said that they wanted to be left alone, as they had been for thousands of years, to live off the land and sea.

Horn said: "It was a very sad speech and I just wonder if it made any impression on the Atomic Energy Commission officials."

Horn said that among the protesters were three high-ranking officials from Alaska including Sen. Mike Gravel, Congressman Nick Begich and Attorney-General John Havelock.

"One of the senators was asked by the media how he felt about the test and he just said mark me down as being nervous if they go ahead with the test," said Horn.

"If they go ahead with the test, every person in Brtiish Columbia will have grounds for being nervous." Also represented among protesters were officials from California "but Alaskans were not aware that Canada as a nation was also protesting."

He said the AEC claimed it had to have the test for its weapon program but it was pointed out by Dr. Jeremy Stone of the Federation of American Scientists that the test was unnecessary.

Horn said the brief from Amchitka 2 focused on four areas of concern. It was stressed that a blast might result in an earthquake, a tidal wave of disastrous proportions, or destruction of sea and other wildlife.

The brief added that there was a very dangerous possibility that the new blast could rupture the undersea cavity left by the 1969 test, releasing radioactivity.

It was also feared that there might be "accidental venting coming from the new undersea blast area."

Horn said: "The AEC officials don't speak of a detonation, explosion or a blast but of an event. And instead of speaking of an escape of dangerous material, they talk of venting. It all sounds quite harmless but in actual fact the entire proposal of having another underwater test is an example of inhuman indifference."

Mrs. McVicker, Hannah first to hold hands in park

Nanaimo Addition

Park Finished By Lions Club

NANAIMO — Several months ago, Nanaimo resident Dot McVicker suggested to butcher Len Hannah that an unused corner across from his shop at Wallace and Fitzwilliam, Nanaimo, would make a good park.

Hannah is project chairman for Nanaimo Lions Club and after months of work by club members, and $1,000, the park was opened Wednesday.

Mayor Frank Ney paid tribute to the service club and suggested the city might investigate setting up a fund to aid such organations with their civic improvement projects.

Christie School Closing This Term

Tofino School Tender Awarded

TOFINO—Tenders for the new Tofino elementary school has been awarded to Dyke Construction of Dawson Creek whose bid of $490,306 was the lowest of 10 opened this week.

The Indian affairs department has given $811,000 for the new school and considerable work to clear and prepare the grounds has been going on for some months.

The school, plans for which have been described as "ultra modern," is scheduled to open Sept. 15.

The school will be taking Indian pupils from Christie School on Meares Island, across from Tofino. Christie school, which has a present enrolment of 132, is scheduled to close this term.

It was officially opened in 1900 and was named after Archbishop Christie of Victoria who gave permission for a fund-raising drive for an Indian school.

It was started by the Benedictine Order, but in 1938-39 the priests were recalled to serve in missions in Oregon and they were replaced by the Oblate priests who still serve at the school.

Teachers have been provided by the Benedictine Nuns of Mount Angel, Oregon, who were there until 1961 and subsequently by the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Supreme Court Decision

Surrey Told To Pay Patient Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada Thursday ordered the British Columbia municipality of Surrey to pay $100,000 in back payments to the King George Highway private hospital to cover costs of welfare patients.

In a decision from the bench, the judges upheld a claim by the hospitals that Surrey must pay a daily rate of $11 rather than $8.05 for welfare patients, the same rate paid by private patients.

Three private hospitals in Victoria, including Glengarry and Glenwarren private hospitals, have similar court actions pending against the city of Victoria, city solicitor T. P. O'Grady said Thursday.

But O'Grady declined comment on the significance of the Surrey judgement to the cases in Victoria. "I'll have to study the judgement in detail," he said.

Victoria currently pays a daily rate of $9.25 to private hospitals for welfare patients. This is the maximum rate on which the provincial government will share costs. The province now pays 85 per cent, with the municipality carrying the remaining 15 per cent.

Other hospitals also have suits pending against Surrey and other B.C. Municipalities to have the $11 rate in force. If these also are upheld, welfare costs for indigent patients in B.C. hospitals could cost the province many additional millions of dollars.

Surrey Mayor William Vander Zalm reacted angrily to Thursday's decision by the high court, saying the ruling will cost Surrey "a bundle."

Vander Zalm said he doesn't know how much yet but the cost could go as high as $250,000. In the meantime, he said, Surrey is going to continue not placing welfare patients in private hospitals.

He said he is going to see Health Minister Ralph Loffmark in Victoria with a view to the province "taking this wholly inequitable load off the municipalities."

The mayor suggested that "if the province doesn't pick up the tab we may perhaps have to start a drive to take the mainland away from Victoria and leave them sitting on an island."

R. J. Shepherd, president of the B.C. Association of Private Hospitals, said from Vancouver Thursday there would be a special general meeting of all members later this month to discuss the implications of the court decision.

"Needless to say we're very pleased our situation has been upheld and we hope this may lead to more amicable relations with the provincial government which has been shafting us all down the line."

Asked if the association would now insist upon receiving the $11 daily rate for welfare patients which was the basis of the successful court action, Shepherd said: "No . . . we regard this as being more of a negotiable item."

He added: "We hope now to be able to sit down with them (the provincial government) and get a payment that is closer to our costs (of caring for welfare patients)."

Since most private hospitals charge different rates, however, this would likely vary, Shepherd said.

The association on a number of occasions in the past has requested meetings with both Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi and Health Minister Ralph Loffmark. Shepherd said in each case there was "no response" to the request.

Private hospital operators feel their dispute isn't with the municipalities, which became involved in the court battle because of what Shepherd called "technical legalities," but with the province which has remained firmly aloof.

Man Sent To Trial

DUNCAN — A Duncan man was committed for trial in provincial court Thursday on a charge of wounding with intent to cause bodily harm.

Provincial Court Judge Eric Winch made the decision following a two-day preliminary hearing at Duncan for 20-year-old Gannang Thom.

The charge against Thom resulted from an incident May 5 when Debra Ann Painter, 18, also of Duncan, was injured at a Duncan retail business where Thom was employed.

No date has been set for the trial.

Dealers Visit Nanaimo

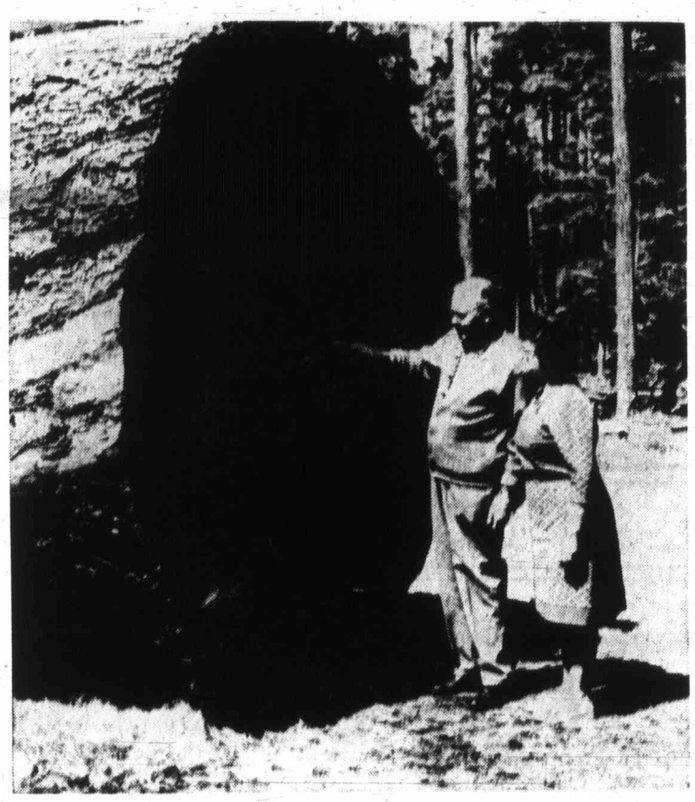

NANAIMO — Nearly 300 B.C. car dealers and their wives began to arrive in Nanaimo Wednesday night for the 28th annual meeting of the Motor Dealers Association of B.C.

Thursday was a fun day as delegates, their wives and people from associated businesses, entered golf tournaments and a salmon derby.

President R. A. Johnston will address delegates this morning. Rehabilitation minister Philip Gaglardi is also due to speak.

On Saturday morning R. A. Hadfield, superintendent of motor vehicles, and K. G. Dale of the Motor Dealers' Association are expected to discuss the Motor Vehicles Act, insurance, inspection and consumer protection.

Joint Council Talks

Swim Pool Surfaces At Duncan

DUNCAN—The dormant swimming pool issue was brought back to life at a joint Duncan-North Cowichan councils' meeting Thursday night at Duncan city hall.

Both councils re-affirmed "the principle of a swimming pool" and they will instruct their respective recreation commissions to go ahead with the formation of a swimming pool study committee.

Moore pointed out that his society holds $68,000 in trust and he expressed concern about lack of direction and action following the defeat of a $400,000 swimming pool money bylaw in April, 1970.

The society began a fund-raising drive in September 1969.

Moore suggested that the swimming pool study committee should have three members from North Cowichan recreation commission, three members from the Duncan commission, two members of Cowichan Op-Rec Society and possibly representatives from the public.

The two councils also decided to inform D. R. McRae, executive secretary of Cowichan Regional Safety Council, that the local governments were not in favor of the safety council's suggestion to introduce licensing of cycles.

McRae also will be advised to direct his request to Cowichan Valley Regional Board. He had stated in a letter that cycle licensing would be a theft deterrent and would also enhance cycle safety because parents would be made aware of "their responsibility to ensure their child knows traffic regulations respecting cycles and complies when in traffic."

North Cowichan Mayor Gerry Smith pointed out that Duncan and North Cowichan areas border on unorganized areas over which the local governments have no jurisdiction.

Duncan Mayor Jim Quaife thought because "bicycles are piling up in every police station across the country" bicycle licensing might be the first step to overcome that problem.

Councils also discussed a feasibility study on services which was completed in November.

Cost of the study was $9,600 of which North Cowichan paid two-thirds and Duncan the balance. One of several items aired was a proposed public safety building and Duncan representatives stated they were not in a position now to contribute to a new public safety building.

Smith stated he had heard that renovation of the present police station at Duncan would cost between $100,000 and $120,000 and that North Cowichan was not interested in spending money on a facility which would be outdated in about 15 years.

He also thought Duncan police station did not conform to the National Building Code. Quaife said if North Cowichan wanted to go ahead with a new public safety building in the municipality the city would retain its own RCMP department.

It was suggested that in perhaps five years, policing would become a regional responsibility.

Hydro Electricians Continue Campaign

Jordan River could become one of the major targets in the hit-and-run strike program launched two days ago by B.C. Hydro electricians.

The strike, which began in Burnaby, moved to Jordan River and Williams Lake Thursday. The 15 men who stayed off the job at Williams Lake were expected to return today, but there were hints thatthis wouldn't be the case at Jordan River.

Twenty men working at the dam site and on line construction were reportedly going to stay off the job. There was also an unconfirmed report they might start picketing the nearby generating station project — a move that would halt work by other tradesmen.

During the first two days of the strike the electricians, members of Local 258, International brotherhood of Electrical Workers, simply withdrew their labor. They did not resort to picketing and other tradesmen were not affected.

The union believes that a total strike by the 2,000 men involved would quickly bring a return-to-work order under terms of the B.C. Mediation Act and compulsory arbitration from the controversial B.C. Mediation Commission.

Yet, IBEW business agent Doug Cronk said Thursday a total strike "is always possible."

Cronk said from his Vancouver office there was also a chance the rotating strike system would increase in momentum.

"A total strike would no doubt bring a back-to-work order from the government and I'm being asked these days whether our people would go back to work. I don't know. We will make that decision at the time.

"Our people are in no mood to make such a decision right now."

Cronk finds fault with the fact that all the attention is being focused on possible government action and none on the possibility of independent mediation — something that has been proposed by the union.

"Nobody — including the labor minister — seems to be concerned about halting the strike, but only when Bill 33 (the mediation act) is going to be used. I find that a very sick attitude," he said.

He points out that in 60 years of dealing with power authorities in B.C., the IBEW has waged only one other strike. That was in 1957 when electric power was operated by B.C. Electric.

"We have had one of the best labor-management relationships over the years," Cronk said. "Our problem has only come about since that legislation (Bill 33) was introduced."

Hydro says the union has asked for too much — 29½ per cent over two years — and that this is the only reason settlement hasn't been reached.

However, the union stys it lowered its demands to an 18½ per cent wage hike over two years before final talks ended last week. The current rate for a lineman is $5.39 an hour.

Hydro offered more than this — 21.75 per cent. But it would be over three years instead of two.

More Outpatients

Hospital

PORT ALBERNI — Outpatient services continue to rise at West Coast General Hospital, with visits to the end of April up to 7,821, an increase of 41 over the same four months of 1970.

A total of 358 patients were admitted during April, and there were 56 births. The administrator's report showed an average of 82.5 patients per day and 11.6 newborn babies per day, down from 88.1 and 14.9 last April.

Because of an increase in the per diem rate, retroactive to January 1 the hospital ended up with a surplus of $6,061 in that period compared with a deficit of $60,595

Dancers End Season

SALT SPRING ISLAND — Salty Wheels Salt Spring Island's square dance club, held their second annual seafood smorgasbord to wind up the winter season recently.

Almost two hundred square dancing enthusiasts came from all over Vancouver Island to attend, the furthest from Vernon, Sechelt, Nanaimo, and several from clubs in Victoria.

They began exactly at eight-thirty, and from then on, concentrated attention to the expert calling of Doug Anderson, of Nanaimo.

Almost completely filling the Fulford Hall with their sets, it was an unforgettable sight for spectators to see the fully-flared skirts of the beautiful dresses as they twirled around in the intricate figures.

Filling in for president Bob Prest of Salty Wheels was the president - elect Ted Coombes, who welcomed all the dancers, and thanked the caller for his untiring efforts during the fun-filled evening.

Dancers then sat down to a seafood smorgasbord, which had been prepared by members of the club. Salmon, cod, shrimp, oysters, and excellent clam chowder were all enjoyed by the happy crowd. Square dance enthusiasts were all invited back to the next annual square dance at Salt Spring, on May 27, 1972.

C.D. on Show At Gold River

GOLD RIVER — Civil Defence personnel, vehicles and equipment from Nanaimo visited Gold River recently.

Dave Cornish, Civil Defence co-ordinator for Gold River area, said the visit was primarily for residents to see some of the equipment and resources available.

Personnel from Nanaimo included T. D. MacAulay, co-ordinator for Nanaimo and Powell River zone, which includes most regions north of Nanaimo and south to Ladysmith; Nanaimo sector co-ordinator, A. J. Pritchard, and Betty Yon who looks after emergency feeding under the welfare section.

Gold River civil Defence organization, volunteer fire department, search and rescue personnel and health and welfare committee members examined vehicles and attended discussions.

Cornish said: "We have a better mental picture now of what we can get hold of in the event of a prolonged emergency that would warrant this type of equipment."

The equipment is available for training purposes and Cornish hopes to be able to use the rescue van for a training session.

Summer Program

College Music Given Money

NANAIMO—Under the Opportunities for Youth program, $28,000 has been awarded by the secretary of state department to Malaspina College for a major music program.

Bruce More, college music director, will act in an advisory capacity as administrative head of the program and Howard Mar will be manager and co-ordinator. Dr. John Lewis will do all band work.

The program will provide summer employment for eight fourth year or graduate music students from across the province.

More said final choices were being made and some of the candidates are excellent — "I would say the top students in the province."

A grant of a few hundred dollars will also be given 50 secondary school students who will be taking part.

More said two main purposes of the program were to lose the gap between high school and college music courses and to give in-service teaching experience to the graduate music students.

A side-benefit will be summer band concerts around Nanaimo and several island communities. More said he guessed they would be able to start concerts in the third week of July.

He said it was the first large scale summer music program the college had had.

Poison Risk Stressed

NANAIMO — Dr. P. J. Reynolds, medical director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, has issued a warning against picking and eating wild mushrooms.

Nobody should pick mushrooms for consumption without first positively identifying them as being non-poisonous, he said.

Dr. Reynolds said that four boys were taken ill after eating mushrooms recently gathered and cooked in a public park near Parksville.

Average stay for adults and children and newborns dropped to 6.2 and 6 days respectively, bringing the average to date to 6.8 and 6.5, close to last year's average. This was considered very good, the administrator assured board members.

Two vacancies were reported on the nursing staff, but these will be filled shortly. Numerous applications have been received from new graduates, and there will be a full staff when the new wing opens in the fall.

Attorney-General Mitchell, Nixon, Hoover

Hoover Blackballs High-Level Police

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI director J. Edgar Hoover blackballed two prominent police authorities as guests at a White House conference with President Nixon Thursday on what the American government can do about the recent rash of of police assassinations. —51 this year.

The two are Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and a former assistant FBI director who has feuded with Hoover for years, and Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy of New York City.

Murphy said the reported White House explanation that he was not invited because he was not a police chief was "simply incredible."

"It was with disappointment and dismay that I learned that the appearance of police of the greatest city in the world — confronted by a major problem of violence by guns — was not wanted at the Washington conference," he said at police headquarters in New York.

"We cannot allow political considerations to hinder cooperative efforts to improve the safety of our police officers and the public," Murphy said.

Tamm was quoted by Scripp-Howard newspapers as saying the two were not invited by Hoover, who drew up the guest list at Nixon's request, because of the FBI director's personal animosity. Hoover, said Tamm, was "playing politics with policemen's lives."

Nixon, Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell met for nearly two hours in the White House cabinet room with 19 officials of the IACP, the National Sheriff's Association, police chiefs from Washington, D.C., Chicago, Kansas City, Mo., Boston, Los Angeles City and County, the states of Texas and New York, and ranking members of the house and senate judiciary committees.

Mitchell told newsmen afterwards that Nixon announced he would ask congress to authorize payment of $50,000 to each slain policeman's family, and that Hoover outlined federal resources available to local police departments in coping with the problem.

Spokesmen for the law enforcement officers expressed appreciation for Nixon's concern but agreed that police slayings were a local matter which federal agencies should enter only on request. Mitchell noted that local authorities "would prefer to handle such cases as local crimes."

'Revive Hanging'

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Western Canada's police chiefs called Thursday for a return to hanging for all murders.

Delegates to the 16th annual conference of the Western Canada Chiefs of Police Association passed a formal resolution favoring capital punishment for all cases of premediated murder.

A five-year trial period under which only the killers of policemen or prison guards are liable to capital punishment expires at the end of 1972.

New Soviet Warship Enters North Sea

COPENHAGEN (AP) — A new type of Soviet warship described as the Soviet Union's "secret Baltic Sea weapon" passed through Danish waters today into the North Sea and was photographed by the Copenhagen tabloid B.T.

The newspaper said the picture was taken by one of its photographers from a small plane over the 34,000-ton vessel as it headed north from the Baltic Sea into the Great Belt.

Official sources said Western intelligence has suspected for some time that the new warship, which combines missiles with conventional weapon has been operating in the eastern parts of the Baltic. This is the first time one of them has been reported venturing onto the high seas.

On Gagnon

Security Report Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minster Trudeau Thursday denied a suggestion by Robert Thompson (PC—Red Deer) that a comprehensive security report on Jean-Louis Gagnon, director-general of Information Canada, was recently prepared for the cabinet.

But Thompson then read in the Commons what he said was a March 12 letter signed by Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford saying such a report had been drawn up for use of the cabinet.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux cut off the exchange, saying Trudeau could give the explanation demanded by Thompson today.

Thompson said Trudeau had given the Commons "misinformation." He quoted Basford, who was not in the House, as saying the report for cabinet could not be made public.

After opposition questioning in the Commons more than a year ago, Trudeau said he would ask the RCMP to make a new security check on Gagnon.

He told the Commons later that the check had cleared Gagnon.

He said Thursday that he received the security report himself and that "There wts nothing in this case to look at with alarm."

Trudeau said there was no such report. The matter had not been discussed in cabinet for more than a year.

Gagnon after his appointment to Information Canada told a Commons committee that he had supported the Loyalist cause in Spain the the late 1930s and a Soviet-Canada friendship committee in the 1940s.

New Postal Service

Not Fast... But Reliable

Starting next Monday, residents of the Victoria area can be certain their outgoing first class mail will be delivered at specified times to most major Canadian centres.

That's when the post office's Assured Mail Program goes into effect here. (See also Page 24.)

Announcement of the program was made Wednesday by R. F. Reid, postal director for B.C. and Yukon districts.

He told a Victoria press conference:

"This is not a speed-up program. The emphasis is placed on reliability so that first class mail will be delivered on certain days if it is posted within specified times."

He explained that first class mail posted in any box in the Victoria area before 10:30 a.m. will be assured next-day delivery service to this district and the following centres: Calgary, Edmonton, Kamloops, Kelowna, Penticton, Regina, Saskatoon, Vancouver, Vernon, Winnipeg.

Next-day delivery will also be provided for other major centres on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland. First-class mail to Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and most other major centres in Eastern Canada will receive second-day delivery.

Mail posted after 10:30 a.m. but before 2:30 p.m. in the new striped post boxes is assured next-day delivery service to Vancouver, Victoria and other major centres on Vancouver Island and in the Lower Mainland.

There are 360 post boxes in Greater Victoria and 102 of them will be striped.

The usual red boxes, located in residential areas, will offer the 10:30 a.m. deadline only.

The striped boxes, located on main thoroughfares, in most shopping centres, in front of sub-post offices and major office buildings, will offer both the 10:30 a.m. and the 2:30 p.m. deadlines for assured mail. Mail picked up after 2:30 p.m. will be processed in the normal fashion.

Reid said that by encouraging earlier mailings, the post office is able to shift peak periods forward to coincide with major transportation schedules.

Reid said that Victoria is the sixth city to implement the program. Other cities which are operating under the program include Vancouver, Winnipeg, and Calgary.

"By 1972 the assured mail program should apply to most cities in Canada," Reid said.

The press conference was told that registered mail was not considered part of the assured mail program, "but it is possible that if it was mailed in time, it could make it."

Reid said the assured mail program does not indicate an increase in rates for first class mail.

Leeds Wins Fairs Cup

LEEDS, England (CP) — Leeds United of England tied, 1-1, with Juventus of Turin on Thursday night and won the European Fairs Cup soccer trophy on goals aggregate.

The teams had tied 2-2 in the first leg in Turin last week. That gave Leeds the edge, since away goals count double when the aggregate scores are level.

Hornets Plan First Drills

Saanich Chew Excavating Hornets, reigning B.C. juvenile champions, will begin workouts Sunday in preparation for the upcoming Vancouver Island Canadian Juvenile Football League season.

All boys 19 years of age and under, are welcome to attend the session, beginning at 10:30 a.m. at Glanford Park.

'We Should Do Something...'

"I think we should do something about these guys," said Victoria mayor Courtney Haddock at a meeting Thursday of the city's Group A committee.

"Skinheads is what I call them," he added referring to a handful of young people who can be seen frequently on the streets and squares of Victoria chanting in Sanskrit.

The mayor related to the committee his feelings about "these skinheads who keep jingling and singing all day."

He said he had been in touch with Charles Barber of Victoria Cool-Aid "to see if he can do something about the situation."

The chanters, he said, disturbed Victoria citizens and should be stopped from chanting, at least in public.

"Charles Barber (of Victoria Cool-Aid) deals with all kinds of people; maybe he can convince these guys not to bother the public," he said.

But the mayor's way of handling the matter didn't meet with the approval of Ald. Robert Baird.

"With respect, Mr. Mayor, you are off on the wrong start altogether. I can't for the life of me find any connection between Cool-Aid and these people," he said.

"How would you handle it?" Haddock asked.

"I would invite them to my office and have a chat with them," Baird replied.

The mayor, however, said he would first try his approach.

"If it doesn't work, we'll try yours," he said.

Later, in an interview with the Colonist, when asked why the East Indian originated sect has its members chanting in the streets of Victoria, a sect spokesman said, "We are chanting the names of God in Sanskrit because we want people to become God-conscious and peaceful."

He said there are 10 members of the sect in Victoria and their teacher, A. C. Bhaktivedanta has asked them to go out onto the streets to chant.

He said members shave their heads as a sign of submission to their teacher and to God, but leave one lock so God can grab onto the lock.

When told of Mayor Haddock's views, the spokesman said," I have never met the gentleman but our purpose is to create a peaceful atmosphere when we are chanting.

"We hope we are not offending anyone, and if so, I openly apologize for all of us."

He said, "Even if we create anxiety, we must continue because it is a matter of life and death with us if we do not chant and glorify God."

Hydro Dispute

Strike May Hurt At Jordan River

Jordan River could become one of the major targets in the hit-and-run strike program launched two days ago by B.C. Hydro electricians.

The strike, which began in Burnaby, moved to Jordan River and Williams Lake Thursday. The 15 men who stayed off the job at Williams Lake were expected to return today, but there were hints that this wouldn't be the case at Jordan River.

Twenty men working at the dam site and on line construction were reportedly going to stay off the job. There was also an unconfirmed report they might start picketing the nearby generating station project — a move that would halt work by other tradesmen.

During the first two days of the strike the electricians, members of Local 258, International brotherhood of Electrical Workers, simply withdrew their labor. They did not resort to picketing and other tradesmen were not affected.

The union believes that a total strike by the 2,000 men involved would quickly bring a return-to-work order under terms of the B.C. Mediation Act and compulsory arbitration from the controversial B.C. Mediation Commission.

Yet, IBEW business agent Doug Cronk said Thursday a total strike "is always possible."

Cronk said from his Vancouver office there was also a chance the rotating strike system would increase in momentum.

"A total strike would no doubt bring a back-to-work order from the government and I'm being asked these days whether our people would go back to work. I don't know. We will make that decision at the time.

"Our people are in no mood to make such a decision right now."

Cronk finds fault with the fact that all the attention is being focused on possible government action and none on the possibility of independent mediation — something that has been proposed by the union.

"Nobody — including the labor minister — seems to be concerned about halting the strike, but only when Bill 33 (the mediation act) is going to be used. I find that a very sick attitude," he said.

He points out that in 60 years of dealing with power authorities in B.C., the IBEW has waged only one other strike. That was in 1957 when electric power was operated by B.C. Electric.

"We have had one of the best labor-management relationships over the years," Cronk said. "Our problem has only come about since that legislation (Bill 33) was introduced."

Hydro says the union has asked for too much — 29½ per cent over two years — and that this is the only reason settlement hasn't been reached.

However, the union says it lowered its demands to an 18½ per cent wage hike over two years before final talks ended last week. The current rate for a lineman is $5.39 an hour.

Organized labor in B.C. opposes Bill 33 because of its compulsory features.

Hydro offered more than this — 21.75 per cent. But it would be over three years instead of two.

Hydro says it is not depending on government action as the union charges.

Complete power failures aren't likely because of the strike, according to Cronk. He said B.C. Hydro's operation is more automated then even that in Ontario and that in many cases a supervisor sitting in an office could keep the power flowing at some distant point.

Nevertheless, power knocked out by storms, traffic accidents and other means would create much more of a difficulty for supervisory personnel, he said.

The union had offered to return to the job in the case of an emergency — something involving danger to human life — but Cronk said Hydro had not yet accepted that offer.

Incinerators, Collection Available

Paper Disposal Still Possible

By NANCY BROWN

Victoria area residents don't have to be stuck with piles of old newspapers in their basements or attics.

While outlets for large quantities of waste paper, such as the Boy Scouts, Salvation Army and Goodwill stores, are no longer taking the paper because of marketing difficulties, municipal garbage collection services and backyard incinerator burning are immediate alternatives.

In Victoria, itself, a ban on backyard incinerators is expected to come into force at the end of this month.

Meanwhile the answer to what to do with newspapers and other paper garbage is simple — place it in the garbage can and it will be transported to the sanitary land fill dump on Hartland Road, used by all municipalities.

City engineer James Garnett told the Colonist Thursday there is no limit to the number of garbage cans that will be picked up from Victoria residences, provided they are standard size containers, and that each is properly filled, not partially full.

He said, too, that there is no ban on putting paper garbage in with other garbage.

Garnett also pointed out that once a bylaw under consideration becomes effective, there will be an end to all burning of paper in city incinerators.

The bylaw puts a total ban on incinerator burning through June, July and August, and allows only leaves and foliage to be burnt in incinerators at other times.

Garnett said the bylaw has not yet been passed and he doesn't expect it to become effective until the end of Jun.

Burning of paper is allowed in the other three core municipalities, and in all three papers can be mixed with other garbage for collection.

In Esquimalt, according to Mayor Art Young, incinerator burning is allowed early in the morning between sunrise and 10 a.m., provided that neither smoke pollution nor offensive odors result.

At the same time the municipality is studying the problems of newspaper disposal.

"If the newspapers are in the garbage can, we have no choice but to accept them," he said.

"What we are wondering is if we should pick them up if they are left bundled beside the can, or if we should open the municipal yard once a week so that householders can bring in their papers."

In Saanich the subject is completely open.

According to Ald. Edith Gunning the garbage collectors will pick up a maximum of two standard-size garbage cans from each household regardless of contents.

There is no bylaw covering incinerator operation, she said, although burning is sometimes banned by the fire department during dry summer months.

In Oak Bay the householder also has a choice of disposal methods for his newspapers.

He can burn them provided he doesn't do it on Sundays — or he can put them in the garbage can for pickup.

The problem of disposal of paper hasn't arisen in the past when Scout paper drives and such places as the Salvation Army were glad to accept stacks of paper.

The papers used to be sold to two recycling plants — one in Port Angeles which closed in January, and one in Burnaby which has enough paper from Mainland sources.

Hong Kong Charter

Victorians Among Stranded

At least two Victoria area residents were among a large group of Canadians stranded in Hong Kong Thursday because a charter flight which was to have taken them home did not arrive.

The Canadian government has intervened in the case of the 190 Canadian tourists, Mike Lemmon, Canadian Pacific's Airline's Hong Kong manager said.

Lemmon said the government has directed CP Air to offer lower fares from Hong Kong to Vancouver for those stranded passengers waiting to return home.

In Vancouver, it was learned that the flight was arranged by a recently-formed company known as International Charters but the manager of the company could not be reached for comment.

"They solicited every Oriental household on Vancouver Island, but nobody seems to know anything about this outfit," Mar said. He said he knows of at least two persons from the Victoria area who went on the charter flight to Hong Kong from Seattle.

However, he said he could not identify them.

CP Air is offering to fly the passengers, about 80 per cent of whom are Chinese living in Canada, back to Vancouver for the authorized amount of $300 instead of the normal tourist class fare of $477, Lemmon said.

The spokesman for International Charters in Hong Kong refused to give details of refunds offered some of the passengers or to say if a charter flight is expected in Hong Kong soon to fly the remaining people back to Canada.

It is believed that most or all of those obtaining refunds are planning to return to Canada on scheduled flights.

The spokesman said most of the people are Chinese living in "all parts of Canada who have been visiting relatives in Hong Kong.

Another 180 people preparing to join a second charter flight to Hong Kong from Seattle were informed that the flight had been postponed.

No reason was given and Chinese community leaders in Vancouver said that people who tried to reach the manager of International Charters to retrieve their money had been unsuccessful.

A secretary at the charter office in Vancouer said her instructions were to tell all callers that the plane had been delayed.

Private Hospitals Air Census Beef

Long versions of the national census forms have been causing plenty of headaches but the problems are mostly unnecessary, according to Clare Thompson, regional census officer for British Columbia.

Some private hospital operators in the Victoria area have complained because patients in each hospital, rest home or hostel were given one of the long forms.

"We have some people here who don't even remember their own names," said Mrs. J. W. Rowbotton at Glenwarren private hospital.

"I don't know how we are expected to find out how many stillborn children they had and things like that."

She said there are 63 patients in the hospital and that she has asked for an interviewer to come to the hospital to get the forms filled in.

At West Bay hospital in Esquimalt where there are 45 patients the story was the same.

"I'm expecting someone from the census to come over here to fill in the forms," said Mrs. M. L. Johnson. "Many of the people here just don't remember the answers to any questions. Some are senile."

"I don't really know why we had to have this long version of the form — we're busy enough here as it is, and we don't have staff people to spare for this kind of thing."

Thompson, however, said it is not necessary for hospital staff to attempt the impossible.

"Every residence with more than 10 unrelated people in it received the long forms," he said.

"We understand the problems of private hospitals caring for senile people, and all the staff have to do is fill in the information they can, and then explain in the section for comments why the forms haven't been completed."

He said there have been other complaints about the census, but people who have phoned the census offices have had questions answered apparently to their own satisfaction.

"I've had some irate phone calls, but people have simmered down once their questions were answered," said Thompson.

He said that of returns arriving at the office, there appears to be little evidence that people are refusing to fill in the form.

He said all information is covered by the Statistics Act, which makes it an offence to reveal any of the information even to a court of law.

Race Made for Spectators

The sea off Beacon Hill Park will be a perfect setting Sunday for waterfront enthusiasts when an expected 100 sailing yachts compete in the Centennial 71 yacht races.

He explained the races would start off Clover Point distance of 21 miles from the at 10 a.m. and will run a starting line out to the Fairways buoy, which is about four miles off Beacon Hill Park, then to Brotchie Ledge and back to Clover Point. The vessels will sail twice around the course.

"The run from Brotchie Ledge to Clover Point should be a good spinnaker run," McVie said, and added the races should be an "excellent marine show right off Beacon Hill Park."

He said there is no entry fee for any of the races and the entry deadline is 5 p.m. Saturday at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

"You don't have to belong to any yacht club to take part in the races," he said.

Vandalism Topic

Vandalism and arson will be among the topics discussed at a conference of the School Plant Officials Association of B.C. being held at the University of Victoria Tuesday to next Friday.

Joseph Phillipson, B.C. deputy education minister, will give the keynote address during another session of the conference. Community use of schools will also be discussed by delegates.

30 Crewmen Jump Cruise Liner

They're Flying Home To U.K.

By DON COLLINS

They were very young—some of them only boys.

And minutes before they had been standing there on the dock at Ogden Point, hollering and giving victory signs and demonstrating a goodly amount of bravado.

● Cyclists won $1,600 race, which cost them $3,700. Page 16

But now most of them had grown momentarily quiet. Reality was setting in.

Their ship really was leaving without them.

And there they were, 30 young British crew members from the Alaska cruise ship, the P & O liner Arcadia, illegally on strike and illegally in Canada.

It was a moment for big decisions.

"Gee, I guess I'll phone my mum," a teenager among them said. "She'll be so worried when the news reaches England."

Today, if all goes according to plan, the 30 will reach England themselves.

The warning from their captain that they might be charged as deserters never materialized.

"We certainly would want to avoid that," a spokesman for the Canadian immigration department said as the liner disappeared from the harbor en route to San Francisco.

Fly Home Today

With the help of the immigration department, P & O assistant branch manager Ray Graves of Vancouver found accommodation for the strikers in the Vancouver Seamen's Mission overnight.

He also arranged to fly them home today.

There was a question about who would pay for the flight. But even the strikers seemed to think it would come out of their pay at some future date.

Where Victoria was concerned, that was pretty well the end to an event that no one could really mistake for Mutiny on the Bounty.

But it was colorful while it lasted — full of militant talk, fun-making, a little singing, a murmured threat or two and some honest doubts.

'Bad Conditions'

Some 40 men walked off the ship Thursday afternoon — most of them dining room waiters with a scattering of bell boys — saying they were striking because of bad conditions.

They gave one official reason for their strike — the refusal of their demand for two hours of blanket overtime each day.

They are members of the National Union of Seamen in Britain, and while they make up such a small part of a 740-man crew, there was a possibility there absence would create problems for the big liner.

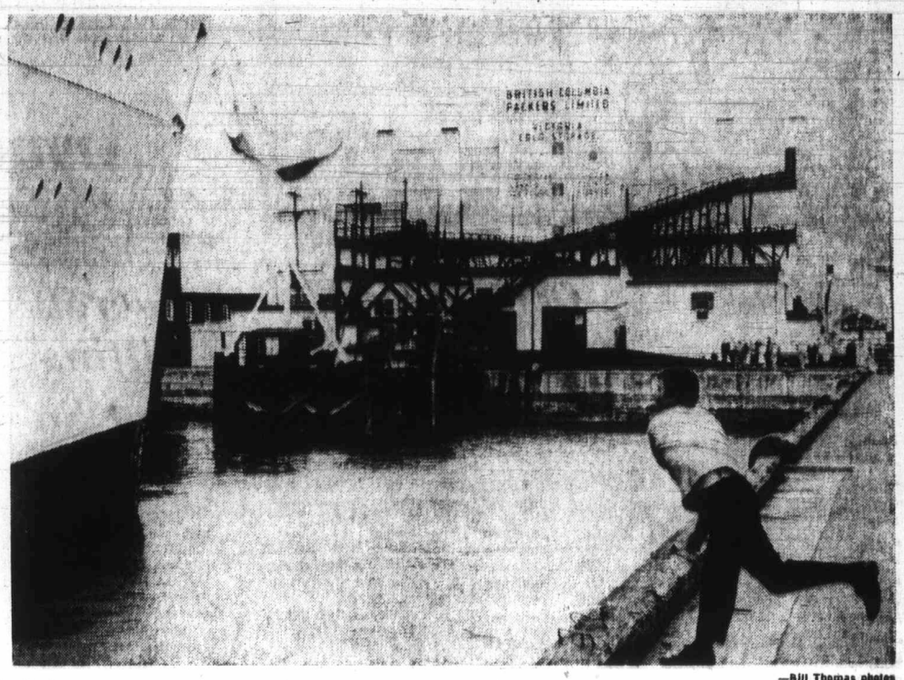

'They Won't'

Only six returned to the ship after the warning about possible desertion charges. They might have almost 900 passengers to serve in two dining rooms.

Much depended on whether another 50 waiters from what used to be Portuguese Goa — now part of India — would serve the passengers.

To Clarify Soviet Aims

NATO Mission To East Urged

● NATO meets amid bomb blasts. Page 14

LISBON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp called Thursday for the appointment of an individual envoy to Eastern Europe by the NATO alliance to seek clarification of recent Soviet proposals for talks on East-West troop reductions.

Sharp told a news conference following the first day of a two-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers that Canada has no particular views on who should serve as envoy but he added he would be happy with the choice of retiring NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio.

He said the Russians had refused to spell out details of their proposal to Prime Minister Trudeau who discussed troop reductions during a recent visit to the Soviet Union.

Canada would not oppose a recommendation by U.S. State Secretary William Rogers and West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel that a special NATO meeting of deputy foreign ministers be called in several months to discuss the troop reduction issue in greater detail.

Canada's permanent representative to NATO, Ross Campbell, told the news conference France is opposed to the idea of East-West talks on mutual troop reductions and would not participate in such discussions.

Sources said French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann told the meeting efforts should be concentrated on trying to remove basic causes of conflict in Europe before talks on troop reductions.

Sources indicate that the French have been extremely skeptical toward the Russian proposals. France has no part in NATO military planning but may fear that its nuclear forces could be affected by any East-West agreement on force reductions.

Police Find Suspect Really Marked Man

"Are you sick?"

"I am sick," replied Walther, "I've got the chickpox."

The policeman, who had never had the disease, now is waiting at home to see if he caught it — and other officers are trying to decide how to fumigate the two squad cars in which the suspect rode.

Wage Dispute Reaction

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Victoria police union members are expressing unhappiness over their wage dispute with the city by "working to the rules," a spokesman for the union confirmed Thursday.

Spokesman Kenneth Horsman told the Colonist: "The members of the union have decided to provide a service according to the rules, which you might call working according to the rules. The decision was made at their own discretion. The executive had no bearing in this whatsoever."

The statement confirmed a Colonist story of last Sunday which said police had changed the emphasis of their law enforcement away from arrests and on to warnings since about noon Wednesday, May 26.

It was at that time that it became known the city had offered police a 7½-per-cent pay increase over the next year and the union representatives who received the offer at a meeting that morning had rejected it.

Horsman said he was "not prepared at this time to interpret the meaning of the phrase 'according to the rules'."

However, he added: "I can possibly say one of the areas you might expect the members to act is they would not expose themselves to unnecessary dangers, as they often do, in order to exercise an arrest."

He also said the union "is seeing our solicitor this weekend to find out what our legal standing would be in some of the areas suggested by our members."

Horsman declined comment on how members might decline to expose themselves to danger, and on what other areas of working to the rules had been suggested.

Other sources indicated the

Suddenly, Mass Exodus

CARACUS, Venezuela (UPI) — A venturesome cow Thursday strayed from a hill onto the roof of a small church and fell through to break up a mass being held at the time.

The crash and accompanying noise panicked churchgoers who fled into the street. The main altar of the church was destroyed but the animal escaped injury.

Foreign Money Taps Stay On—with 'Care'

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Energy Minister J. J. Greene apologized in advance Wednesday for giving a speech he had not seen until a short while earlier.

But, he told a petroleum association meeting, he would stick to the text.

"We have a new policy in Ottawa. All speeches must be delivered to the prime minister for clearance in case there is any anti-Russian or anti-American content.

"But I can say one thing — anybody who thinks we do not need more foreign capital than we have had in the past doesn't understand the Canadian economy."

Formerly, Canada accepted United States capital on the basis "all wen want is your money and we don't care how you develop our resources.

"Now we are saying we care."

The government is awaiting the results of studies before imposing strict rules on the acceptance of foreign capital, he told the petroleum society of the Canadian institute of mining and metallurgy.

"In a short time we'll start making decisions.

Defence Budget Jumps in Egypt

United Press International

Egypt unveiled a record-breaking $1.5 billion defence budget Thursday, 24 per cent of its total expenditures for the coming year. Israel, apparently fearful of the new Soviet-Egyptian "friendship" pact, sought U.S. assurances of continued arms supplies, Jerusalem sources said.

Egyptian Finance Minister Abdel Aziz Hijazi told a Cairo news conference the $1,560 billion allocation "to continue supporting demands of the battle and national security needs" for fiscal 1971-72 exceeded last year's figure by $175 million and was included in a total budget of $6,486 billion. The budget will go to parliament June 12.

By comparison, the Israeli defence budget is 39 per cent of its total spending; that of the United States is 32.1 per cent.

Political sources in Amman said Jordan's King Hussein gave the green light to a new crackdown on guerrillas when he said in a letter to Premier Wasfi Tel, "We wish our stand in the face of these people to be strict and decisive, without hesitation, forgiveness or bargaining."
